DR. PRITCHETT of the Carnegie Foundation, reports to Dr. Butler of Columbia, that Zionism in Palestine cannot be a success. Industry cannot be made profitable, and bringing in many Jews annoys the Arabs, so says Dr. Pritchett.

TOO bad to annoy Arabs, but Dr. Pritchett must know that Jews owned Palestine long ago, and are taking back their own.

Money, intelligence, energy and will power work wonders. The Jews possess all four and will use them.

Arabs outnumber Jews 10 to 1 in Palestine. Jews outweigh the Arabs 1,000 to 1 when it comes to thinking, and thinking is what counts, not numbers.

DEFENSE OPENS FIGHT TO TEAR DOWN OIL LAND FRAUD COUNT

Senator Walsh of Montana is Last Government Witness.

HE READS LETTER

W. J. Lambert, Chief of Fall's Counsel, Begins Argument.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2--The government rested its case today against Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate, on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of naval oil reserves.

Explanation of $100,000 Loan.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, chief government counsel, brought the government's case to a close soon after the trial opened this morning, and the defense then began its effort to tear down the federal indictment of the two "old prospectors."

The last government witness was Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, who took the stand to present a letter he had received from Fall during the senate investigation three years ago, in which the cabinet official declared E. B. McLean, wealthy publisher had loaned him the $100,000 under scrutiny, although the checks to that amount were never cashed. Fall wrote further he was too ill to answer a subpoena to appear before the senate investigators.

"I can assure you that the loan was not from Mr. Sinclair (H. F. Sinclair, the oil operator) or any one connected with the Teapot Dome or any other lease," Fall had written.

With this parting shot into the vitals of the defense, Roberts and Pomerene, rested and Wilton J. Lambert, chief of Fall's counsel, launched into his opening argument to the jury.

Cites Absence From Washington.

Lambert was entitled to open at this late date because the defendants have separate counsel. Frank Hogan, first Doheny attorney, had addressed the jury at the outset of the trial when Roberts did likewise for the government.

Lambert concentrated his early fire on establishing with the jury that Fall was out of Washington while the oil leases and contracts in question were being negotiated. He cited that the former secretary was away July 1, 1921, to October 17, 1921; from Oct. 25 to 28, 1921; from December 1, 1921, to January 27, 1922; from April 13 to May 16, 1922, and from Oct. 8 to Nov. 27, 1922.

The Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage bids were opened April 15, 1922, and the contract, which stipulated that the Doheny interests were to get leases in the naval reserve at a later date, was awarded on April 25, 1922.

Refers to Denby's Letter.

Referring to the return to the capital of Fall from the trip cited--November 27, 1922—Lambert said:

"He returned just two days before the famous letter of Nov. 29 from the pen of the secretary of the navy (Edwin Denby) which changed the whole aspect of the situation.

"We will introduce this letter for your inspection.

"So, too, we will show you the concurrence of the president of the United States, Warren G. Harding.

"You have heard these government officials who have testified. Other government officials will appear and offer you evidence just as straight forward and just as conclusive."

HEALTH SEAL BOOTH LEADERS NAMED ON EVE OF CAMPAIGN

Christmas Drive Will be Opened Here Tomorrow.

$2,250 IS QUOTA

Seek Funds to Wage Fight Against White Plague.

Christmas seal campaign in East Liverpool will be formally launched tomorrow when booths will be opened in downtown buildings and business houses.

The City Club federation committee, headed by Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman, Mrs. John S. Goodwin, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Larkins, auditor, will seek $2,250 to combat the spread of the white plague. The campaign will close on Christmas day.

Slogan in the drive this year is "For Health and Healthful Living."

The committee today called attention to the educational campaign against tuberculosis which is waged simultaneously with the seal sales. Hundreds of folders and other literature, carrying out the idea of healthful living, will be distributed. This educational work is especially for school children.

To each purchaser of stamps in sums of $1 or more will be presented a button. Bonds in denomination of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100 also will be offered during the campaign.

Eighty per cent of funds collected will be retained for use in the East Liverpool district, the remaining 20 per cent will go to the national organization.

Here is a list of the chairmen for the various booths which will be opened Friday:

MILLION DOLLAR' LEGAL ARRAY POINTS FINGER OF SUSPICION AT MILLS

DENIES RECTOR'S WIFE HAD ANY KNOWLEDGE OF ILLICIT LOVE

Directing Attention to Widower, Attorney Says: "He is Husband Whose Wife Told Him That She Cared More for Finger of Mr. Hall Than She Did for His Whole Body."

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—In impassioned addresses to the jury in the Hall-Mills murder trial, the two "big guns" of the defense, Robert H. McCarter, the senior counsel, and Senator Clarence E. Case, summed up the case of the defense today. Both bitterly assailed the tactics of the prosecution and asserted the absolute innocence of the defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her brothers, Henry and William Stevens.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—Robert H. McCarter, senior counsel for the defense, launched into a bitter attack on Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, when he resumed his summation at the Halls-Mills trial today.

McCarter finished summing up at 10:50 a. m., having talked 40 minutes this morning. His speech to the jury had required two hours and fifty-five minutes.

"I hope, gentlemen of the jury," the distinguished looking dean of the New Jersey bar, said, "that you were not fooled by the theatrical display when this pig woman was brought into the courtroom to testify, placed on a bed and a doctor put on one side and a nurse on the other, to take her temperature and all that kind of nonsense.

"This theatrical display was done to make you believe she was on the point of death. I classify such a display as humbug."

No Levity by Defendants.

McCarter explained that he was not going to speak at any great length about Mrs. Gibson, that his associate, Senator Clarence E. Case, would deal with her thoroughly later. But nevertheless, he, McCarter, had a few things he wanted to say about Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Hall listened to McCarter's booming voice with an air of gravity. She did not smile when others in the courtroom were moved to laughter by any incident taking place in the courtroom. There was no levity shown by Willie or Henry either.

McCarter challenged Simpson to show in the testimony given that Mrs. Hall had any knowledge of the illicit relations between Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills, as the state charged in the opening address.

Mrs. Hall Innocent, He Says.

McCarter demanded to know why James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, was not charged with the murder.

"No one knew the movements of James Mills on the night of the crime,' roared McCarter.

"For more than a month the state has been trying to fasten this crime on Mrs. Hall and her brothers. They have accused Mrs. Hall who did not know of the relations between her husband and Mrs. Mills, without having given any consideration to James Mills, the man who knew of the relations of his wife with Rev. Hall."

McCarter told the intently listening jury that "Mrs. Hall is an innocent of knowledge of this affair as any one of you or I am."

In directing the jury's attention to Mills, McCarter said, "He is the husband whose wife told him she cared

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL COACH GEORGE KIDDER ATTACKS NEWSPAPERS AND CITY'S SERVICE CLUBS IN SPEECH AT KIWANIS NOON LUNCHEON

Service clubs, the press and the public in general were scored for their alleged lack of interest in high school athletics by George Kidder, athletic coach, at today's noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in Larkins' annex.

Kidder charged that the East Liverpool newspaper had devoted as much space to a report of the Chester-New Cumberland Thanksgiving Day game at New Cumberland as had been given the East Liverpool-Wellsville game in East Liverpool. He compared publicity matter given local high school athletics with that extended by the Steubenville papers to the high school team of that city.

"East Liverpool isn't a good football town and a town that isn't for football, isn't a town at all," said Kidder. "The high school team never has been supported here by the papers or the general public and it's a mighty tough job for a high school coach to carry on his work with that kind of support.

"You merchants, who are advertisers, should have some influence with the mouthpiece of the community to bring about the cooperation which the athletic department of your high school justly deserves.

"I realize that I may be heaping hot coals upon my head for some of the things that I have said here today, but I haven't had time to be diplomatic about it. I am voicing my true sentiments with regard to the support which you men and the press have been tendering the high school football team."

Kidder, in his talk, declared that the East Liverpool High school had won six of its nine games this season, which he said he regarded to be "a fairly good record" in the face of things which "had to be contended with." In its nine contests the local gridders made a total of 2,503 yards on opposing teams, the coach declared.

Other guests at the meeting were Prof. William Cox, high school coach, and Captain Dick Larkins of the football team. Neither Cox nor Larkins spoke.

Clarence Cline presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the chorus singing. The principal speaker was Rev. John L. Mauer, pastor of the St. Ann's Catholic church, East End.

"Men are not thinking in this day and age," said the priest. "Ask yourself at night 'How much thinking have I done today?" and if you answer yourself conscientiously you will say 'very little.'

"A man will not love his family, his fellow man nor his country unless he is a thinking man. A man doesn't have to be a philosopher to be a thinking man. No matter what you think about just think. Man is afraid to fight his own battles if he does not think."

"Give me men that appreciate each other and I will give you men that will move the world. Men of this kind represent power."

W. A. Weaver, chairman of the nominating committee, read a list of candidates who have been named for the election which will take place at next week's meeting.

The candidates are:

President—Dr. W. A. Hobbs and C. W. Hendershot.

Second vice-president — John Newell.

Treasurer—C. C. Ashbaugh.

Trustee—Clarence Cline.

Board of Directors (six to elect)—J. W. Finley, F. P. Williams, Harry Hoffman, Charles T. Larkins, Harry Keyes, Frank Swaney, R. C. Benedum, Cyril Taylor, Claude Nease, F. R. O Hanlon, Thompson Andrews and R. G. Thompson.

DEFENSE OPENS FIGHT TO TEAR DOWN OIL LAND FRAUD COUNT

Senator Walsh of Montana is Last Government Witness.

HE READS LETTER

W. J. Lambert, Chief of Fall's Counsel, Begins Argument.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2--The government rested its case today against Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate, on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of naval oil reserves.

Explanation of $100,000 Loan.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, chief government counsel, brought the government's case to a close soon after the trial opened this morning, and the defense then began its effort to tear down the federal indictment of the two "old prospectors."

The last government witness was Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, who took the stand to present a letter he had received from Fall during the senate investigation three years ago, in which the cabinet official declared E. B. McLean, wealthy publisher had loaned him the $100,000 under scrutiny, although the checks to that amount were never cashed. Fall wrote further he was too ill to answer a subpoena to appear before the senate investigators.

"I can assure you that the loan was not from Mr. Sinclair (H. F. Sinclair, the oil operator) or any one connected with the Teapot Dome or any other lease," Fall had written.

With this parting shot into the vitals of the defense, Roberts and Pomerene, rested and Wilton J. Lambert, chief of Fall's counsel, launched into his opening argument to the jury.

Cites Absence From Washington.

Lambert was entitled to open at this late date because the defendants have separate counsel. Frank Hogan, first Doheny attorney, had addressed the jury at the outset of the trial when Roberts did likewise for the government.

Lambert concentrated his early fire on establishing with the jury that Fall was out of Washington while the oil leases and contracts in question were being negotiated. He cited that the former secretary was away July 1, 1921, to October 17, 1921; from Oct. 25 to 28, 1921; from December 1, 1921, to January 27, 1922; from April 13 to May 16, 1922, and from Oct. 8 to Nov. 27, 1922.

The Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage bids were opened April 15, 1922, and the contract, which stipulated that the Doheny interests were to get leases in the naval reserve at a later date, was awarded on April 25, 1922.

Refers to Denby's Letter.

Referring to the return to the capital of Fall from the trip cited--November 27, 1922—Lambert said:

"He returned just two days before the famous letter of Nov. 29 from the pen of the secretary of the navy (Edwin Denby) which changed the whole aspect of the situation.

"We will introduce this letter for your inspection.

"So, too, we will show you the concurrence of the president of the United States, Warren G. Harding.

McCarter, the senior counsel, and Senator Clarence E. Case, summed up the case of the defense today. Both bitterly assailed the tactics of the prosecution and asserted the absolute innocence of the defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her brothers, Henry and William Stevens.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—Robert H. McCarter, senior counsel for the defense, launched into a bitter attack on Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, when he resumed his summation at the Halls-Mills trial today.

McCarter finished summing up at 10:50 a. m., having talked 40 minutes this morning. His speech to the jury had required two hours and fifty-five minutes.

"I hope, gentlemen of the jury," the distinguished looking dean of the New Jersey bar, said, "that you were not fooled by the theatrical display when this pig woman was brought into the courtroom to testify, placed on a bed and a doctor put on one side and a nurse on the other, to take her temperature and all that kind of nonsense.

"This theatrical display was done to make you believe she was on the point of death. I classify such a display as humbug."

No Levity by Defendants.

McCarter explained that he was not going to speak at any great length about Mrs. Gibson, that his associate, Senator Clarence E. Case, would deal with her thoroughly later. But nevertheless, he, McCarter, had a few things he wanted to say about Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Hall listened to McCarter's booming voice with an air of gravity. She did not smile when others in the courtroom were moved to laughter by any incident taking place in the courtroom. There was no levity shown by Willie or Henry either.

McCarter challenged Simpson to show in the testimony given that Mrs. Hall had any knowledge of the illicit relations between Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills, as the state charged in the opening address.

Mrs. Hall Innocent, He Says.

McCarter demanded to know why James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, was not charged with the murder.

"No one knew the movements of James Mills on the night of the crime," roared McCarter.

"For more than a month the state has been trying to fasten this crime on Mrs. Hall and her brothers. They have accused Mrs. Hall who did not know of the relations between her husband and Mrs. Mills, without having given any consideration to James Mills, the man who knew of the relations of his wife with Rev. Hall."

McCarter told the intently listening jury that "Mrs. Hall is an innocent of knowledge of this affair as any one of you or I am."

In directing the jury's attention to Mills, McCarter said, "He is the husband whose wife told him she cared

Textile Strikers' Leader to Speak At Meet Tonight

Albert Weisbord, Passaic, N. J., labor leader, who organized the strike of the 16,000 textile workers in Passaic nearly 10 months ago, will speak in Trades and Labor Council hall, Fifth and Washington streets, at 8 o'clock tonight, under auspices of the local workers' party.

Weisbord, who has managed the strike since it was called on February 15, will discussed the issues which led up to the walkout. An admission fee will go toward the relief of the strikers.

MISSING GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 2—A body, partially identified as that of Clara Olson, missing sweetheart of Erdman Olson, Gale college student, for whom a murder warrant has been issued, was found in a cornfield four miles north of Mount Sterling, Wis., today.

Members of the posse combing the country around the home of the missing girl said they thought it was Clara Olson although, because of decomposition, final indentification was held up pending the arrival of relatives.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL COACH GEORGE KIDDER ATTACKS NEWSPAPERS AND CITY'S SERVICE CLUBS IN SPEECH AT KIWANIS NOON LUNCHEON

Service clubs, the press and the public in general were scored for their alleged lack of interest in high school athletics by George Kidder, athletic coach, at today's noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in Larkins' annex.

Kidder charged that the East Liverpool newspaper had devoted as much space to a report of the Chester-New Cumberland Thanksgiving Day game at New Cumberland as had been given the East Liverpool-Wellsville game in East Liverpool. He compared publicity matter given local high school athletics with that extended by the Steubenville papers to the high school team of that city.

"East Liverpool isn't a good football town and a town that isn't for football, isn't a town at all," said Kidder. "The high school team never has been supported here by the papers or the general public and it's a mighty tough job for a high school coach to carry on his work with that kind of support.

"You merchants, who are advertisers, should have some influence with the mouthpiece of the community to bring about the cooperation which the athletic department of your high school justly deserves.

"I realize that I may be heaping hot coals upon my head for some of the things that I have said here today, but I haven't had time to be diplomatic about it. I am voicing my true sentiments with regard to the support which you men and the press have been tendering the high school football team."

Kidder, in his talk, declared that the East Liverpool High school had won six of its nine games this season, which he said he regarded to be "a fairly good record" in the face of things which "had to be contended with." In its nine contests the local gridders made a total of 2,503 yards on opposing teams, the coach declared.

Other guests at the meeting were Prof. William Cox, high school coach, and Captain Dick Larkins of the football team. Neither Cox nor Larkins spoke.

Clarence Cline presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the chorus singing. The principal speaker was Rev. John L. Mauer, pastor of the St. Ann's Catholic church, East End.

"Men are not thinking in this day and age," said the priest. "Ask yourself at night 'How much thinking have I done today?" and if you answer yourself conscientiously you will say 'very little.'

"A man will not love his family, his fellow man nor his country unless he is a thinking man. A man doesn't have to be a philosopher to be a thinking man. No matter what you think about just think. Man is afraid to fight his own battles if he does not think."

"Give me men that appreciate each other and I will give you men that will move the world. Men of this kind represent power."

W. A. Weaver, chairman of the nominating committee, read a list of candidates who have been named for the election which will take place at next week's meeting.

The candidates are:

President—Dr. W. A. Hobbs and C. W. Hendershot.

Second vice-president — John Newell.

Treasurer—C. C. Ashbaugh.

Trustee—Clarence Cline.

Board of Directors (six to elect)—J. W. Finley, F. P. Williams, Harry Hoffman, Charles T. Larkins, Harry Keyes, Frank Swaney, R. C. Benedum, Cyril Taylor, Claude Nease, F. R. O Hanlon, Thompson Andrews and R. G. Thompson.

Dancing, Danceland Tonite, 25c and 50c.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by C. G. Anderson and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

DRY OFFICIALS TO HOLD PLACES

Official announcement was made yesterday that Henry N. Bradley, federal prohibition director for the northern West Virginia district under the R. A. Fulwiler regime, will be retained by John D. Pennington, the new administrator for West Virginia, since this state has been attached to the western Pennsylvania region for prohibition enforcement.

W. W. Graham, director for the southern district of West Virginia, is also to be retained, with headquarters in Charleston.

No changes in the personnel of either district will be made for the present, it was made known.

Federal Agents George B. Heide, J. J. Doerr and Hobart G. Smith went to Pittsburgh yesterday, in answer to a summons from their new chief, and spent the day in conference with him.

ADVICE GIVEN TO DAIRYMEN

"The future of the dairy business in West Virginia depends on the care given to the calves that will soon become a part of the herds, declares H. A. Rust of dairy husbandry department of the West Virginia college of agriculture.

M. Rust particularly emphasizes sanitation and care at time of birth and proper feeding during the first five or six months. The wideawake dairyman knows when his cows are due to be freshen and provides quiet, clean and warm quarters for calving. Mr. Rust advises that shortly after the cow calves, the naval cord should be clipped about three inches from the body and the remaining portion dipped in iodine. The calf should be left with the cow for the first few days as the colostrum milk given at this time has a very beneficial effect upon the digestive tract of the calf. The calf should be kept in warm, clean dry stall as cold or damp quarters are likely to induce scours or pneumonia.

ELECTORS TO PASS ON BOND ISSUE

Electors of the Chester Independent school district will vote on a proposed $60,000 bond issue for improvements to buildings at a special election to be held on Tuesday, December 14.

Decision to submit the question to a vote of the people was reached at a recent meeting of the board of education.

MINING CONGRESS DELEGATES NAMED

Governor Howard M. Gore yesterday appointed ten delegates to the meeting of the American Mining congress which is to be held at Washington, December 7 to 10. He designated the ten secretaries of the ten mining operators' associations of the state to represent West Virginia at the meeting. The call for the meeting urges a unified system of taxation laws and a uniform mining law for all the states. In addition the cost of production of coal is to be one of the foremost matters to come before the congress.

Those appointed as delegates from West Virginia are D. C. Kennedy, of Charleston; J. W. Colley, of Logan; Stanley Higgins of Mt. Hope; George S. Brackett of Fairmont; J. C. McKinley of Wheeling; W. E. E. Kopler of Bluefield; C. C. Morfitt of Welch; W. H. Cunningham of Huntington; George Brausewine of Williamston, and C. H. Mead of Beckley.

CATTLE BREEDERS TO HOLD SESSION

At the annual meeting of the West Virginia Dairymen's association, a large group of Holstein breeders met and tentatively formed the West Virginia Holstein Breeders association. These men then called a meeting at the Stafford hotel, Parkersburg on December 4 to adopt constitution and by-laws, elect directors from each section of the state, and map out a program for the next year's work.

This meeting is an important one for all Holstein breeders. The newly formed association will form a stable organization since it will receive from the National association half of all the money paid for transferring Holstein cattle in West Virginia.

Yale Seeks $3,500,000 To Endow New Library; Ready in Sept. 1928

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale University is seeking $3,500,000 to endow what is to be the largest and most complete university library in the world. Yale University has plenty of money to build the structure, work on which is now under way here, and there is a fund on hand to maintain the library physically. The $3,500,000 now being gathered is to endow the purchase of books and to maintain a trained staff.

Yale's library, costing a sum not named to a certainty, is to be ready in September, 1928, if builders' plans do not go awry. The structure will house 1,600,000 volumes at the outset, besides 10,000 periodicals coming in from every quarter of the civilized globe.

Two thousand persons will be able to seat themselves to use Yale's library books in comfort when the new place is done, and the various reading rooms will open on a street level. But the books themselves will repose chiefly in a towering structure 192 feet high and 82 feet square, an affair to be named the Book Tower.

To Improve Church Music.

A movement has been started to raise the standard of music in the Church of England to a higher degree of purity and simplicity. Speaking on the subject recently, Bishop West-Watson said: "Some of our hymns are weak and enervating, and 'Jesus Lover of My Soul,' which was popular with the English troops, could be taken as an example. It was found that the theme was almost too personal to be sung about in public." The bishop added that the hymn sung to another tune had a different force and meaning, and that some other hymns had weak words and worthy tunes.

Vienna Muffles Musicians.

Music is all right in its place, but that place is behind closed windows, declares the Friends of Music, a musical organization of Vienna. Nearly everyone in Vienna performs on a musical instrument and during warm weather the din of aspiring stars makes the place terrible for those who work or need peace and quiet, the Friends of Music told the police department in persuading the custodians of the law to make an order compelling people to close windows while playing or be subject to payment of a fine.

Prizes Offered Boys and Girls By American Crayon Company for Best Coloring of This Indian

Boys and Girls!

Here's a chance for you to win a fine prize and at the same time have a lot of fun doing it.

All you have to do is to cut out the Indian head shown here, paste it on a piece of cardboard and then color it with paints or crayons. Then send or take it to the American theatre.

Or you may take a piece of tracing paper and trace the head shown here and then color or paint the tracing.

This is an artist's idea of Chief Rain-in-the-Face, who had a lot to do with the Custer massacre which occurred 50 years ago. This massacre is the big climax in "The Flaming Frontier," the big Universal Picture Company's special production which opens an engagement at the American Theatre Monday.

First prize for the best colored Indian Head consists of a handsome painting and coloring outfit provided by the American Crayon company of Sandusky, Ohio. There are 50 paints and 50 crayons in this box in addition to water pans, brushes and one of the famous American packets for coloring. These sets make fine Christmas presents. Second prize is the same as No. 1, only a little smaller. The ten next best colorings will each receive a ticket to see "The Flaming Frontier." All drawings must be in by Monday noon.

Yale Seeks $3,500,000 To Endow New Library; Ready in Sept. 1928

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale University is seeking $3,500,000 to endow what is to be the largest and most complete university library in the world. Yale University has plenty of money to build the structure, work on which is now under way here, and there is a fund on hand to maintain the library physically. The $3,500,000 now being gathered is to endow the purchase of books and to maintain a trained staff.

Yale's library, costing a sum not named to a certainty, is to be ready in September, 1928, if builders' plans do not go awry. The structure will house 1,600,000 volumes at the outset, besides 10,000 periodicals coming in from every quarter of the civilized globe.

Two thousand persons will be able to seat themselves to use Yale's library books in comfort when the new place is done, and the various reading rooms will open on a street level. But the books themselves will repose chiefly in a towering structure 192 feet high and 82 feet square, an affair to be named the Book Tower.

To Improve Church Music.

A movement has been started to raise the standard of mlusic in the Church of England to a higher degree of purity and simplicity. Speaking on the subject recently, Bishop West-Watson said: "Some of our hymns are weak and enervating, and 'Jesus Lover of My Soul,' which was popular with the English troops, could be taken as an example. It was found that the theme was almost too personal to be sung about in public." The bishop added that the hymn sung to another tune had a different force and meaning, and that some other hymns had weak words and worthy tunes.

Debts And Armament

Armament continues to be a heavy burden on the nations. It is much heavier than the indebtedness to the United States which several nations consider so grievous.

Thus Great Britain's annual appropriation for her army and navy, an American statesman points out, is more than three times her annual payment to the United States. France's appropriations for armament are more than five times as large as the payments arranged in the American debt settlement now pending, and Czecho-Slovakia's are 17 times as large.

Poland could pay her debt to the United States with her military expenditures for two and one-half years. Roumania could pay hers in 16 months.

Americans do not want the other nations to disregard their own safety or to save money on arms for the express purpose of paying it to us. But most Americans are convinced that European governments are still spending a good deal more money on armament than is necessary or wise, and would be glad to see futher reductions all around, in the interest of both economy and peace.

Inland Water Traffic

The railroad traffic in this country is so tremendous that in comparison the water traffic seems dwarfed, and is often ignored. Figures just made public by the shipping board show this traffic to be really of amazing volume, particularly on the Great Lakes.

Altogether 210,300,000 cargo tons of freight passed through the Great Lakes ports in 1925, and it is expected that this total will be surpassed in the present year.

Duluth, with a record of 45,600,000 tons for the season of 1925, ranks second to to New York among American ports. Fifteen other lake ports each handled more than 5,000,000 tons of freight.

Our salt water seaports are inclined to belittle the fresh water traffic, though it is far greater than seacoast traffic. Last year the cargoes passing through the lake ports included 82 per cent of all the coast traffic in the United States.

These facts will doubtless have considerable effect in persuading congress, this winter, to take seriously the growing demand for further expansion of internal waterways. The Great Lakes traffic might be far greater, especially if ocean shipping were given easy access to the Lakes.. The Mississippi system ought to have nearly as much traffic as the Great Lakes now have, and several of our other navigable rivers in the east, west and south ought to have as much traffic as the Mississippi now has.

Genteel Rooting

"Blood must cease to flow," remarks the Collegian of Butler College, Indianapolis. Not necessarily on the gridiron, but in the cheering section. The "rooting," this publication thinks, is too coarse and sanguinary. There must be organized cheering. But the college editor wants to know:

"Is 'Jerk a leg off, jerk an arm off, rah, rah, rah,' an appropriate yell for a school that is composed supposedly of highly intellectual eds and co-eds? Hardly. It sounds more like a yell that barbarians, uncivilized humans living in the wilderness, wuold give.

"Let us hope that in the future the cheering section of Butler will root for the team with as much vim and vigor as in the past, but with some thought as to their utterances."

Yes, let us hope so. Or let us try to. But it puts a severe strain on one's optimism. Will Butler or any other college cheer with as much "vim and vigor" if it uses genteel and ladylike war cries?

When football grows genteel and ladylike, there won't be any more football. Or at least, there won't be any more hundred-thousand football crowds. If football fans can't revert to barbarism for a little while, what's the use of paying good money to see a game?

Remedy For Lynching

Nine members of a lynching mob in Douglas, Ga., had the surprise of their lives when Judge Harry D. Reed gave eight of them prison terms and the ninth, who was mob leader, a life term in the penitentiary. They expected to go free after a perfunctory trial. The judge made this admirable statement in explanation of his course:

"Lynching is a menace to the rights and liberties of the American individual, and should be regarded so by every intelligent community. It is as much out of place in our modern civilization as would be the burning of witches.

"When a community makes public the fact that it will bend every effort to apprehend lynchers without loss of time, and mete out punishment to them, there will be few cases of lynching in that community."

Certainly that is the way to stop lynching—aided, of course, by prompt and adequate punishment of such crimes as have invited lynching in the past.

That is also the way to stop banditry. Likewise bootlegging.

You can hardly blame the Detroit authorities for ordering the police to "shoot to kill" when you see what happens at murder trials.

Several jurors at the Hall-Mills murder trial were accused of "nodding and apparently sleeping," but the public kept awake.

"Stinky" Davis— By Fontaine Fox

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE REAL FUNCTION OF A GRAND JUROR.

What goes on behind the doors of a grand jury room is supposed to be secret but once in a while a story leaks out from its sacred precincts. A court official over in New Jersey told me this one:

One Mike Cassidy ran a saloon and, on the side dabbled in politics in the principal town of the county. On a certain night the police swooped down upon Cassidy's establishment. In an upstairs rooms the raiders found two crap games and a stud poker game in full swing. The proprietor and his patrons were hustled down stairs, jammed into patrol wagons and taken to the station house. In accordance with the custom in New Jersey and other states as well, the gangsters gave fictitious names and addresses, paid their fines and departed.

But Cassidy was held for the grand jury. The county prosecutor presented his witnesses and his physical evidence before the body and withdrew, confident that an indictment would be returned. A few minutes later, very much to his disgust, he was informed by the sergeant-at-arms that the jurors had dismissed the case. On the following day the prosecutor met a member of the jury on the street.

"John," he said, "I'm surprised and disgusted that you fellows failed to find a true bill against Mike Cassidy yesterday. I'm told in confidence, also, that you cast the deciding vote in favor of dropping the charge, and for the life of me I can't understand it. I happen to know that you're at outs, personally and politically, with that scalawag. I should have thought that of all men you would have been the most anxious to see him get what was properly coming to him."

"Well," said Johnny, "it's true he did double-cross me when I run for sheriff, and he did trim me out of some money he borrowed from me, and he's a no-acount bum; but it seems like to me you've got the wrong idea about this here grand jury business.

"The way I look at it, a man ain't on the grand jury to get even with his enemies—he's only there to protect his friends."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Fiction has made the New York detective a derbied gent with mountainous toed shoes and round hair cut. Playwrights have tossed him a penchant for incessant blundering with the crook giving him the merry ha-ha at the final curtain.

There are several types of private and hotel detectives who fit this picture. But the keen-witted men from Central Office are vastly different There is no standard type. Some are young men given to delirium ties and rakish hats.

Others are sedately dressed and middle aged and still others are white haired, firm jawed who would look at home in a bank president's chair. When they talk with criminals they use underworld jargon but in average conversation their language is as precise as the average man's.

Any number are interested in music, painting and the arts and one is a bibleophile of no mean standing. The nature of the work necessarily gives them an aloofness from their fellows. Their job depends largely on being unkuown to the public.

It is not romance that they often mingle in the most aristocratic gatherings with not even the slightest suspicion they are not guests. A number of them have followed trails around the world successfully posing as leisurely men of wealth.

The underworld's snarling hatred for a "dick" proves their competence. The public little realizes that if the detectives were grafters they could reap enormous fortunes. Any robber would split his loot without murmur to have the trail left cold.

Scotland Yard is noted for relentless pursuit. Central Office is as doggedly determined. There are detectives today working on unsolved crimes five, ten and even fifteen years old. It is an inflexible rule at Central Office that no crime is unsolved.

After the same fashion perhaps no city is such a target for abuse as New York. It is a city everybody knocks to a certain extent — even natives There is no explaining it yet I have noticed that few who live here any length of time are happy elsewhere.

There are a million reasons for loving New York. Par example! A confused old lady was trying to cross a roped street during a fire. A self appointed guardian yelled, "Are you blind or just crazy!" and a bystander promptly stepped up and soaked him on the jaw.

To say nothing of this sign in a Seventh avenue drug store: "It is a pleasure to sell stamps to strangers as well as our patrons."

Then there are the countless women who place food on doorsteps nightly for stray and hungry cats and street workers who empty their pails and scatter crumbs for the birds.

A few reasons for not liking New York: Officious theatre box office men, ill bred pedestrians, torn up streets, early morning steel riveters and impudent taxi drivers.

Added starter: A clerk who sells you No. 11 hose when you want No. 10 and lets you find it out when you get home.

A haberdasher on Broadway shows a window display of what he calls "spatterdashes." They are what we know as spats, but I learn he is correct.

To Help Boy Footballers.

An appeal to all football clubs of England to throw open their grounds to school boys when the field are not otherwise in use has been issued by the National Playing Fields Association. The plan provides that the boys be under the supervision of a teacher who will see that no damage be done to the grounds. A number of clubs have already taken up the idea.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Qualifications of Air Pilots.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—Does it spoil your whole day to have your wife give you a cup of cold coffee at breakfast? If so, you are temperamentally unfit to be an airplane pilot, according to those charged with the selection of pilots for the Army and Navy. A successful pilot must not allow such small things to worry him—he must be able to forget them.

In the early part of the World war it was found that 90 per cent of the crashes were due to defects in the pilots themselves, three per cent to the enemy, and seven to faulty material in the planes. More rigid physical examinations were instituted and an improvement was shown in the percentage of crashes due to the first named cause.

Every candidate for the aviation service must now pass not only the physical examination, but also what is termed a neuropsychiatric examination. In other words, he is thoroughly psychoanalyzed. He is asked to give something of his family history, in order that the examining physician may in this fashion ascertain tactfully whether there has been any insanity in the family or other taint which might be emphasized by the unusual conditions with which a flyer is faced while in the air. There have been cases where acute mania and even epilepsy have first become manifest in the air. Perhaps the man had never before suspected that he had such a tendency.

The candidate's personal habits and history are inquired into, and he is asked as to use of alcohol or drugs. It is important to know whether he is subject to fainting spells, headaches, or dizziness. His dreams are psychoanalyzed and his phobias inquired into. Plainly a person who is afraid of high places would not be the proper one to pilot an airplane.

One of the most important qualifications of a potential flyer is a cheerful temperament. He must be free from worries and a man who has a family or a wife who emphatically objects to his flying will not be accepted. He must be stable and self-reliant. There must be no mental lag. A fraction of a second's hesitation between the mind's impression and the muscular coordination may result in a crash. He must be able to do the necessary thing almost automatically—there is rarely time in an emergency to think out the proper course.

Must Be An Enthusiast.

Above all the candidate must be enthusiastic about flying. The man, who when asked about his worries, replies "I am just worried that I won't pass this examination," will be accepted, if everything else is satisfactory. But the man who has financial difficulties, domestic worries, or other unsolved conflicts will be doomed to disappointment.

It is emphasized, however, that while pilots must be carefree and enthusiastic, they must not be reckless. A man who does not care what happens is not an asset to the service. As one officer put it. "If he does not care anything for his life, we do care something for some $20,000 worth of plane."

The most important physical requirement is perfect eyesight. No pilot is permitted to use corrective lenses in his goggles. It has been explained that often pilots come down from a flight with oil splashed over their goggles and before they make a landing it is necessary to take them off. If he needed his glasses in order to see to make a landing a pilot would be very likely to meet with trouble. Men who have pased both the physical and psychological examinations satisfactorily up to this point, have been turned down because of a slight defect of the eyes.

The general physical examination is very rigid and the desirable pilot is the one who is physically fit plus The Schneider index is the method by which a candidate's circulatory efficiency is determined. It is dependent upon six factors—the reclining pulse rate, the standing pulse rate, the difference between the standing pulse rate and the rate following a standard exercise, the time for the pulse to return to the standing rate after the standard exercise, and the difference between the reclining and standing systolic pressures. An arbitrary value of minus three to plus three has been given to each varying factor with a maximum plus total of eighteen. A score of eghteen is perfect, fourteen to eighteen excellent and seven is unsatisfactory.

Examined Annually at Least.

Examinations are made of pilots at least once a year and as much oftener as is deemed necessary under individual circumstances. A very careful check is kept by flight surgeons to see that pilots are in excellent flying condition. Often they notice symptoms that are not apparent to the man himself. Above all a pilot must not be permitted to become stale and when evidence of this is indicated he is sent out to play golf, take a trip—anything to make him forget completely about flying for the time being. Ususally, it is said, it takes only a few days to restore him to normal. Aviation medicine is becoming an important phase of the medical profession and one which is being constantly enlarged.

While the Army and Navy have identical examinations for their pilots and are cooperating in every way, there has not been any way of checking the civilian flyer. In many cases a man who has been turned down by one branch of the service will go into civilian flying even

Armament continues to be a heavy burden on the nations. It is much heavier than the indebtedness to the United States which several nations consider so grievous.

Thus Great Britain's annual appropriation for her army and navy, an American statesman points out, is more than three times her annual payment to the United States. France's appropriations for armament are more than five times as large as the payments arranged in the American debt settlement now pending, and Czecho-Slovakia's are 17 times as large.

Poland could pay her debt to the United States with her military expenditures for two and one-half years. Roumania could pay hers in 16 months.

Americans do not want the other nations to disregard their own safety or to save money on arms for the express purpose of paying it to us. But most Americans are convinced that European governments are still spending a good deal more money on armament than is necessary or wise, and would be glad to see futher reductions all around, in the interest of both economy and peace.

Inland Water Traffic

The railroad traffic in this country is so tremendous that in comparison the water traffic seems dwarfed, and is often ignored. Figures just made public by the shipping board show this traffic to be really of amazing volume, particularly on the Great Lakes.

Altogether 210,300,000 cargo tons of freight passed through the Great Lakes ports in 1925, and it is expected that this total will be surpassed in the present year.

Duluth, with a record of 45,600,000 tons for the season of 1925, ranks second to to New York among American ports. Fifteen other lake ports each handled more than 5,000,000 tons of freight.

Our salt water seaports are inclined to belittle the fresh water traffic, though it is far greater than seacoast traffic. Last year the cargoes passing through the lake ports included 82 per cent of all the coast traffic in the United States.

These facts will doubtless have considerable effect in persuading congress, this winter, to take seriously the growing demand for further expansion of internal waterways. The Great Lakes traffic might be far greater, especially if ocean shipping were given easy access to the Lakes.. The Mississippi system ought to have nearly as much traffic as the Great Lakes now have, and several of our other navigable rivers in the east, west and south ought to have as much traffic as the Mississippi now has.

Genteel Rooting

"Blood must cease to flow," remarks the Collegian of Butler College, Indianapolis. Not necessarily on the gridiron, but in the cheering section. The "rooting," this publication thinks, is too coarse and sanguinary. There must be organized cheering. But the college editor wants to know:

"Is 'Jerk a leg off, jerk an arm off, rah, rah, rah,' an appropriate yell for a school that is composed supposedly of highly intellectual eds and co-eds? Hardly. It sounds more like a yell that barbarians, uncivilized humans living in the wilderness, wuold give.

"Let us hope that in the future the cheering section of Butler will root for the team with as much vim and vigor as in the past, but with some thought as to their utterances."

Yes, let us hope so. Or let us try to. But it puts a severe strain on one's optimism. Will Butler or any other college cheer with as much "vim and vigor" if it uses genteel and ladylike war cries?

When football grows genteel and ladylike, there won't be any more football. Or at least, there won't be any more hundred-thousand football crowds. If football fans can't revert to barbarism for a little while, what's the use of paying good money to see a game?

Remedy For Lynching

Nine members of a lynching mob in Douglas, Ga., had the surprise of their lives when Judge Harry D. Reed gave eight of them prison terms and the ninth, who was mob leader, a life term in the penitentiary. They expected to go free after a perfunctory trial. The judge made this admirable statement in explanation of his course:

"Lynching is a menace to the rights and liberties of the American individual, and should be regarded so by every intelligent community. It is as much out of place in our modern civilization as would be the burning of witches.

"When a community makes public the fact that it will bend every effort to apprehend lynchers without loss of time, and mete out punishment to them, there will be few cases of lynching in that community."

Certainly that is the way to stop lynching—aided, of course, by prompt and adequate punishment of such crimes as have invited lynching in the past.

That is also the way to stop banditry. Likewise bootlegging.

You can hardly blame the Detroit authorities for ordering the police to "shoot to kill" when you see what happens at murder trials.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

THE REAL FUNCTION OF A GRAND JUROR.

What goes on behind the doors of a grand jury room is supposed to be secret but once in a while a story leaks out from its sacred precincts. A court official over in New Jersey told me this one:

One Mike Cassidy ran a saloon and, on the side dabbled in politics in the principal town of the county. On a certain night the police swooped down upon Cassidy's establishment. In an upstairs rooms the raiders found two crap games and a stud poker game in full swing. The proprietor and his patrons were hustled down stairs, jammed into patrol wagons and taken to the station house. In accordance with the custom in New Jersey and other states as well, the gangsters gave fictitious names and addresses, paid their fines and departed.

But Cassidy was held for the grand jury. The county prosecutor presented his witnesses and his physical evidence before the body and withdrew, confident that an indictment would be returned. A few minutes later, very much to his disgust, he was informed by the sergeant-at-arms that the jurors had dismissed the case. On the following day the prosecutor met a member of the jury on the street.

"John," he said, "I'm surprised and disgusted that you fellows failed to find a true bill against Mike Cassidy yesterday. I'm told in confidence, also, that you cast the deciding vote in favor of dropping the charge, and for the life of me I can't understand it. I happen to know that you're at outs, personally and politically, with that scalawag. I should have thought that of all men you would have been the most anxious to see him get what was properly coming to him."

"Well," said Johnny, "it's true he did double-cross me when I run for sheriff, and he did trim me out of some money he borrowed from me, and he's a no-acount bum; but it seems like to me you've got the wrong idea about this here grand jury business.

"The way I look at it, a man ain't on the grand jury to get even with his enemies—he's only there to protect his friends."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Fiction has made the New York detective a derbied gent with mountainous toed shoes and round hair cut. Playwrights have tossed him a penchant for incessant blundering with the crook giving him the merry ha-ha at the final curtain.

There are several types of private and hotel detectives who fit this picture. But the keen-witted men from Central Office are vastly different. There is no standard type. Some are young men given to delirium ties and rakish hats.

Others are sedately dressed and middle aged and still others are white haired, firm jawed who would look at home in a bank president's chair. When they talk with criminals they use underworld jargon but in average conversation their language is as precise as the average man's.

Any number are interested in music, painting and the arts and one is a bibleophile of no mean standing. The nature of the work necessarily gives them an aloofness from their fellows. Their job depends largely on being unknown to the public.

It is not romance that they often mingle in the most aristocratic gatherings with not even the slightest suspicion they are not guests. A number of them have followed trails around the world successfully posing as leisurely men of wealth.

The underworld's snarling hatred for a "dick" proves their competence. The public little realizes that if the detectives were grafters they could reap enormous fortunes. Any robber would split his loot without murmur to have the trail left cold.

Scotland Yard is noted for relentless pursuit. Central Office is as doggedly determined. There are detectives today working on unsolved crimes five, ten and even fifteen years old. It is an inflexible rule at Central Office that no crime is unsolved.

After the same fashion perhaps no city is such a target for abuse as New York. It is a city everybody knocks to a certain extent — even natives. There is no explaining it yet I have noticed that few who live here any length of time are happy elsewhere.

There are a million reasons for loving New York. Par example! A confused old lady was trying to cross a roped street during a fire. A self appointed guardian yelled, "Are you blind or just crazy!" and a bystander promptly stepped up and soaked him on the jaw.

To say nothing of this sign in a Seventh avenue drug store: "It is a pleasure to sell stamps to strangers as well as our patrons."

Then there are the countless women who place food on doorsteps nightly for stray and hungry cats and street workers who empty their pails and scatter crumbs for the birds.

A few reasons for not liking New York: Officious theatre box office men, ill bred pedestrians, torn up streets, early morning steel riveters and impudent taxi drivers.

Added starter: A clerk who sells you No. 11 hose when you want No. 10 and lets you find it out when you get home.

A haberdasher on Broadway shows a window display of what he calls "spatterdashes." They are what we know as spats, but I learn he is correct.

To Help Boy Footballers.

An appeal to all football clubs of England to throw open their grounds to school boys when the field are not otherwise in use has been issued by the National Playing Fields Association. The plan provides that the boys be under the supervision of a teacher who will see that no damage be done to the grounds. A number of clubs have already taken up the idea.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Qualifications of Air Pilots.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—Does it spoil your whole day to have your wife give you a cup of cold coffee at breakfast? If so, you are temperamentally unfit to be an airplane pilot, according to those charged with the selection of pilots for the Army and Navy. A successful pilot must not allow such small things to worry him—he must be able to forget them.

In the early part of the World war it was found that 90 per cent of the crashes were due to defects in the pilots themselves, three per cent to the enemy, and seven to faulty material in the planes. More rigid physical examinations were instituted and an improvement was shown in the percentage of crashes due to the first named cause.

Every candidate for the aviation service must now pass not only the physical examination, but also what is termed a neuropsychiatric examination. In other words, he is thoroughly psychoanalyzed. He is asked to give something of his family history, in order that the examining physician may in this fashion ascertain tactfully whether there has been any insanity in the family or other taint which might be emphasized by the unusual conditions with which a flyer is faced while in the air. There have been cases where acute mania and even epilepsy have first become manifest in the air. Perhaps the man had never before suspected that he had such a tendency.

The candidate's personal habits and history are inquired into, and he is asked as to use of alcohol or drugs. It is important to know whether he is subject to fainting spells, headaches, or dizziness. His dreams are psychoanalyzed and his phobias inquired into. Plainly a person who is afraid of high places would not be the proper one to pilot an airplane.

One of the most important qualifications of a potential flyer is a cheerful temperament. He must be free from worries and a man who has a family or a wife who emphatically objects to his flying will not be accepted. He must be stable and self-reliant. There must be no mental lag. A fraction of a second's hesitation between the mind's impression and the muscular coordination may result in a crash. He must be able to do the necessary thing almost automatically—there is rarely time in an emergency to think out the proper course.

Must Be An Enthusiast.

Above all the candidate must be enthusiastic about flying. The man, who when asked about his worries, replies "I am just worried that I won't pass this examination," will be accepted, if everything else is satisfactory. But the man who has financial difficulties, domestic worries, or other unsolved conflicts will be doomed to disappointment.

It is emphazized, however, that while pilots must be carefree and enthusiastic, they must not be reckless. A man who does not care what happens is not an asset to the service. As one officer put it. "If he does not care anything for his life, we do care something for some $20,000 worth of plane."

The most important physical requirement is perfect eyesight. No pilot is permitted to use corrective lenses in his goggles. It has been explained that often pilots come down from a flight with oil splashed over their goggles and before they make a landing it is necessary to take them off. If he needed his glasses in order to see to make a landing a pilot would be very likely to meet with trouble. Men who have pased both the physical and psychological examinations satisfactorily up to this point, have been turned down because of a slight defect of the eyes.

The general physical examination is very rigid and the desirable pilot is the one who is physically fit plus The Schneider index is the method by which a candidate's circulatory efficiency is determined. It is dependent upon six factors—the reclining pulse rate, the standing pulse rate, the difference between the standing pulse rate and the rate following a standard exercise, the time for the pulse to return to the standing rate after the standard exercise, and the difference between the reclining and standing systolic pressures. An arbitrary value of minus three to plus three has been given to each varying factor with a maximum plus total of eighteen. A score of eghteen is perfect, fourteen to eighteen excellent and seven is unsatisfactory.

Examined Annually at Least.

Examinations are made of pilots at least once a year and as much oftener as is deemed necessary under individual circumstances. A very careful check is kept by flight surgeons to see that pilots are in excellent flying condition. Often they notice symptoms that are not apparent to the man himself. Above all a pilot must not be permitted to become stale and when evidence of this is indicated he is sent out to play golf, take a trip—anything to make him forget completely about flying for the time being. Uusually, it is said, ti takes only a few days to restore him to normal. Aviation medicine is becoming an important phase of the medical profession and one which is being constantly enlarged.

While the Army and Navy have identical examinations for their pilots and are cooperating in every way, there has not been any way of checking the civilian flyer. In many cases a man who has been turned down by one branch of the service will go into civilian flying even

KEEP COUGHS OUT OF "DANGER ZONE"

Coughing irritates the throat and makes you cough more. The more you cough, the harder it is to stop. And a cough threatens serious trouble if you let inflammation get into your bronchial tubes. It may spread into the "danger zone"—for these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops coughs quickly — almost instantly in spasmodic attacks. And it does far more; it brings lasting relief as its soothing, healing powers are absorbed deep down into the bronchial tubes, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth as it loosens up the tightness of congestion. It stimulates expectoration—Natures helpful plan for getting rid of phlegm and germs. Absorbed into the membranes themselves, this concentrated, hospital-proved medicine not only stops your cough but corrects the cause. And that is why relief is immediate and lasting.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—60c; twice as much, $1.00. 4a2c

KEEP COUGHS OUT OF "DANGER ZONE"

Coughing irritates the throat and makes you cough more. The more you cough, the harder it is to stop. And a cough threatens serious trouble if you let inflammation get into your bronchial tubes. It may spread into the "danger zone"—for these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops coughs quickly — almost instantly in spasmodic attacks. And it does far more; it brings lasting relief as its soothing, healing powers are absorbed deep down into the bronchial tubes, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth as it loosens up the tightness of congestion. It stimulates expectoration—Natures helpful plan for getting rid of phlegm and germs. Absorbed into the membranes themselves, this concentrated, hospital-proved medicine not only stops your cough but corrects the cause. And that is why relief is immediate and lasting.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—50c; twice as much, $1.00. 4a2c

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Huff, of Riley avenue, announce the birth of a son, who has been named Donald Wilfred.

Central American Band Comes To Ceramic For Three Days

Victor Record Makers Appear With Paramount Picture, "The Eagle of the Sea."

The original Central Marimba band, of Guatemala, makers of Victor records, will appear at the Ceramic theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday in conjunction with Paramount picture, "The Eagle of the Sea," starring Florence Vidor and Ricardo Cortez.

Coming to East Liverpool after successful engagements at the famous Biltmore and Astor hotels, New York City, this organization of natives from Central America, has a musical way that should appeal to theatregoers.

This band will offer a program ranging from jazz to classical selections.

Swashbuckling pirates aboard Spanish galleons flying the skull and crossbones, quaint New Orleans in 1820, for seventeen years under the Stars and Stripes but still a bit of the Old World; love in moonlit gardens, encounters between men-o'-war and merchant ships in the dead of night, roar of cannon mingled with a pounding of the sea—that, in brief, is a glimpse of "The Eagle of the Sea."

This photoplay, representing one of the greatest undertakings in recent years, is the first production to be made for Famous Players-Lasky Corporation by Frank Lloyd, the man who won everlasting fame with "The Sea Hawk." Aside from Florence Vidor and Ricardo Cortez, featured players; the cast is composed of such prominent artists as Andre Beranger, San De Grasse, Mitchell Lewis and scores of others.

"The Eagle of the Sea" is the romantic story of Jean Lefitte, last of the buccaneers, who with a price on his head, comes to New Orleans as Captain Sazarac. Just a few of the exciting scenes which will be shown the the capture of "The Seraphine" by Cortez' pirate crew, the abduction of Miss Vidor from an American merchantman, a mutiny of the corsairs when Cortez refuses them permission to loot their prize, and the battle between buccaneers and Spaniards which results in the blowing up and sinking of a galleon.

A collection of French stamps recently was sold for $3,500.

Skis with cold and rain-proof boots attached are being introduced.

Winter has been so severe in Uruguay that many roads were passible only for oxcarts.

Turkey recently gave to one concern the sole right to make all fireworks used in that country.

Neglect of Salvation Most Prevalent Sin, Says Evangelist

Rev. O. A. Newlin, Winona Lake, Ind., Delivers Another Forcible Sermon in United Presbyterian Church.

Neglect of salvation was asserted to be the most prevalent sin in East Liverpool and the entire world by Rev. O. A. Newlin, Winona Lake, Ind., evangelist at the First United Presbyterian church last evening. Another good sized audience was in attendance.

"Young People's Night," it was announced, will be celebrated on Friday evening when all members of the Sunday school, in charge of their teachers, will attend in a body. Plans are being made to carry out special services for each meeting next week. The Personal Workers of the church held a special session at the close of the sermon.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Newlin for this evening will be: "The Unforgivable Sin."

With Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle acting as accompanist, Prof. John C. Ussher directed the preliminary music A quartet composed of Ussher, Lee Adams, Emmett and Carl Gaston also sang.

Commenting during the Scripture lesson reading from Hebrews, Rev. Newlin said that man's relationship with God was encompassed in three words: generation which meant the latter's operation independent of the former: degredation which indicated the former's operation independent of the former and regenerate when God and man, in partnership, worked together.

He noted also the close relationship of the first question asked in the Old Testament, that of God inquiring: "Adam, where art thou?" and the initial one in the New Testament: "Where is he born king of the Jews?" The second query of the Bible, addressed to Cain: "Where is thy brother?" showed, he said, a separation for "sin," he averred, "is ever separation from God. Adam's sin was against God; Cain's against man. They manifested moral obligation to God and man."

That the Bible is the most up-to-date book in the world was affirmed by Rev. Mr. Newlin at the outset of his discourse. "I always marvel at the freshness of its contents. To me it seems to have but been written yesterday." Quoting the words from Hebrews: "We ought to give the most earnest heed to that which we have heard lest we let them slip," he asked. "Do not these sound as if just written?"

He declared the hearing of so many things these days caused little to be permanently retained. "Thus we cultivate the habit of forgetting," he suggested. "When but a single sermon was heard in months during circuit rider days the thoughts therein were gone over so often as to make a remaining impression."

His text was the interrogation: "How shall be escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" He affirmed that many thought in towns of degrees of sin.

Ghost Failed to Appear.

Will an Italian ghost appear before an Englishman, or are Sir Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge all wrong? These are questions put before Crompton Wood, a member of the British Parliament, who has been recuperating on the island of Ischia, Italy. He and his wife occupied a castle that was feared by the natives as being haunted. None of their servants would remain in the castle and the aged couple were left there alone. An all-night vigil failed to reveal any spirits of the departed, however.

Tennis may be played in winter on courts made of a cement composition recently introduced in England.

RED NAVY NOW STRONGER THAN ALL NEIGHBORS

Soviet Admiral Says Russian Fleet Excels.

MORALE IS O. K.

Black Sea Nations Cannot Match Moscow Forces.

MOSCOW—The Red Navy is stronger than the fleets of all its marine neighbors combined, declared Admiral Muklevitch, commander in chief of the Soviet sea forces in a speech to the Communist Youth International on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the Youth International's patronage over the Red Fleet.

The Admiral's statement is the first in years to give any estimate of the comparative strength of the Red Navy. In all discussions of disarmament, the Soviet government has declared that it considered its minimum armament for defense should equal the combined forces of its neighbors. Muklevitch's declaration reveals the fact that the Soviet navy has already passed this minimum.

Baltic Fleet Mighty.

"Our Baltic fleet is mightier than all the fleets of the Baltic countries taken together, including Germany," said Mulkevitch. "And this notwithstanding the fact that Germany has recently built several new ships, and that the Baltic states proper are feverishly busy with naval construction.

"We can say the same of our Black Sea Fleet. It is stronger than the fleets of all the Black Sea countries combined."

Muklevitch praised the "high technical efficiency" of the Red Navy, saying that the Soviet program of restoring the ships inherited from the Czar had been successfully completed.

Morale Satisfactory.

He declared the morale of the crews and officers was highly satisfactory, ascribing this in large part to the fact that fifty percent of the personnel belongs either to the Communist Youth International.

There are many former Czarist officers in the Navy. They number 18 percent of the whole, said Muklevitch.

"But we must safeguard these ex-Czarist officers," declared the Admiral. "They are valuable specialists. They are loyal to us, are honestly serving the Soviet power, and if necessary they would die for it."

though it is known that he is in some way unqualified to be a pilot. Under the new division of aviation of the department of commerce, however, a method of controlling civilian pilots is being worked out. Under this plan it will be necessary for these pilots to obtain licenses, and in order to do this they must take an examination which, if not identical, will be similar to that given service pilots.

A flight surgeon must know the pilots intimately and observe them daily in order to be able to detect the first signs of deterioration. A Navy surgeon recently said: "The greatest psychological factor in getting close to a pilot is flying with him or his squadron, experiencing his emotions and strains, as well as sharing in his enthusiasm. An unusual comradeship exists between personnel undergoing the same hazards and on short or extended flights the flight surgeon renders a subsconscious sense of security and is present to detect the first signs of the physical or psychological abnormal."

Civilian physicians have been urged to take up the study of aviation medicine, since special training is necessary in order to be qualified to select, classify, and care for flyers. The number of commercial airlines is being constantly increased, and the safety of both passengers and freight carried by commercial planes depends largely upon the fitness of the pilots The government is doing all in its power to make aviation safer, but the civilian can aid by doing his bit.

DAYS OF WOOD AS PHILIPPINES GOVERNOR NUMBERED

THOMPSON HOME AFTER SURVEY, MAY BE NAMED

Wadsworth and Stimson of New York Also Considered.

ALL WAR VETS

Ohioan's Report Said to Urge Appointment of Civilian.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
(Copyright, 1926, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The turbulent days of Leonard Wood as governor general of the Philippines are numbered.

His retirement has been definitely decided upon by the Coolidge administration, it was learned today, and consideration is now being given to the selection of a successor.

Three names are being considered: Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, recently defeated for re-election.

Col. Carmi Thompson of Ohio, who has just completed a survey of the islands for President Coolidge.

Col. Henry L. Stimson of New York, secretary of war in the Taft administration.

Other names have been suggested, but it is this trio that are receiving major consideration. All are veterans of the Spanish-American war. All have a more or less intimate knowledge of Philippine affairs, and all are "available" in that they are generally acceptable to party leaders and are now politically at liberty.

Thompson's Recommendations.

Col. Thompson's report on his three months' investigation of affairs in the islands will be laid on President Coolidge's desk shortly, if it is not already in his hands. It is understood to make three prime recommendations:

1.—Appointment of a civil rather than a military governor.

2.—Removal of the islands from control of the war department to a civil department, such as the department o the interior.

3.—Revision of some of the native laws, particularly one which limits any corporation from holding more than 2,500 acres of land.

The first two are designed to remove some of the friction between the Filipino leaders and the American administration of the islands, due to the severity of some of Gen. Wood's policies and actions.

The recommendation concerning the land laws is intended to open the way for American capital to go into the islands and start development, particularly of rubber, on a large scale. So long as a corporation is limited to 2,500 acres of land nothing can be attempted on a scale big enough to attract American capital.

Praises Administration.

Col. Thompson's report, it is understood, will praise Gen. Wood's administration, and probably in making his recommendations to congress for a change in Philippine policy President Coolidge will pass along this praise. There is no desire on the part of the administration to humiliate Wood nor to criticise his turbulent career a military over-lord of the islands. Nevertheless, it is an open secret in Washington that much of the trouble in the islands is privately attributed to what for want of a better word is called "Wood's military "brusqueness." He has been in almost constant conflict with the native leaders and politicians. It is also well known that a change in the governor-generalship of the islands was imminent just before the death of President Harding.

It is not that officials in Washington sympathize particularly with the native politicians who have been warring with Wood, for they do not. It is rather that they feel "an unfortunate situation" prevails in America's farthermost possession and that it should be corrected.

Neither Senator Wadsworth nor Col. Thompson are said to be anxious for the post.

Wadsworth "Ideal" Candidate.

Senator Wadsworth is regarded as an "ideal" candidate for the job. He has been chairman of the military affairs committee of the senate for six years, and as such has come to have a fairly intimate knowledge of Filipino affairs. In addition thereto, he is independently wealthy, has a flair for public service, and is personally so popular that even his Democratic colleagues in the senate expressed private regrets over his recent defeat. In the opinion of those who are urging his appointment, this quality of graciousness and popularity alone should make him ideally available, for it will take a governor-general with some such qualities, they contend, to get along with the native leaders and remove some of the irritations of the Wood regime.

Wadsworth, however, wants to run for the senate again in 1928, and that isn't far off.

Col. Thompson is also regarded as an acceptable candidate by all factions. He probably has a better first hand knowledge of the affairs of the island than any other available man, due to his extensive tour of investigation just completed. His friends say, however, that he is not anxious for it, for he has large business interests in Cleveland that would make it awkward for him to leave.

Col. Stimson is said to be an avowed candidate. Since his retirement from the Taft administration he has run for the governorship of New York once and was defeated. He is said to be desirous of getting back into public service.

cannot point to the celestial mine whence genius comes.

THE world has seen many amazing things, from the Colossus of Rhodes to the Falls of Niagara. The most amazing is the touching faith of womankind.

Mrs. Hall, widow of the murdered clergyman and accused of his murder, knows that his body was found with that of Mrs. Mills, a choir singer. She has listened in court to letters in which the reverend clergyman, writing to the choir singer, spoke of himself as "babykins."

Yet Mrs. Hall testifies that she is not sure that her husband was unfaithful.

TUNNEY, heavyweight champion, giving a harmless boxing exhibition in a New York theater, is arrested. In the same city men knock each other senseless, one or two have been killed by blows in the prize ring, and the "legal fights" are arranged so that plenty of blood may be spilled to delight the crowd.

Nothing puzzling about Tunney's arrest. In this stage exhibition there is no graft for anybody.

THE head of King George comes off Irish Free State coins. On one side of the new coins there surely will be an Irish harp, for the other an Irish product—a salmon, a hare, a skillet—are suggested.

Why not put the head of some Irish fighting patriot, perhaps Robert Emmet, hanged as a felon 123 years ago?

THREE HURT AS FIREBUG RULES

Six Others Narrowly Escape Death in Toledo Blaze.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 2.—Three firemen were injured and six other persons narrowly escaped death in a fire here today, which was attributed by police and the state fire marshal's office to the firebug who has spread a trail of flames and terror here for several weeks.

The fire wrecked the home of Carl Zeigler, his daughter, Mildred 20, a university student, discovered the blaze. Zeigler was rescued after he had become overcome by smoke and is in a serious condition. Firemen also carried out George Cole and Mr. and Mrs. George Fremouth, all unconscious from breathing smoke.

The state fire marshal's office, alarmed at the havoc spread by the firebug today ordered out a force of men to aid Assistant Police Chief Jennings and a squad of 16 policemen who have been detailed to catch the firebug.

more for a finger of Mr. Hall than she did for his whole body."

Refers to Sale of Letters.

"Mrs. Mills," he continued, "was a wife, gentlemen, who slept in the attic of her home and who avoided all association with her husband. Jim Mills read the love letters to his wife from Mr. Hall, having found them in her scarf. He is a husband who says:

"I made a hell of a house for her, when they quarrelled about Mr. Hall.

"Shortly after the murder, Jim Mills finds the love letters to his wife and the diary and sells them for $500. He profited by his wife's dishonor. He sold them for 500 filthy dollars to a newspaper and proclaims to the world that his wife in an adultress."

McCarter said that Simpson "in ghoulish glee' had cast a slur on the oirth of one of the defendants.

"If that charge was made below the Mason and Dixon line he would have been knocked down," said McCarter. "If the administration of justice has sunk to this level, I thank God that I am old-fashioned."

Case Calls Prosecution "Nasty."

McCarter turned to the jurors with these concluding remarks:

"Shall these people of high standing, who have been brought to trial, be convicted on the evidence of this riff-raff of criminality?"

"It lies with you, gentlemen, to free this family from the stigma of heartless persecution which was done simply as a means to further political aspirations."

Senator Clarence E. Case, tall and spare, with a clear, resonant voice, began his summation at 10:55.

He characterized the prosecution in this case as "nasty, unfair, unjust and vindicate. He said he "despised" the methods used by Simpson.

Cites State's Essentials.

Case's voice thundered as he declared that the persons who found the bodies — Raymond Schneider and Pearl Bahmer—were not brought into court by the state to testify.

"As I see it, there are two essentials to the state's case," he declared. "The first is this so-called card, said to have been found at Dr. Hall's feet.

"The other is the evidence offered by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the pig woman.

"How did that card get there? I'll tell you. I believe that Raymond Schneider rifled that body, and he took the watch and the fob and the money, except the loose change.

"Assuming that he had nothing to do with the murders, he went through Dr. Hall's pockets, and he rifled the card-case and threw it on the ground. The contents of that card-case were spilled on the ground. And Detective Totten's identification of that card is the only one we have. And Mr. Totten identifies it by the fly-specks on it."

Cards with fly-specks were scattered all over the ground near the body, said Case. He impugned the authenticity of the state's cad exhibit "S-17."

"Why didn't they bring Schneider and Miss Bahmer here so we could cross-examine them?" he asked.

Reads Mrs. Hall's Letter.

Case said the state refused to present a map of the scene of the crime as it was four years ago. If they had, he added, the defense would have made Mrs. Gibson show the various places "she claimed she passed," and "prove the falsity of her various stories."

"Why did they try the murderer of Eleanor Mills separate from that of Edward Hall?" he asked. "The facts are identical. It is intimidation they are trying to indicate to these defendants that they might be tried again if acquitted this time."

Case took up Mrs. Hall's letters to Henry Stevens. He read one of them, and urged the jury to read them.

"In these letters," Case told the jurors, "you will see the outpouring of a woman's heart. Don't think that because this woman is reserved, because she doesn't wear skirts up to her knees, because she acts like a lady and doesn't wear her heart on her sleeve, that she is cold, hard. She is a lady, she acts the way you would like to see our women act. She is a lady."

ESCAPES IN GALE

Fear Captives Have Been Foully Dealt With.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—The French rum runner, Arsene J., with two kidnaped prohibition officials aboard, was believed nearing Havana or Nassau today.

No trace of the schooner which put to sea after overpowering Assistant Prohibition Administrator J. B. Matthews and a machinist's mate, has been found since she escaped in a gale Monday, Commander J. L. Brookway of the coast guard cutter 302 reported by radio today.

Commander Brookway informed O. D. Jackson, chief dry administrator for his district, that in the 40 hours since her escape the Arsene J., has had ample time to reach either Havana or Nassau. A report that the cutter 302 had overtaken the schooner only to lose it again when a tow line broke was found to be untrue.

Meanwhile fear was expressed here that Matthews and the machinist's mate met with violence at the hands of the nine or ten men that compriss the Arsene's crew.

Receiver is Named For Coal Company in Oil Dealer's Suit

Alexander Fraser has been appointed by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones as receiver for the Martin-Kaul Coal company of East Liverpool, upon application of Frank J. Jones of the Ohio Valley Oil company, who seeks to collect $116.65 which he claims to be due for oil and gasoline. Bond has been fixed at $1,000.

The petition recited that the company is not doing sufficient business to meet its obligations and that a foreclosure of its leases in Yellow Creek township is threatened because of the company's inability to meet royalty payments.

The petition was filed by Attorney Ben L. Bennett, counsel for Jones.

Insurgents Plan To Force Extra Meet of Congress

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Republican insurgents will force an extra session to consider farm relief before allowing appropriation bills to be acted upon, Senator Brookhart, (R) Iowa, indicated today.

"We hope to have an extra session declared and I wish to have it considered before appropriation bills," said Brookhart, who, with other insurgents, now holds the balance of power in the senate.

ONTARIO ROLLS UP MAJORITY FOR RUM SALE

Premier Intimates Flow Will Begin Before Christmas.

BITTER BATTLE

Sections Near United States Border are Especially "Wet."

OTTAWA, Canada, Dec. 2.—The province of Ontario, with more than a thousand miles of its boundary line touching the United States, today is "wet" under government control of the sale of liquor by an overwhelmingly large majority, as the result of yesterday's general elections.

Premier Howard Ferguson, leader of the victorious Conservative party, intimated that before Christmas the flow of "wet goods" would be started legally throughout the province.

The result of the election after one of the most terrific political battles ever waged in the staid old province, is as follows:

Conservative, 74.
Liberal, 14.
Progressives, 11.
Liberal Progressive, 5.
Independent Liberal, 4.
Labor, 1.
Prohibition, 1.
Two still in doubt.
Total, 112.

Ferguson Government Wins.

One of the surprises of the campaign was the failure of the rural riding of the province to go "dry" and the success at the polls of the Ferguson government was complete from one end of the province to the other. In all areas in the vicinity to the United States the "wet" vote was heaviest. Windsor, across from Detroit, rolled up a big moist majority, as did the Niagara area in the vicinity of New York state and Buffalo.

As the result of the outcome of the Ontario vote but three Canadian provinces now remain "dry." They are New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and already it is announced that this trio are ready to go to the people in the immediate future on a government control of the liquor question election.

It is estimated by Ontario political chieftains that thirsty residents of the United States will in 1927 spend in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 in the province of Ontario.

Toronto elected 15 "wet" members, the Canadian capital three and so the voting went across the entire province.

Every Ferguson government cabinet member with but one exception was retained.

Thieves Loot Home Of Bishop Hartley; Flee With Jewels

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—With fingerprints serving as a clue, city and private detectives today are searching for the thieves who stole jewels worth thousands of dollars, from the residence of Bishop James J. Hartley here.

The robbers, believed to be professionals, took a gold cross, given the bishop by Pope Pius X; two gold rings with amethyst stones, a gold watch, a woman's white gold ring, set with diamonds, a gold cloth with a cluster of diamonds in the center, and an ancient gold dollar, octagonal in shape. In the pectoral cross were 12 diamonds, set in the center; a ruby at each of the four arms, and sacred relics of the saints.

All being gifts, Bishop Hartley was unable to set definite figures in valuing the stolen property.

$1,000 in Jewelry Stolen From Room In Detroit Hotel

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—The theft of jewelry valued at $1,000 from a room in a downtown hotel was reported to the police today by Mrs. George A. Ford, of the Inverness club, of Grand Rapids, registered at the hotel yesterday. A bag containing the jewelry disappeared while the woman went out of the room.

"CASCARETS" FOR BOWELS, STOMACH, HEADACHE, COLDS

Clean your liver and constipated bowels to-night and feel fine

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

HOSPITALS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Plans for the formation of a West Virginia hospital association will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of hospitals from all over the state to be held at the Kanawha hotel Monday, December 6.

A call has been sent to all hospitals and sanitariums in West Virginia asking them to co-operate and and to send delegates to the meeting.

There are about 100 hospitals in the state, having a total of 3,500 beds and it is thought that greater progress will be made if these institutions work in unity instead of individuality as at present.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEET IN CAPITAL

Training for teachers and high school curriculum, were the subjects discussed at the conference held at the state department education yesterday between Dr. Frank P. Backman, of the general education board, Rockefeller foundation, New York, and George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, Dr. J. N. Diehl, of the university and other officials of the department.

A number of problems connected with West Virginia high schools were brought up by Robert Clark, of the state education department, who outlined a plan for making the curriculum more mandatory rather than elective.

LAY CORNERSTONE ON DECEMBER 11

Cornerstone of the new Wells school building being erected on the site of the old Kenilworth golf grounds will be placed in position on Saturday afternoon, December 11, it was announced today.

The ceremonies will be in charge of the West Virginia Grand lodge of Masons and members of the Chester Masonic lodge.

Bringing up Children

"MY sisters, my sister-in-law and myself all have families, and for years we have all given our children Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. We have recommended it hundreds of times and think it just wonderful, not only to bring up children but for ourselves. At the slightest sign of stomach trouble, colds, constipation and when out of sorts, a dose or two is all they need. Truly, it is a family medicine and the stitch in time that saves nine." (Name and address sent on request.)

Constipation, Colds, Coughs, Fevers and Other Perils of Childhood

One dose and mother's anxiety is lifted. The sickest stomach craves the taste of Syrup Pepsin. From infancy to old age the result is certain. Droopy, listless, feverish children respond as if to magic. Headache, stomachache, biliousness, coated tongue, constipation—these are the daily perils for which a host of mothers say Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the safeguard. Sold and recommended by all druggists.

For a free trial bottle send name and address to Pepsin Syrup Company, Monticello, Illinois.

DAYS OF WOOD AS PHILIPPINES GOVERNOR NUMBERED

THOMPSON HOME AFTER SURVEY, MAY BE NAMED

Wadsworth and Stimson of New York Also Considered.

ALL WAR VETS

Ohioan's Report Said to Urge Appointment of Civilian.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
(Copyright, 1926, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The turbulent days of Leonard Wood as governor general of the Philippines are numbered.

His retirement has been definitely decided upon by the Coolidge administration, it was learned today, and consideration is now being given to the selection of a successor.

Three names are being considered: Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, recently defeated for re-election.

Col. Carmi Thompson of Ohio, who has just completed a survey of the islands for President Coolidge.

Col. Henry L. Stimson of New York, secretary of war in the Taft administration.

Other names have been suggested, but it is this trio that are receiving major consideration. All are veterans of the Spanish-American war. All have a more or less intimate knowledge of Philippine affairs, and all are "available" in that they are generally acceptable to party leaders and are now politically at liberty.

Thompson's Recommendations.

Col. Thompson's report on his three months' investigation of affairs in the islands will be laid on President Coolidge's desk shortly, if it is not already in his hands. It is understood to make three prime recommendations:

1.—Appointment of a civil rather than a military governor.

2.—Removal of the islands from control of the war department to a civil department, such as the department o the interior.

3.—Revision of some of the native laws, particularly one which limits any corporation from holding more than 2,500 acres of land.

The first two are designed to remove some of the friction between the Filipino leaders and the American administration of the islands, due to the severity of some of Gen. Wood's policies and actions.

The recommendation concerning the land laws is intended to open the way for American capital to go into the islands and start development, particularly of rubber, on a large scale. So long as a corporation is limited to 2,500 acres of land nothing can be attempted on a scale big enough to attract American capital.

Praises Administration.

Col. Thompson's report, it is understood, will praise Gen. Wood's administration, and probably in making his recommendations to congress for a change in Philippine policy President Coolidge will pass along this praise. There is no desire on the part of the administration to humiliate Wood nor to criticise his turbulent career a military over-lord of the islands. Nevertheless, it is an open secret in Washington that much of the trouble in the islands is privately attributed to what for want of a better word is called "Wood's military "brusqueness." He has been in almost constant conflict with the native leaders and politicians. It is also well known that a change in the governor-generalship of the islands was imminent just before the death of President Harding.

It is not that officials in Washington sympathize particularly with the native politicians who have been warring with Wood, for they do not. It is rather that they feel "an unfortunate situation" prevails in America's farthermost possession and that it should be corrected.

Neither Senator Wadsworth nor Col. Thompson are said to be anxious for the post.

Wadsworth "Ideal" Candidate.

Senator Wadsworth is regarded as an "ideal" candidate for the job. He has been chairman of the military affairs committee of the senate for six years, and as such has come to have a fairly intimate knowledge of Filipino affairs. In addition thereto, he is independently wealthy, has a flair for public service, and is personally so popular that even his Democratic colleagues in the senate expressed private regrets over his recent defeat. In the opinion of those who are urging his appointment, this quality of graciousness and popularity alone should make him ideally available, for it will take a governor-general with some such qualities, they contend, to get along with the native leaders and remove some of the irritations of the Wood regime.

Wadsworth, however, wants to run for the senate again in 1928, and that isn't far off.

Col. Thompson is also regarded as an acceptable candidate by all factions. He probably has a better first hand knowledge of the affairs of the island than any other available man, due to his extensive tour of investigation just completed. His friends say, however, that he is not anxious for it, for he has large business interests in Cleveland that would make it awkward for him to leave.

Col. Stimson is said to be an avowed candidate. Since his retirement from the Taft administration he has run for the governorship of New York once and was defeated. He is said to be desirous of getting back into public service.

TODAY

cannot point to the celestial mine whence genius comes.

THE world has seen many amazing things, from the Colossus of Rhodes to the Falls of Niagara. The most amazing is the touching faith of womankind.

Mrs. Hall, widow of the murdered clergyman and accused of his murder, knows that his body was found with that of Mrs. Mills, a choir singer. She has listened in court to letters in which the reverend clergyman, writing to the choir singer, spoke of himself as "babykins."

Yet Mrs. Hall testifies that she is not sure that her husband was unfaithful.

TUNNEY, heavyweight champion, giving a harmless boxing exhibition in a New York theater, is arrested. In the same city men knock each other senseless, one or two have been killed by blows in the prize ring, and the "legal fights" are arranged so that plenty of blood may be spilled to delight the crowd.

Nothing puzzling about Tunney's arrest. In this stage exhibition there is no graft for anybody.

THE head of King George comes off Irish Free State coins. On one side of the new coins there surely will be an Irish harp, for the other an Irish product—a salmon, a hare, a skillet—are suggested.

Why not put the head of some Irish fighting patriot, perhaps Robert Emmet, hanged as a felon 123 years ago?

THREE HURT AS FIREBUG RULES

Six Others Narrowly Escape Death in Toledo Blaze.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 2.—Three firemen were injured and six other persons narrowly escaped death in a fire here today, which was attributed by police and the state fire marshal's office to the firebug who has spread a trail of flames and terror here for several weeks.

The fire wrecked the home of Carl Zeigler, his daughter, Mildred 20, a university student, discovered the blaze. Zeigler was rescued after he had become overcome by smoke and is in a serious condition. Firemen also carried out George Cole and Mr. and Mrs. George Fremouth, all unconscious from breathing smoke.

The state fire marshal's office, alarmed at the havoc spread by the firebug today ordered out a force of men to aid Assistant Police Chief Jennings and a squad of 16 policemen who have been detailed to catch the firebug.

more for a finger of Mr. Hall than she did for his whole body."

Refers to Sale of Letters.

"Mrs. Mills," he continued, "was a wife, gentlemen, who slept in the attic of her home and who avoided all association with her husband. Jim Mills read the love letters to his wife from Mr. Hall, having found them in her scarf. He is a husband who says:

"I made a hell of a house for her, when they quarrelled about Mr. Hall.

"Shortly after the murder, Jim Mills finds the love letters to his wife and the diary and sells them for $500. He profited by his wife's dishonor.. He sold them for 500 filthy dollars to a newspaper and proclaims to the world that his wife in an adultress."

McCarter said that Simpson "in ghoulish glee' had cast a slur on the birth of one of the defendants.

"If that charge was made below the Mason and Dixon line he would have been knocked down," said McCarter. "If the administration of justice has sunk to this level, I thank God that I am old-fashioned."

Case Calls Prosecution "Nasty."

McCarter turned to the jurors with these concluding remarks:

"Shall these people of high standing, who have been brought to trial, be convicted on the evidence of this riff-raff of criminality?"

"It lies with you, gentlemen, to free this family from the stigma of heartless persecution which was done simply as a means to further political aspirations."

Senator Clarence E. Case, tall and spare, with a clear, resonant voice, began his summation at 10:55.

He characterized the prosecution in this case as "nasty, unfair, unjust and vindicate. He said he "despised" the methods used by Simpson.

Cites State's Essentials.

Case's voice thundered as he declared that the persons who found the bodies — Raymond Schneider and Pearl Bahmer—were not brought into court by the state to testify.

"As I see it, there are two essentials to the state's case," he declared. "The first is this so-called card, said to have been found at Dr. Hall's feet.

"The other is the evidence offered by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the pig woman.

"How did that card get there? I'll tell you. I believe that Raymond Schneider rifled that body, and he took the watch and the fob and the money, except the loose change.

"Assuming that he had nothing to do with the murders, he went through Dr. Hall's pockets, and he rifled the card-case and threw it on the ground. The contents of that card-case were spilled on the ground. And Detective Totten's identification of that card is the only one we have. And Mr. Totten identifies it by the fly-specks on it."

Cards with fly-specks were scattered all over the ground near the body, said Case. He impugned the authenticity of the state's cad exhibit "S-17."

"Why didn't they bring Schneider and Miss Bahmer here so we could cross-examine them?" he asked.

Reads Mrs. Hall's Letter.

Case said the state refused to present a map of the scene of the crime as it was four years ago. If they had, he added, the defense would have made Mrs. Gibson show the various places "she claimed she passed," and "prove the falsity of her various stories."

"Why did they try the murderer of Eleanor Mills separate from that of Edward Hall?" he asked. "The facts are identical. It is intimidation they are trying to indicate to these defendants that they might be tried again if acquitted this time."

Case took up Mrs. Hall's letters to Henry Stevens. He read one of them, and urged the jury to read them.

"In these letters," Case told the jurors, "you will see the outpouring of a woman's heart. Don't think that because this woman is reserved, because she doesn't wear skirts up to her knees, because she acts like a lady and doesn't wear her heart on her sleeve, that she is cold, hard. She is a lady, she acts the way you would like to see our women act. She is a lady."

RUM RUNNER, WITH KIDNAPED AGENTS, FLEES

Arsene J. Believed Nearing Havana or Nassau.

ESCAPES IN GALE

Fear Captives Have Been Foully Dealt With.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—The French rum runner, Arsene J., with two kidnaped prohibition officials aboard, was believed nearing Havana or Nassau today.

No trace of the schooner which put to sea after overpowering Assistant Prohibition Administrator J. B. Matthews and a machinist's mate, has been found since she escaped in a gale Monday, Commander J. L. Brookway of the coast guard cutter 302 reported by radio today.

Commander Brookway informed O. D. Jackson, chief dry administrator for his district, that in the 40 hours since her escape the Arsene J., has had ample time to reach either Havana or Nassau. A report that the cutter 302 had overtaken the schooner only to lose it again when a tow line broke was found to be untrue.

Meanwhile fear was expressed here that Matthews and the machinist's mate met with violence at the hands of the nine or ten men that comprise the Arsene's crew.

Receiver is Named For Coal Company in Oil Dealer's Suit

Alexander Fraser has been appointed by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones as receiver for the Martin-Kaul Coal company of East Liverpool, upon application of Frank J. Jones of the Ohio Valley Oil company, who seeks to collect $116.65 which he claims to be due for oil and gasoline. Bond has been fixed at $1,000.

The petition recited that the company is not doing sufficient business to meet its obligations and that a foreclosure of its leases in Yellow Creek township is threatened because of the company's inability to meet royalty payments.

The petition was filed by Attorney Ben L. Bennett, counsel for Jones.

Insurgents Plan To Force Extra Meet of Congress

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Republican insurgents will force an extra session to consider farm relief before allowing appropriation bills to be acted upon, Senator Brookhart, (R) Iowa, indicated today.

"We hope to have an extra session declared and I wish to have it considered before appropriation bills," said Brookhart, who, with other insurgents, now holds the balance of power in the senate.

ONTARIO ROLLS UP MAJORITY FOR RUM SALE

Premier Intimates Flow Will Begin Before Christmas.

BITTER BATTLE

Sections Near United States Border are Especially "Wet."

OTTAWA, Canada, Dec. 2.—The province of Ontario, with more than a thousand miles of its boundary line touching the United States, today is "wet" under government control of the sale of liquor by an overwhelmingly large majority, as the result of yesterday's general elections.

Premier Howard Ferguson, leader of the victorious Conservative party, intimated that before Christmas the flow of "wet goods" would be started legally throughout the province.

The result of the election after one of the most terrific political battles ever waged in the staid old province, is as follows:

Conservative, 74.
Liberal, 14.
Progressives, 11.
Liberal Progressive, 5.
Independent Liberal, 4.
Labor, 1.
Prohibition, 1.
Two still in doubt.
Total, 112.

Ferguson Government Wins.

One of the surprises of the campaign was the failure of the rural riding of the province to go "dry" and the success at the polls of the Ferguson government was complete from one end of the province to the other. In all areas in the vicinity to the United States the "wet" vote was heaviest. Windsor, across from Detroit, rolled up a big moist majority, as did the Niagara area in the vicinity of New York state and Buffalo.

As the result of the outcome of the Ontario vote but three Canadian provinces now remain "dry." They are New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and already it is announced that this trio are ready to go to the people in the immediate future on a government control of the liquor question election.

It is estimated by Ontario political chieftains that thirsty residents of the United States will in 1927 spend in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 in the province of Ontario.

Toronto elected 15 "wet" members, the Canadian canital three and so the voting went across the entire province.

Every Ferguson government cabinet member with but one exception was retained.

Thieves Loot Home Of Bishop Hartley; Flee With Jewels

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—With fingerprints serving as a clue, city and private detectives today are searching for the thieves who stole jewels worth thousands of dollars, from the residence of Bishop James J. Hartley here.

The robbers, believed to be professionals, took a gold cross, given the bishop by Pope Pius X; two gold rings with amethyst stones, a gold watch, a woman's white gold ring, set with diamonds, a gold cloth with a cluster of diamonds in the center, and an ancient gold dollar, octagonal in shape. In the pectoral cross were 12 diamonds, set in the center; a ruby at each of the four arms, and sacred relics of the saints.

All being gifts, Bishop Hartley was unable to set definite figures in valuing the stolen property.

$1,000 in Jewelry Stolen From Room In Detroit Hotel

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—The theft of jewelry valued at $1,000 from a room in a downtown hotel was reported to the police today by Mrs. George A. Ford, of the Inverness club, of Grand Rapids, registered at the hotel yesterday. A bag containing the jewelry disappeared while the woman went out of the room.

"CASCARETS" FOR BOWELS, STOMACH, HEADACHE, COLDS

Clean your liver and constipated bowels to-night and feel fine

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

HOSPITALS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Plans for the formation of a West Virginia hospital association will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of hospitals from all over the state to be held at the Kanawha hotel Monday, December 6.

A call has been sent to all hospitals and sanitariums in West Virginia asking them to co-operate and and to send delegates to the meeting.

There are about 100 hospitals in the state, having a total of 3,500 beds and it is thought that greater progress will be made if these institutions work in unity instead of individuality as at present.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEET IN CAPITAL

Training for teachers and high school curriculum, were the subjects discussed at the conference held at the state department education yesterday between Dr. Frank P. Backman, of the general education board, Rockefeller foundation, New York, and George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, Dr. J. N. Diehl, of the university and other officials of the department.

A number of problems connected with West Virginia high schools were brought up by Robert Clark, of the state education department, who outlined a plan for making the curriculum more mandatory rather than elective.

LAY CORNERSTONE ON DECEMBER 11

Cornerstone of the new Wells school building being erected on the site of the old Kenilworth golf grounds will be placed in position on Saturday afternoon, December 11, it was announced today.

The ceremonies will be in charge of the West Virginia Grand lodge of Masons and members of the Chester Masonic lodge.

Bringing up Children

"MY sisters, my sister-in-law and myself all have families, and for years we have all given our children Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. We have recommended it hundreds of times and think it just wonderful, not only to bring up children but for ourselves. At the slightest sign of stomach trouble, colds, constipation and when out of sorts, a dose or two is all they need. Truly, it is a family medicine and the stitch in time that saves nine." (Name and address sent on request.)

Constipation, Colds, Coughs, Fevers and Other Perils of Childhood

One dose and mother's anxiety is lifted. The sickest stomach craves the taste of Syrup Pepsin. From infancy to old age the result is certain. Droopy, listless, feverish children respond as if to magic. Headache, stomachache, biliousness, coated tongue, constipation—these are the daily perils for which a host of mothers say Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the safeguard. Sold and recommended by all druggists.

For a free trial bottle send name and address to Pepsin Syrup Company, Monticello, Illinois.

747 BILLS OF SALE RECORDED

During November 747 bills of sale and sworn statements of ownership were filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. The fees collected for filing these instruments totaled $186.75.

There were 93 new court actions placed on the appearance docket during November, the highest for any month during the current year. More than one-third of these cases were actions in divorce.

Sixteen cases were placed on Wednesday; the first day of the new month. Of these, 12 petitions were for the sale of property to cover delinquent taxes.

Injunction Granted.

A temporary injunction has been granted by the court on the supplimental petition filed by Emmett E. Longbottom in his action for divorce from his wife Bertha L. Longbottom. No bond was required. The last entry made in this case was of July 23rd last, when temporary alimony was granted the defendant. The action has been pending since May 25th, last.

To File Answer.

Leave to the defendants to answer at once has been given by the court in the case of William J. Wiggers as administrator in his action against John Penkava and others. This is an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, and was filed on the record March 2nd, 1925.

Alimony Order.

Victor Lowsha of West Point, who filed an action for divorce against his wife in common pleas court late last week, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 as temporary alimony, and also $5 per week during the pendency of the lawsuit.

Case Dismissed.

Because the costs in the case have not been secured, the petition in the suit of Della Greno and Joseph Greno aganst Ray Moore and Jane A. Moore has been dismissed. The court has rendered a judgment against the plaintiffs for the costs of the suit.

SKINNYMEN
THIS BEATS RECORD
He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks—Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed.

Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees with them that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—it upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. Mathews Medicine Store and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawney places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes: "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 60 tablets for 60 cents. Insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

Granted Leave to File.

In the case of the Salem Chattle Mortgage company, against Frank B. Whitman, which is an action in replevin, the court has granted leave to the defendant to file his answer on or before Dec. 3rd.

46 MARRIAGES DURING NOVEMBER

There were 46 marriage licenses issued in probate court during November, as against 55 issued during November 1925. The number issued during last month, however, was about the normal average for previous months of the year.

A marriage license has been issued to William C. Payne, a millworker residing at Wellsville and Phyllis H. McKenzie, a clerk, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. McKenzie of Wellsville. The couple are to be married by the Rev. Rowe at Wellsville.

Arthur Lawson, a pottery worker at East Liverpool and Miss Olive Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Boyce of East Liverpool, have obtained a marriage license. They weere married at the parsonage of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church by the Rev. J. C. Cameron.

Lyman Newcomer, a plumber at East Palestine and Beulah Whitmore, also of East Palestine, but formerly residing at New Waterford, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Whitmore have been granted a marriage license. The ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Albright.

SIX APPLICANTS FOR CITIZENSHIP

Josef Pukalski, aged 45 years, a native of Austria, and residing at 79 Park street, Salem, has filed his declaration of intent to become a citizen of the United States. He arrived at New York, March 30, 1905.

Nicholas Senanafas, 41, a native of Turkey, residing at Lisbon, has filed his declaration. He arrived at New York, July 5, 1915.

Donat Enders, 26, a native of Germany, of 102 Fair street, Salem, has filed his first papers. He arrived at New York, Dec. 2nd, 1923.

Harry H. Turner, 23, a clay worker, and a native of Germany, residing at 806 Sophia street, East Liverpool, has declared his intent. He arrived at New York, Oct. 1st, 1924.

Ludwig Onigkeit, 28, a native of Germany, a laborer, residing at Washingtonville, has declared his intent to become a citizen. He landed at New York Dec. 7, 1925.

Walter Onigkeit, 24, also a native of Germany, living at 240 Prospect street, Salem, has filed his declaration. He arrived at New York, July 19, 1926.

747 BILLS OF SALE RECORDED

During November 747 bills of sale and sworn statements of ownership were filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. The fees collected for filing these instruments totaled $186.75.

There were 93 new court actions placed on the appearance docket during November, the highest for any month during the current year. More than one-third of these cases were actions in divorce.

Sixteen cases were placed on Wednesday; the first day of the new month. Of these, 12 petitions were for the sale of property to cover delinquent taxes.

Injunction Granted.

A temporary injunction has been granted by the court on the supplimental petition filed by Emmett E. Longbottom in his action for divorce from his wife Bertha L. Longbottom. No bond was required. The last entry made in this case was of July 30th last, when temporary alimony was granted the defendant. The action has been pending since May 25th, last.

To File Answer.

Leave to the defendants to answer at once has been given by the court in the case of William J. Wiggers as administrator in his action against John Penkava and others. This is an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, and was filed on the record March 2nd, 1925.

Alimony Order.

Victor Lowsha of West Point, who filed an action for divorce against his wife in common pleas court late last week, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 as temporary alimony, and also $5 per week during the pendency of the lawsuit.

Case Dismissed.

Because the costs in the case have not been secured, the petition in the suit of Della Greno and Joseph Greno against Ray Moore and Jane A. Moore has been dismissed. The court has rendered a judgment against the plaintiffs for the costs of the suit.

Divorce Action Filed.

Through her counsel, Brookes and Thompson of East Liverpool, Thelma A. McCullough has filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Charles A. McCullough, whose whereabouts at this time are unknown to the plantiff.

The couple were married July 26, 1920. Gross neglect of duty for over a period of three years is charged in the petition.

Suit Instituted.

In a petition filed in common pleas court by Maney & Cayre, Inc., of Geneva, N. Y., the clam is set up that there is due it from W. J. West and A. G. West, doing business as West Brothers of Damascus. The exhibit attached to the petition shows the clam of $284.13 is due for nursery stock shipped the defendants by the plaintiff.

Judgment Renederad.

A jury was waived and a trial was had before Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court No. 1 in the case of the Security Finance company, of Iowa City, Iowa, against F. E. Sitler of Columbiana. Judgment for the plaintiff for $496.27 was handed down, and also for the costs in the action.

SKINNYMEN
THIS BEATS RECORD
He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks—Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed.

Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees with them that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—it upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. Mathews Medicine Store and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawney places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes: "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 60 tablets for 60 cents. Insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

JUDGE IS CHOSEN FOR WELLSVILLE MURDER TRIAL

NEW LEXINGTON MAN WILL HEAR SCACCUTO CASE

Thomas D. Price is Assigned to Lisbon Court.

JURORS DRAWN

Seventy-five Witnesses for Inquiry Into Kenney Slaying.

Judge Thomas D. Price, of New Lexington, Perry county, will hear the trial of Nick Scaccuto, Wellsville, indicted by the last grand jury on a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney.

Judge Price has been assigned by Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the state supreme court, to assist Judge W. F. Lones during the week beginning Dec. 20.

The assignment was made at the request of Judge Lones, and the visiting jurist will be assigned to court room No. 2.

The 75 prospective jurors drawn in the Scaccuto case are being served with summonses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and E. J. Fitzgerald.

While no intimation has been made as to the number of witnesses that will be summoned in the case, the opinion is expressed that not less than 75 will be called by both the state and the defense.

"LOSING GAME" REVIVAL TOPIC

"Father and Son" Night at Evangelical Services.

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night spoke to a large audience at the "Mother and Daughter" night observance. His theme was, "What It Means to Know That You Are a Christian."

"Father and Son" night will be observed at services tonight. "The Losing Game" will be Rev. Frye's subject.

For his sermon last night, the evangelist chose his theme from St. John, "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God and Jesus Christ, whom Thou has sent."

He said:

"Many people quote this text by saying this is life eternal that ye may know Him aright. The word aright is not found in scripture.

"To study the life and character of Christ is most facinating, Jesus Christ is above all men for He was divine He was holy."

The great central theme is not water baptism, nor communion, nor church membership, but Christ, Himself.

"The question is, do you know Christ, in the power of His resurrection. 'He that saith I know him, and keepeth not his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him.'

Do you know him? When you don't keep the Sabbath day holy, when you neglect the church, the mother that gave you your spiritual birth"

"When women are on the outs and have an unforgiving spirit the revival cannot be a success, such as it might have been. And if you don't get rid of that unforgiving spirit you will never be forgiven.

"You will never be used of God to save couls if you won't speak to your neighbors. If you don't love you don't know God. Read I John 4-8. 'He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love.'

"Oh, how many revivals are barred and held up because somebody harbors and nurses a grudge with a hateful spirit which says 'I'll get even with you, I'll pay you back in your own coin; and yet profess religion.'"

HALF-MILL CUT IN TAX RATES IN EFFECT HERE

Decrease in City Requirements is Responsible.

NEW RATE 28.20

School District Needs Boosted This Year.

Wellsville taxpayers will be given the benefit of a half-mill cut in 1926 payments under the 1925 rate, according to figures announced by Miss Jo Pike, county treasurer.

The 1926 table shows a corporation tax of 28.20 mills, or $28.29, on each thousand dollars valuation. The former rate was $28.70.

The decrease of the half-mill was due chiefly to the fact that the city was able to effect a cut of approximately three and one-half mills for 1926, inasmuch as fewer bonds will be coming due and sinking fund requirements, consequently, are less.

Had all other taxing processes held to last year's taxes, city taxpayers would have received the benefit of a three end one-half mill cut, but school requirements necessitated a jump of 2.40 mills over last year's figures, and this together with a boost in the county rate brought the saving down to a half-mill.

Schools were voted an additional mill this year, along with a continuation of the three-mill levy that had been in effect, and, in addition, must pay off bonds that were issued under provisions of an act of legislature which permitted the board to raise funds for the payment of current expenses.

Yellow Creek township taxes show an increase, the figures being 21.80 for 1926 and 20.30 for the previous year.

Other tax rates on territory in the vicinity were announced as follows.

Madison township—New rate, 15.30; old rate, 13.80.

Madison school district No. 1—New rate, 17.80; old rate, 15.50.

Madison school district No. 2—New rate, 19.80; old rate, 16.50.

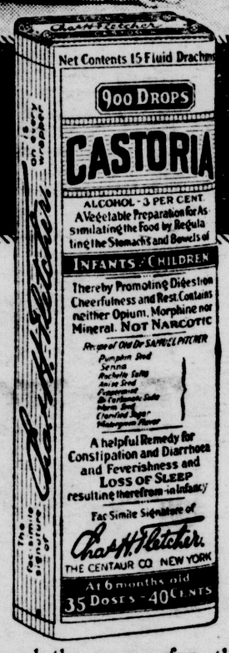
Fletcher's CASTORIA



Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

JUDGE IS CHOSEN FOR WELLSVILLE MURDER TRIAL

NEW LEXINGTON MAN WILL HEAR SCACCUTO CASE

Thomas D. Price is Assigned to Lisbon Court.

JURORS DRAWN

Seventy-five Witnesses for Inquiry Into Kenney Slaying.

Judge Thomas D. Price, of New Lexington, Perry county, will hear the trial of Nick Scaccuto, Wellsville, indicted by the last grand jury on a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney.

Judge Price has been assigned by Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the state supreme court, to assist Judge W. F. Lones during the week beginning Dec. 20.

The assignment was made at the request of Judge Lones, and the visiting jurist will be assigned to court room No. 2.

The 75 prospective jurors drawn in the Scaccuto case are being served with summonses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and E. J. Fitzgerald.

While no intimation has been made as to the number of witnesses that will be summoned in the case, the opinion is expressed that not less than 75 will be called by both the state and the defense.

"LOSING GAME" REVIVAL TOPIC

"Father and Son" Night at Evangelical Services.

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night spoke to a large audience at the "Mother and Daughter" night observance. His theme was, "What It Means to Know That You Are a Christian."

"Father and Son" night will be observed at services tonight. "The Losing Game" will be Rev. Frye's subject.

For his sermon last night, the evangelist chose his theme from St. John, "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God and Jesus Christ, whom Thou has sent."

He said:

"Many people quote this text by saying this is life eternal that ye may know Him aright. The word aright is not found in scripture.

"To study the life and character of Christ is most facinating, Jesus Christ is above all men for He was divine He was holy."

The great central theme is not water baptism, nor communion, nor church membership, but Christ, Himself.

"The question is, do you know Christ, in the power of His resurrection- 'He that saith I know him, and keepeth not his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him.'

Do you know him? When you don't keep the Sabbath day holy, when you neglect the church, the mother that gave you your spiritual birth"

"When women are on the outs and have an unforgiving spirit the revival cannot be a success, such as it might have been. And if you don't get rid of that unforgiving spirit you will never be forgiven.

"You will never be used of God to save couls if you won't speak to your neighbors. If you don't love you don't know God. Read I John 4-8. 'He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love.'

"Oh, how many revivals are barred and held up because somebody harbors and nurses a grudge with a hateful spirit which says 'I'll get even with you, I'll pay you back in your own coin; and yet profess religion.'"

HALF-MILL CUT IN TAX RATES IN EFFECT HERE

Decrease in City Requirements is Responsible.

NEW RATE 28.20

School District Needs Boosted This Year.

Wellsville taxpayers will be given the benefit of a half-mill cut in 1926 payments under the 1925 rate, according to figures announced by Miss Jo Pike, county treasurer.

The 1926 table shows a corporation tax of 28.20 mills, or $28.20, on each thousand dollars valuation. The former rate was $28.70.

The decrease of the half-mill was due chiefly to the fact that the city was able to effect a cut of approximately three and one-half mills for 1926, inasmuch as fewer bonds will be coming due and sinking fund requirements, consequently, are less.

Had all other taxing processes held to last year's taxes, city taxpayers would have received the benefit of a three end one-half mill cut, but school requirements necessitated a jump of 2.40 mills over last year's figures, and this together with a boost in the county rate brought the saving down to a half-mill.

Schools were voted an additional mill this year, along with a continuation of the three-mill levy that had been in effect, and, in addition, must pay off bonds that were issued under provisions of an act of legislature which permitted the board to raise funds for the payment of current expenses.

Yellow Creek township taxes show an increase, the figures being 21.80 for 1926 and 20.30 for the previous year.

Other tax rates on territory in the vicinity were announced as follows.

Madison township—New rate, 15.30; old rate, 13.80.

Madison school district No. 1—New rate, 17.80; old rate, 15.50.

Madison school district No. 2—New rate, 19.80; old rate, 16.50.

Miss Ena Creighton, of Beaver college, Jenkintown, visited recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Creighton, of Beaver avenue.

Mrs. Robert Graham, of Ohio avenue, and Mrs. Charles Rapp, of Midland avenue, visited recently with Mrs. Gus Benson, who is ill in the Rochester hospital.

Mrs. J. W. Cristler and Mrs. John Crighton were visitors in Rochester on Monday afternoon.

Rev. Harry Rogers, of Cambridge, O., is the guest of his son, Stephen Rogers, of Cook's Ferry.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thurston and son, Jack, and daughter, Betty, of Alliance, O., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Howe, of Midland avenue, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard White, of Midland, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John White, of Smith's Ferry, on Sunday.

Is Cow or Motorcycle Guilty.

Is a mtorcyclist or a cow at fault when the two meet, is a question before the magistrate of Te Aroba, N. Z. Robert Troughton, a farmer, sued William Jackson for $500 damages alleged to have been caused when he collided with Jackson's cow. Jackson counter-claimed $260 for his pedigreed heifer killed by the motocyclist. Troughton says Jackson is guilty of negligence in allowing the cow to roam the road, while Jackson claims that Troughton drove the machine carelessly and if he had kept a proper lookout he would have seen the cow. So the magistrate is scratching his head in preplexity.

Urges Sports for China.

That the Chinese are not taking sufficient interest in sports, is the charge made by Dr. P. K. Tyau, former Chinese minister to Cuba, and once tennis champion of North China, who has been taking part in court contests in Pekin pending another official appointment. "Sport among the Chinese is developing, but considering the opportunities the present-day youth has, it is not progressing as satisfactorily as it should," he said in urging more contests among Pekin, Tientsin and other interport cities.

Eight East Palestine Men Fined.

Pleading guilty to charges of aiding in the delinquency of a minor, eight young men from East Palestine were fined $25 and costs by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle yesterday.

They were Paddy Powell, Russell Smith, Robert Freed, Earl Davis, Raymond McQuicken, Clifford Herrington, George Truax and Lewis Meeks. They were arrested upon information preferred by Probation Officer J. H. McCready of the northern county district.

NORTH DAKOTA JOB THREATENS G. O. P. PEACE

Foe of Frazier and Nye Named U. S. Marshal.

CONTROL IS HIT

May Result in Democrats Organizing Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—With Republican control of the seventieth congress trembling in the balance, a political faux pas by President Coolidge today threatened to disrupt the carefully nurtured peace negotiations between administration leaders and the insurgent bloc in the senate.

Just as peace apparently had about been restored among the Republicans in congress, it was learned, the president named Colonel C. F. Mudgett, a political foe of both Senator Lynn J. Frazier and Senator Gerald P. Nye, to the office of United States marshal in North Dakota. The appointment was made at the solicitation, it was said, of former Governor L. B. Hanna, who opposed Nye in the recent primary and who has fought Frazier for years.

The president's action, it was learned, brought to a temporary halt the trend of peace in Republican ranks on Capital Hill. Unless the break can be repaired, the Republicans will face the possibility not only of losing their paper control of the seventieth congress but perhaps of watching the Democrats organize the new senate with the resultant possession of all committee chairmanships.

Both Frazier and Nye have voiced strenuous opposition to Mudgett's appointment. Their friends have urged them to oppose confirmation of the appointment. If either should carry his fight to the extent of refusing to help the Republican organize the new senate, the Democrats would win control.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

Through an exchange of telegrams with the stage manager, Julian learned that the troupe would arrive at San Diego on the Sunday afternoon. Twice, after a lonely luncheon, he drove out along the Imperial Valley highway in hopes of meeting the trucks, even waited an hour on the Grossmont heights above El Cajon, which elevation commands a wide reach of country. Finally he parked the olive roadster by the Plaza opposite the U. S. Grant hotel and sat there watching the brightly dressed street crowds. Sailors and marines walked with girls, two and two, or sat on the benches under the semi-tropical foliage. Touring cars rolled in to the hotel entrance with the crowds from the races at Tia Juana, just over the Mexican border. There were handsome women and girls, and men with soft hats and with full faces that appeared to be fitted around big cigars. Some of the men and a few of the girls were drunk and had to be quieted as they were led within.

Though the sun had not set, the white arch of a picture theater across the street blazed out in half circles of electric light. Julian began to wish that the dusk would come. He felt unhappily conspicuous in the new car and wearing the gray knickerbocker suit. They'd wonder. In a measure he'd have to explain. He had failed, too, at Hollywood, in striking that blow for Hester. They hadn't so much as let him begin striking. And he'd have to confess that to Sadie. Yes, he botched that, as, it appeared he botched everything. Everything real, that was. Everything that had to do directly with men and women and the human struggle. "I'm just a ghost," he muttered aloud. "Just an ineffectual ghost. You could stick a finger right through me. I wouldn't be there." Then he glanced about to see if any of these hundreds of foreign beings had heard. They seemed foreign beings to him, if congenial to one another. All save him had a sense of belonging . . . to the place, to the nation, to one another. But none had heard, "They wouldn't care if they had," he said, aloud again. "Nobody'd care."

A shiny new touring car came slowly around the corner of the big hotel. He glanced at it and away. But then he looked again. A glimpse of some familiar object had caught the attention of a vagrant inner eye. These objects were red bandannas worn usually about the heads of the actors as well as the actresses of the troupe to protect the hair from dust and wind. Lester was driving. Beside him sat in full dignity Mr. J. Murry Watt. And some of the girls were there. He heard a shout, and shrank back in his seat as the irrepressible Sadie ran excitedly through the traffic. She never wore anything on her short hair, but let it blow. She flung her arms about him and gave him an unabashed kiss, then drew off and looked at him, at his natty suit and cap, his neatly trimmed hair, and at the olive roadster. "Why, Julian!" she cried breathlessly, "how wonderful! How on earth—"

Grace Appleby had crossed by this time. She, too, kissed him, but more casually. They took all that sort of thing, these exciting people, as a matter of course. It was curious.

Lester was wringing his hand. Mr. Watt waited for a pause in the traffic and then strode across.

"My dear young friend," he began, in his stateliest voice, "my partner, indeed. It is a pleasure too long deferred . . ."

All were talking. Apparently he was their hero, their savior. It was difficult to understand. And very confusing. They didn't care who heard them, even when a few pedestrians gathered on the sidewalk. They loved being conspicuous. It was their life. He hated it.

"Did you see our new car?" cried Grace, pointing across the street. Sadie broke in with, "But first look at this gorgeous roadster! Julian, its wonderful."

A red box of a truck rumbled around the corner. He saw the familiar red and yellow lettering. The light truck followed. They pulled up at the curb by the hotel. With a whoop of deight, more young men and women dashed over at the risk of their necks, most of the men in khaki shirts and rough knickers and those bandannas, the girls in gay smocks and dust coats of blue and orange. The noise was now a clamor. Were they wholly mad? Did they propose to hoist him to their shoulders? It was awful. His mournful eyes were looking this way and that for Hester. She wasn't yet in sight. His nerves were on edge. When she did appear he'd only lose his head, too. He knew that.

He saw a pair of long legs flinging down from the tailboard of the light truck, then an extremely good looking young man who laughed easily and surely as he reached up and lifted Hester down. She was dusting off her tan coat. The youth said something, and both looked over. He saw the color leave her face. For a moment she stood motionless, holding to the truck with one small hand, perhaps steadying herself. The youth moved around to the front of the truck. Finally Hester inclined her head, and faintly smiled. She didn't move to cross the street, but seemed hesitant. She turned, slowly, toward the entrance of the hotel.

"Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He did forget himself. With a mumbled apology he leaped down from the car and ran over there, fumbling in his coat pocket. The others merely smiled a little and moved back across the street. As he ran dimly heard an automobile horn and the shriek of brakes, quickly applied, but didn't swerve from his course. His heart was full.

Hester saw him coming, hesitated again, then walked directly on into the hotel. He stopped, amazed, at the curb, tightly gripping a small parcel. She disappeared.

The others were laughing and chatting again, but he hardly heard them. He wandered back across the street and stood, bewildered, by the roadster. A sailor and a girl were walking slowly by, a tall sailor in flaring blue trousers with a white cotton hat on the back of his head. The girl was pretty and clung to his arm. The first dusk of evening was settling here under the trees that lined the sidewalk.

Julian tore the wrappings from the little box and stared at it.

"Here," he addressed the sailor, but had to clear his throat before he could go on, "here, give her this!"

The pretty girl shrank away. The sailor bristled.

"Give her this," said Julian again, out of a white face. "I don't want it. Take it!"

But the sailor hurried his girl away. Julian felt a hand on his arm.

"For Heaven's sake!" It was Sadie's voice. "Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He fixed his intense eyes on her. She hadn't before seen him look like this, and was stirred. "I don't know but what I have," he said slowly. "Here, Sadie, you take it!"

"But, Julian, what . . ."

"Open it!"

"Oh, Julian, dear, a bracelet? Why it's beautiful! But you . . ."

"Keep it!"

"Dear, I can't do that! Why—"

"If you don't, I'll take it down and throw it in the harbor!"

Sadie put it on, and giggled happily. "How perfectly wonderful, dear! It's platinum. And diamonds! But you really . . ."

"I don't see that it matters what it is." He was staring across at the huge impersonal front of the hotel.

She looked over there, too, then up at him. He was trembling.

"Are you coming over?" she asked timidly. It wasn't a question.

"I don't know what I'm going to do."

"You are crazy about her, aren't you, dear?"

"Yes, I'm crazy about her. I'm just damn fool enough to be."

They stood again in silence. Sadie was twisting the bracelet round and round on her wrist, looking down at it, thrilling over it. She hadn't dared dream of owning diamonds. Real diamonds. They suggested other things . . . furs, and exquisite gowns. Her imagination blazed. Then she looked up at him again. His expression hadn't changed. A worried look stole into her eyes. They sought the bracelet again, then the trim little car—all of that she caught at a glance, the spread eagle on the motometer, the plate glass and balloon tires, the costly upholstery—and finally they rested on his handsome new suit.

"The crowd will want you in there, dear," she suggested.

ESSEX SIX

a FOUR door

Sedan

now showing for the first time

Answering an insistent demand for a beautiful, well appointed four door, five passenger body on the smooth and nimble Essex chassis, the Sedan is now being shown for the first time.

It has individuality in line, color and fittings. It is unusually comfortable in the seating arrangement. Upholstering is comparable in texture and quality with that used in costliest cars.

No car, regardless of cost, rides any easier. None is more easily handled in traffic. Essex is nimble, quiet and reliable. It has fine car qualities in chassis and body that assure long, economical service.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

Through an exchange of telegrams with the stage manager, Julian learned that the troupe would arrive at San Diego on the Sunday afternoon. Twice, after a lonely luncheon, he drove out along the Imperial Valley highway in hopes of meeting the trucks, even waited an hour on the Grossmont heights above El Cajon, which elevation commands a wide reach of country. Finally he parked the olive roadster by the Plaza opposite the U. S. Grant hotel and sat there watching the brightly dressed street crowds. Sailors and marines walked with girls, two and two, or sat on the benches under the semi-tropical foliage. Touring cars rolled in to the hotel entrance with the crowds from the races at Tia Juana, just over the Mexican border. There were handsome women and girls, and men with soft hats and with full faces that appeared to be fitted around big cigars. Some of the men and a few of the girls were drunk and had to be quieted as they were led within.

Though the sun had not set, the white arch of a picture theater across the street blazed out in half circles of electric light. Julian began to wish that the dusk would come. He felt unhappily conspicuous in the new car and wearing the gray knickerbocker suit. They'd wonder. In a measure he'd have to explain. He had failed, too, at Hollywood, in striking that blow for Hester. They hadn't so much as let him begin striking. And he'd have to confess that to Sadie. Yes, he botched that, as, it appeared he botched everything. Everything real, that was. Everything that had to do directly with men and women and the human struggle. "I'm just a ghost," he muttered aloud. "Just an ineffectual ghost. You could stick a finger right through me. I wouldn't be there." Then he glanced about to see if any of these hundreds of foreign beings had heard. They seemed foreign beings to him, if congenial to one another. All save him had a sense of belonging . . . to the place, to the nation, to one another. But none had heard, "They wouldn't care if they had," he said, aloud again. "Nobody'd care."

A shiny new touring car came slowly around the corner of the big hotel. He glanced at it and away. But then he looked again. A glimpse of some familiar object had caught the attention of a vagrant inner eye. These objects were red bandannas worn usually about the heads of the actors as well as the actresses of the troupe to protect the hair from dust and wind. Lester was driving. Beside him sat in full dignity Mr. J. Murry Watt. And some of the girls were there. He heard a shout, and shrank back in his seat as the irrepressible Sadie ran excitedly through the traffic. She never wore anything on her short hair, but let it blow. She flung her arms about him and gave him an unabashed kiss, then drew off and looked at him, at his natty suit and cap, his neatly trimmed hair, and at the olive roadster. "Why, Julian!" she cried breathlessly, "how wonderful! How on earth—"

Grace Appleby had crossed by this time. She, too, kissed him, but more casually. They took all that sort of thing, these exciting people, as a matter of course. It was curious.

Lester was wringing his hand. Mr. Watt waited for a pause in the traffic and then strode across.

"My dear young friend," he began, in his stateliest voice, "my partner, indeed. It is a pleasure too long deferred . . ."

All were talking. Apparently he was their hero, their savior. It was difficult to understand. And very confusing. They didn't care who heard them, even when a few pedestrians gathered on the sidewalk. They loved being conspicuous. It was their life. He hated it.

"Did you see our new car?" cried Grace, pointing across the street. Sadie broke in with, "But first look at this gorgeous roadster! Julian, its wonderful."

A red box of a truck rumbled around the corner. He saw the familiar red and yellow lettering. The light truck followed. They pulled up at the curb by the hotel. With a whoop of deight, more young men and women dashed over at the risk of their necks, most of the men in khaki shirts and rough knickers and those bandannas, the girls in gay smocks and dust coats of blue and orange. The noise was now a clamor. Were they wholly mad? Did they propose to hoist him to their shoulders? It was awful. His mournful eyes were looking this way and that for Hester. She wasn't yet in sight. His nerves were on edge. When she did appear he'd only lose his head, too. He knew that.

He saw a pair of long legs flinging down from the tailboard of the light truck, then an extremely good looking young man who laughed easily and surely as he reached up and lifted Hester down. She was dusting off her tan coat. The youth said something, and both looked over. He saw the color leave her face. For a moment she stood motionless, holding to the truck with one small hand, perhaps steadying herself. The youth moved around to the front of the truck. Finally Hester inclined her head, and faintly smiled. She didn't move to cross the street, but seemed hesitant. She turned, slowly, toward the entrance of the hotel.

"Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He did forget himself. With a mumbled apology he leaped down from the car and ran over there, fumbling in his coat pocket. The others merely smiled a little and moved back across the street. As he ran dimly heard an automobile horn and the shriek of brakes quickly applied, but didn't swerve from his course. His heart was full.

Hester saw him coming, hesitated again, then walked directly on into the hotel. He stopped, amazed, at the curb, tightly gripping a small parcel. She disappeared.

The others were laughing and chatting again, but he hardly heard them. He wandered back across the street and stood, bewildered, by the roadster. A sailor and a girl were walking slowly by, a tall sailor in flaring blue trousers with a white cotton hat on the back of his head. The girl was pretty and clung to his arm. The first dusk of evening was settling here under the trees that lined the sidewalk.

Julian tore the wrappings from the little box and stared at it.

"Here," he addressed the sailor, but had to clear his throat before he could go on, "here, give her this!"

The pretty girl shrank away. The sailor bristled.

"Give her this," said Julian again, out of a white face. "I don't want it. Take it!"

But the sailor hurried his girl away. Julian felt a hand on his arm.

"For Heaven's sake!" It was Sadie's voice. "Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He fixed his intense eyes on her. She hadn't before seen him look like this, and was stirred. "I don't know but what I have," he said slowly. "Here, Sadie, you take it!"

"But, Julian, what . . ."

"Open it!"

"Oh, Julian, dear, a bracelet? Why it's beautiful! But you . . ."

"Keep it!"

"Dear, I can't do that! Why—"

"If you don't, I'll take it down and throw it in the harbor!"

Sadie put it on, and giggled happily. "How perfectly wonderful, dear! It's platinum. And diamonds! But you really . . ."

"I don't see that it matters what it is." He was staring across at the huge impersonal front of the hotel.

She looked over there, too, then up at him. He was trembling.

"Are you coming over?" she asked, timidly. It wasn't a question.

"I don't know what I'm going to do."

"You are crazy about her, aren't you, dear?"

"Yes, I'm crazy about her. I'm just damn fool enough to be."

They stood again in silence. Sadie was twisting the bracelet round and round on her wrist, looking down at it, thrilling over it. She hadn't dared dream of owning diamonds. Real diamonds. They suggested other things . . . furs, and exquisite gowns. Her imagination blazed. Then she looked up at him again. His expression hadn't changed. A worried look stole into her eyes. They sought the bracelet again, then the trim little car—all of that she caught at a glance, the spread eagle on the motometer, the plate glass and balloon tires, the costly upholstery—and finally they rested on his handsome new suit.

"The crowd will want you in there, dear," she suggested.

Kearns Sending Former Welterweight After Middle Crown

Walker To Make Bid For Old-Time Fame

Ex-welter Champ, Who Early Last Summer Blew His Crown to Latzo, Will Take Shot at Tiger Flowers Tomorrow Night.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—In mid-victorian fiction, it was the last chip, flung desperately in the pot, that changed everything, including some of the proprietor's very best bank notes; made a new man of the boy friend and lifted the mortgage on the old blacksmith shop. But we deal not with the late eighties but with modern Chicago where men are marksmen.

And so it may be that the latest bid of Jack Kearns and Mickey Walker for the fame they once knew is fated to be their last.

There is an old gambling axiom that you never win when you need it. Walker, said to have thrown off some of his premature age, will meet Tiger Flowers, the colored gentleman from Georgia, at the Chicago Coliseum tomorrow night in a bout for the middleweight championship, and, off hand, the writer would venture that Kearns needs this one more than the average man needs a windpipe. A manager without anything in particular to manage is not far from obscurity.

There is a lesson in human fallibility somewhere in this proposition. Two years ago, Kearns had everything, including the world's heavyweight champion and one of the most popular boxers the welterweight championship has known. A turn of the wheel and all was gone.

Dempsey married, Walker, stonding with his hat in his hand took the middleweight title from Harry Greb, took a beating and then survived the Dave Shade issue only because the judges pulled one out of the hat. Early last summer, he blew the welterweight title to Pete Latzo and, in trying to come back, was stopped by Joe Dundee.

Kearns, now, only had a shouting privilege with Dempsey and an ex-champion who couldn't win. It was a question which was of less value to him.

However, Walker was young and his dissipations were not serious, except for a piping rock exterior that included a comedian's vest. There still was a chance for the young man to see the error of his ways and perhaps Kearns has made the most of it.

Anyhow, the writer will say that for him; few managers, past or present, could have jockeyed an ex-champion into a title match in another class within six months of his official decapitation, as Kearns has done with Walker. Say what you will, Jack Kearns can talk his way in anywhere and out again if he doesn't like it.

Just how much he may have done in reclaiming some of Walker's lost ability will be answered tomorrow night. Mickey got the match by smacking Shuffle Callahan down, which is being done by our best people, and men whose judgment is above reproach have informed me that he stands an excellent chance of winning from Flowers. That may or may not be.

Flowers is neither the best nor the worst champion who ever held the middleweight title. He is hard to beat and probably is in better condition than he was last year. If Walker is right, it will be a great fight. If he isn't it will be nothing of the kind.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

The golf swing isn't nearly so difficult as many golfers seek to make it. For instance, you might adopt and follow a practice long followed by many good players, of making the left hand travel up to a level with the right ear. This is especially good with the irons and it will quickly move you into a full upright swing. That is, start the club straight back from the ball a few inches and then, standing squarely on your feet and with no body turning whatever, let the left arm reach out until it reaches straight out from your body. At that point break the club upward with the wrists and at the same time lift it upward with your arms. Keep your head anchored. This, you will find, will leave your arms and shoulders wonderfully free for action at the top of the back swing, while about the hips and legs there will be a feeling of tightness.

'IT'S ALL BUNK,' ASSERTS TRANT

Dempsey's Body-guard Scoffs at Poison Rumor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Mike Trant, Chicago detective sergeant, but more famous as the personal bodyguard of Jack Dempsey, today poo-pooed the story that Dempsey had been poisoned prior to entering the ring for his title bout with Gene Tunney.

"It's pure bunk," said Mike, indignantly. "Wasn't I there just for the purpose of protecting the champ, and who will say that I fell down on the job?"

Trant admitted that although Dempsey was not his old self when he entered the ring, he was sure he had not been poisoned or otherwise the victim of foul play.

FORBES IS STAR IN HOCKEY CLASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Jakie Forbes was being hailed today as the hero of last night's hard fought hockey battle between the Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Americans. The diminutive New York star was mainly responsible for his team holding to a 2 to 2 tie after two extra ten minute periods. In all he handled about fifty-eight chances.

WINNIPEG BEATS ST. PAUL ICERS

WINNIPEG, Mann., Dec. 2.—Winnipeg hockey fans were happy today over the showing made by local skaters in beating the tough St. Paul team of the American Hockey League two straight games. The Maroons annexed their second victory last night by the score of 4 to 1.

REDS MAY BUY COLUMBUS TEAM

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Baseball fans here today were optimistic in the expectation that within the next ten days, owners of the Cincinnati Reds will purchase the Columbus team of the American association.

Decision to mail their final purchase price offer to Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago, owner of the local club, accompanied by a certified check, was made by Garry Herrmann, Cincinnati, and other owners of the Cincinnati team, during a conference with Joe F. Carr, president of the Columbus Senators here late Wednesday.

Wilson, it was reported, fixed $125,000 as the sale price for the Columbus franchise.

County High Teams Furnish Customary Assembly of Stars

Salem, County Championship Outfit, Draws Five Berths on First Squad; East Liverpool Four and Wellsville Two.

MARKED by an abundance of strong, versatile linemen from tackle to tackle, plenty of brilliant, flashy halfbacks, but a startling scarcity of outstanding ends and capable fullbacks, Columbiana county scholastic football teams, however, can offer their customary quota of stars as the open season on all-star teams gets under way.

No all-star team is anything more than a product of personal opinion and inasmuch as the pickers usually see none of the teams, outside of their own provinces, more than once, it is entirely possible to overlook in the rush some player who is an outstanding performer in every other game but that one, perhaps.

Salem won the Columbiana county championship by rolling up decisive scores over all other county opponents and for this reason perhaps, should be given the edge in glory.

On the above All-County selections five Salem men qualify on the first team; four East Liverpool players are given berths; and two from Wellsville complete the squad. These three teams were outstanding this fall.

There is rarely a season in which there is an abundance of outstanding material in every department and Noticeable first of all was the scarcity of real ends.

East Liverpool could have contributed at least two had not circumstances conspired to prevent Dick McKee began the year as an end, but his forward passing was needed in the backfield and after several games at the flank post, he was shifted to halfback. McConville could not have been kept off an end post had he been able to play out the season. Injuries kept him idle, however, for three or four games.

Coach George Kidder, of the local eleven, agrees that the two Salem wingmen are possibly the best in the business this fall. Rush and Campbell consequently are delegated to the respective end jobs and local grid followers who saw the game at Salem will concede that this pair were big factors in the damage done by the Quakers.

Their forte is collecting passes. The aerial attack of the Salem eleven overshadowed any other means of attack at their command. The Quakers won every game. By this line of reasoning it is evident that there must have been some one on the job to get those passes. Campbell and Rush are the lads who got them, or most of them, anyway. Salem was a stronger offensive team than it was defensively.

Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, are nominated as second-team choices. Lynch was a disturbing factor in the appearance of the Browns here early in the season English contributed a number of good performances.

The tackles are Older, of Salem, and Hepp, of Wellsville. It would be difficult to oust them. Both are veterans and both, it chances, were the captains of their respective teams. They played an all-around brand of football, both on offense and defense.

Thorne, of Wellsville, and Todd, of East Liverpool, are given the guard berths. Here is another pair of "naturals," at least to the south county viewpoint and, by the way, northern county experts are missing half the season when they fail to see East Liverpool and Wellsville in action in a Thanksgiving battle. Thorne was an imposing figure in the Wellsville line here Turkey day. Todd was probably the Blue's outstanding lineman, with one exception.

The exception is Dick Larkins and with this name the printed word is likely to attempt to run riot in an orgy of enthusiasm of a degree that can't be placed in black and white. One of the greatest leaders the Blue has ever had—without doubt the greatest center in Columbiana county and possibly in eastern Ohio—one of the coolest field pilots on scholastic grids—a keen diagnostician of opposing plays, brainy, and—a real sportsman—all of that and more is Dick Larkins. Too much can't be said for this youth who last week closed his scholastic football career.

Sidinger, of Salem, is probably the best of a small lot of good quarterbacks. He qualifies as a good general, probably the best all around kicker in the county, and is something of an adept at line plunging.

To Pusey, of East Liverpool, and Harsh, of Salem, are assigned the halfback positions. The former is probably one of the lightest ball toters in the conference but is one of the slickest customers in football togs that fans have watched for some time Despite his lack of weight, he punched the line and ran the ends with the rest of them. But he achieved his greatest triumphs probably on the receiving end of the forward pass. Harsh was the outstanding member of the Salem back quartet and was qualified along lines similar to those in which Pusey excelled.

Bromby, of East Liverpool, is the fullback. He was probably the lightest fullback in the county but it had no effect on his driving power, Bromby plowed holes through such forward walls as Akron East, Toronto, East Palestine, Wellsville and other teams this season in slashing style. He won the East Palestine game almost single handed. He could punt and he could hurl the forward pass. His versatility, consequently, places him in the front rank.

The second team is one that probably could give the first place stars something of a battle, at that, with Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, on the ends; Schmid, Salem, and Switzer, Columbiana, at the tackles; Lemly, East Palestine, and Irwin, East Liverpool, at the guards; and Matthews, Salem, at center; Provost, Wellsville, at quarter; McKee, East Liverpool, and Dolan, East Palestine, at halves; and Irons, of Wellsville, at full.

The second team backfield probably lacks the fire and snap that would characterize a quartet such as Sidinger, Pusey, Harsh and Bromby, but could not be outdone in consistency.

Walker To Make Bid For Old-Time Fame

Ex-welter Champ, Who His Crown to Latzo, Flowers Tomorrow Early Last Summer Blew Will Take Shot at Tiger Night.

That is, start the club straight back from the ball a few inches and then, standing squarely on your feet and with no body turning whatever, let the left arm reach out until it reaches straight out from your body. At that point break the club upward with the wrists and at the same time lift it upward with your arms. Keep your head anchored. This, you will find, will leave your arms and shoulders wonderfully free for action at the top of the back swing, while about the hips and legs there will be a feeling of tightness.

Fight Results

AT KANSAS CITY, KAN.—Pete Sarmiento, of the Philippines, and Joe Rivers, of Kansas City, drew, ten rounds.

AT PORTLAND, ORE. — Izzy Schwartz, of New York, won decision over Chuck Hellman, of Portland, ten rounds.

AT MEADVILLE, PA.—Al Corbett, of Cleveland, won decision over Phil O'Dowd, of Columbus, ten rounds.

'IT'S ALL BUNK,' ASSERTS TRANT

Dempsey's Body-guard Scoffs at Poison Rumor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Mike Trant, Chicago detective sergeant, but more famous as the personal bodyguard of Jack Dempsey, today poo-pooed the story that Dempsey had been poisoned prior to entering the ring for his title bout with Gene Tunney.

"It's pure bunk," said Mike, indignantly. "Wasn't I there just for the purpose of protecting the champ, and who will say that I fell down on the job?"

Trant admitted that although Dempsey was not his old self when he entered the ring, he was sure he had not been poisoned or otherwise the victim of foul play.

FORBES IS STAR IN HOCKEY CLASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Jakie Forbes was being hailed today as the hero of last night's hard fought hockey battle between the Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Americans. The diminutive New York star was mainly responsible for his team holding to a 2 to 2 tie after two extra ten minute periods. In all he handled about fifty-eight chances

RODEBAUGH WINS FROM HERBERT

Rodebaugh pulled out with a victory in a close match last night with Herbert in the American Billiard parlor tournament. Rodebaugh copped a 100 to 93 decision, but it was close all the way.

Johannes and Eisman will clash tonight with Johannes taking on Smith in Friday's tilt.

WINNIPEG BEATS ST. PAUL ICERS

WINNIPEG, Mann., Dec. 2.—Winnipeg hockey fans were happy today over the showing made by local skaters in beating the tough St. Paul team of the American Hockey League two straight games. The Maroons annexed their second victory last night by the score of 4 to 1.

REDS MAY BUY COLUMBUS TEAM

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Baseball fans here today were optimistic in the expectation that within the next ten days, owners of the Cincinnati Reds will purchase the Columbus team of the American association.

Decision to mail their final purchase price offer to Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago, owner of the local club, accompanied by a certified check, was made by Garry Herrmann, Cincinnati, and other owners of the Cincinnati team, during a conference with Joe F. Carr, president of the Columbus Senators here late Wednesday.

Wilson, it was reported, fixed $125,000 as the sale price for the Columbus franchise.

Sherry Cops Mat Match.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Jack Sherry, Alaskan-Indian wrestler, won from George Walker, Canadian, in a two-fall match Wednesday night. Ray Carpenter defeated Charley Lehman in 22 minutes; Casey Berger won from Young Holcomb, Chillicothe, in 12 minutes, 40 seconds; Paul Turner threw Clarence Grace in two minutes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASH TONIGHT

St. Stephens and Christian cage teams of the "Y" Sunday school league will battle tonight on the St. Stephen's court.

The game will get under way at 8 o'clock. Joe Canne will be the referee.

County High Teams Furnish Customary Assembly of Stars

Salem, County Championship Outfit, Draws Five Berths on First Squad; East Liverpool Four and Wellsville Two.

MARKED by an abundance of strong, versatile linemen from tackle to tackle, plenty of brilliant, flashy halfbacks, but a startling scarcity of outstanding ends and capable fullbacks, Columbiana county scholastic football teams, however, can offer their customary quota of stars as the open season on all-star teams gets under way.

No all-star team is anything more than a product of personal opinion and inasmuch as the pickers usually see none of the teams, outside of their own provinces, more than once, it is entirely possible to overlook in the rush some player who is an outstanding performer in every other game but that one, perhaps.

Salem won the Columbiana county championship by rolling up decisive scores over all other county opponents and for this reason perhaps, should be given the edge in glory.

On the above All-County selections five Salem men qualify on the first team; four East Liverpool players are given berths; and two from Wellsville complete the squad. These three teams were outstanding this fall.

There is rarely a season in which there is an abundance of outstanding material in every department and Noticeable first of all was the scarcity of real ends.

East Liverpool could have contributed at least two had not circumstances conspired to prevent. Dick McKee began the year as an end, but his forward passing was needed in the backfield and after several games at the flank post, he was shifted to halfback. McConville could not have been kept off an end post had he been able to play out the season. Injuries kept him idle, however, for three or four games.

Coach George Kidder, of the local eleven, agrees that the two Salem wingmen are possibly the best in the business this fall. Rush and Campbell consequently are delegated to the respective end jobs and local grid followers who saw the game at Salem will concede that this pair were big factors in the damage done by the Quakers.

Their forte is collecting passes. The aerial attack of the Salem eleven overshadowed any other means of attack at their command. The Quakers won every game. By this line of reasoning it is evident that there must have been some one on the job to get those passes. Campbell and Rush are the lads who got them, or most of them, anyway. Salem was a stronger offensive team than it was defensively.

Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, are nominated as second-team choices. Lynch was a disturbing factor in the appearance of the Browns here early in the season English contributed a number of good performances.

The tackles are Older, of Salem, and Hepp, of Wellsville. It would be difficult to oust them. Both are veterans and both, it chances, were the captains of their respective teams. They played an all-around brand of football, both on offense and defense.

Thorne, of Wellsville, and Todd, of East Liverpool, are given the guard berths. Here is another pair of "naturals," at least to the south county viewpoint and, by the way, northern county experts are missing half the season when they fail to see East Liverpool and Wellsville in action in a Thanksgiving battle. Thorne was an imposing figure in the Wellsville line here Turkey day. Todd was probably the Blue's outstanding lineman, with one exception.

The exception is Dick Larkins and with this name the printed word is likely to attempt to run riot in an orgy of enthusiasm of a degree that can't be placed in black and white. One of the greatest leaders the Blue has ever had—without doubt the greatest center in Columbiana county and possibly in eastern Ohio—one of the coolest field pilots on scholastic grids—a keen diagnostician of opposing plays, brainy, and—a real sportsman—all of that and more is Dick Larkins. Too much can't be said for this youth who last week closed his scholastic football career.

Sidinger, of Salem, is probably the best of a small lot of good quarterbacks. He qualifies as a good general, probably the best all around kicker in the county, and is something of an adept at line plunging.

To Pusey, of East Liverpool, and Harsh, of Salem, are assigned the halfback positions. The former is probably one of the lightest ball toters in the conference but is one of the slickest customers in football togs that fans have watched for some time. Despite his lack of weight, he punched the line and ran the ends with the rest of them. But he achieved his greatest triumphs probably on the receiving end of the forward pass. Harsh was the outstanding member of the Salem back quartet and was qualified along lines similar to those in which Pusey excelled.

Bromby, of East Liverpool, is the fullback. He was probably the lightest fullback in the county but it had no effect on his driving power. Bromby plowed holes through such forward walls as Akron East, Toronto, East Palestine, Wellsville and other teams this season in slashing style. He won the East Palestine game almost single handed. He could punt and he could hurl the forward pass. His versatility, consequently, places him in the front rank.

The second team is one that probably could give the first place stars something of a battle, at that, with Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, on the ends; Schmid, Salem, and Switzer, Columbiana, at the tackles; Lemly, East Palestine, and Irwin, East Liverpool, at the guards; and Matthews, Salem, at center; Provost, Wellsville, at quarter; McKee, East Liverpool, and Dolan, East Palestine, at halves; and Irons, of Wellsville, at full.

The second team backfield probably lacks the fire and snap that would characterize a quartet such as Sidinger, Pusey, Harsh and Bromby, but could not be outdone in consistency.

Pumpkin, Seven Cigars, Keg of Nails Used In Vote Hunt

Independent Democratic Candidate for Senate From Illinois Narrowly Escapes Making Congressional History.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—If James H. Kirby, independent Democratic candidate for the senate from Illinois this year, had been elected he probably would have made congressional history in Washington.

Kirby filed with the senate today one of the most unusual accounts of campaign expenditures and activities that has ever been spread on the records.

He frankly listed his occupation as "politics—state, national and international," and gave his campaign expenses $472.39 1-2.

Included among the numerous items of campaign expenses were:

One can of pumpkin—25 cents.
Seven "two-fer" cigars—32 1-2 cents.
Two kegs of nails—$181.62.
Wear and tear on automobile—$200.
Hotel expenses "including all tips"—$50.
Barber bills, April 13 to Nov. 2—$310.

Kirby explained that when at home he always "shaved himself and cut my own hair."

There was no explanation of the pumpkin and nails.

SPEAK FRENCH IN "LA BOHEME"

Lillian Gish Plays Role of "Mimi" at American.

Obtaining "atmosphere" in motion pictures sometimes takes a queer form.

In "La Boheme," the much-heralded new starring vehicle of Lilian Gish, now playing at the American theatre, actors and directors spoke nothing but French during the filming of the story—thus keeping in the absolute spirit of the colorful story of the Paris art colony.

Miss Gish plays the tragic role of "Mimi," waif of the Quartier Latin, whose story is known to millions through the famous opera. The play is based on the Henri Murger novel, of which the opera was an episode.

John Gilbert is seen as the romantic poet Rodolphe, Mimi's lover, while Renee Andoree portrays the vivacious "Musetta," who, in the opera, sings the "Musetta Waltz." Others in the cast include Roy D'Arcy, the "crown prince" of "The Merry Widow;" Edward Everett Horton, Karl Dane, Gino Corrado, George Hassell, Frank Currier, Eugene Pouyet, Rosita Marstini and David Mir.

King Vidor, director of "The Big Parade," directed the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

British Empire Antique Dealers Being Forced Out of Business

LONDON.—Fear that the antique dealers of England will be forced out of business in the next twenty-five years because all the antiques will be in the homes of American millionaires is expressed by Thomas Rohan, one of England's best known art and antique dealers, in his third book on antikues, entitled "Old Beautiful."

"No English dealer can compete with the dollar," writes Rohan in describing how Americans cable to dealers to get a certain article "price no object."

"In twenty-five years' time there will be but few dealers in antiques left in England," he says. "Even today the establishments which thrived upon reproductions during the past fifteen years are closing their doors because it is becoming common knowledge that works of the craftsmen of the eighteenth century are exceedingly scarce in England."

Penetrates to the Sore Spot

Relief in a Jiffy

A LAME back, a strained muscle or aching joints will stop paining and become natural if you will apply a little of that old-fashioned liniment known as Mexican Mustang. Because of its magical penetrating action—it goes through the outer layers of the skin without burning or a trace of blister, right to the sore spot. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Keep it in your home ready for use. You will not be disappointed with Mexican Mustang Liniment.

CERAMIC BOOKS SHOW OF MAGIC

Blackstone and His Company Here on Dec. 9-10-11.

East Liverpool is to have three days of magic. Blackstone, the world-traveled magician and his big company of wonder-workers will come to the Ceramic theatre, starting Thursday, December 9, with an extra matinee Saturday.

Magic is the oldest form of amusement. The ancient Egyptians performed magic. In India, magic has held sway for thousands of years. It was performed and is performed today as a religious rite. The ancient Chinese were adept in the art of mystification. That this old art is as popular today as at any time in recorded history is attested by the fact that Hermann amassed a fortune at its practice. Kellar, who followed him, retired, a comparatively young man, a millionaire.

Blackstone, the latest of the great magicians, has made two complete tours of the world with his company. Since Blackstone's return from his latest visit to the Far East, he has been appearing in the principal cities of the west to capacity houses.

Magic is very much alive and will continue to live for the reason that the public like to be mystified and baffled. Notwithstanding the fact that magic had its inception in the Orient, the Anglo-Saxon is the best magician.

Africa's Coal Cheapest.

Paying coal bills in Africa is easier than in this country, for it has the cheapest coal in the world, and the seasons for stoking furnaces are much shorter. Accessibility of the mines and the large number of native workers make the cost of mining small, and the popularity of the inexpensive fuel has grown until production now is three times that of twenty-five years ago.

Pumpkin, Seven Cigars, Keg of Nails Used In Vote Hunt

Independent Democratic Candidate for Senate From Illinois Narrowly Escapes Making Congressional History.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—If James H. Kirby, independent Democratic candidate for the senate from Illinois this year, had been elected he probably would have made congressional history in Washington.

Kirby filed with the senate today one of the most unusual accounts of campaign expenditures and activities that has ever been spread on the records.

He frankly listed his occupation as "politics—state, national and international," and gave his campaign expenses $472.39 1-2.

Included among the numerous items of campaign expenses were:

One can of pumpkin—25 cents.
Seven "two-fer" cigars—32 1-2 cents.
Two kegs of nails—$181.62.
Wear and tear on automobile—$200.
Hotel expenses "including all tips"—$50.
Barber bills, April 13 to Nov. 2—$310.

Kirby explained that when at home he always "shaved himself and cut my own hair."

There was no explanation of the pumpkin and nails.

SPEAK FRENCH IN "LA BOHEME"

Lillian Gish Plays Role of "Mimi" at American.

Obtaining "atmosphere" in motion pictures sometimes takes a queer form.

In "La Boheme," the much-heralded new starring vehicle of Lilian Gish, now playing at the American theatre, actors and directors spoke nothing but French during the filming of the story—thus keeping in the absolute spirit of the colorful story of the Paris art colony.

Miss Gish plays the tragic role of "Mimi," waif of the Quartier Latin, whose story is known to millions through the famous opera. The play is based on the Henri Murger novel, of which the opera was an episode.

John Gilbert is seen as the romantic poet Rodolphe, Mimi's lover, while Renee Andoree portrays the vivacious "Musetta," who, in the opera, sings the "Musetta Waltz." Others in the cast include Roy D'Arcy, the "crown prince" of "The Merry Widow;" Edward Everett Horton, Karl Dane, Gino Corrado, George Hassell, Frank Currier, Eugene Pouyet, Rosita Marstini and David Mir.

King Vidor, director of "The Big Parade," directed the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin; bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

British Empire Antique Dealers Being Forced Out of Business

LONDON.—Fear that the antique dealers of England will be forced out of business in the next twenty-five years because all the antiques will be in the homes of American millionaires is expressed by Thomas Rohan, one of England's best known art and antique dealers, in his third book on antikues, entitled "Old Beautiful."

"No English dealer can compete with the dollar," writes Rohan in describing how Americans cable to dealers to get a certain article "price no object."

"In twenty-five years' time there will be but few dealers in antiques left in England," he says. "Even today the establishments which thrived upon reproductions during the past fifteen years are closing their doors because it is becoming common knowledge that works of the craftsmen of the eighteenth century are exceedingly scarce in England."

Penetrates to the Sore Spot

Relief in a Jiffy

A LAME back, a strained muscle or aching joints will stop paining and become natural if you will apply a little of that old-fashioned liniment known as Mexican Mustang. Because of its magical penetrating action—it goes through the outer layers of the skin without burning or a trace of blister, right to the sore spot. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Keep it in your home ready for use. You will not be disappointed with Mexican Mustang Liniment.

CERAMIC BOOKS SHOW OF MAGIC

Blackstone and His Company Here on Dec. 9-10-11.

East Liverpool is to have three days of magic. Blackstone, the world-traveled magician and his big company of wonder-workers will come to the Ceramic theatre, starting Thursday, December 9, with an extra matinee Saturday.

Magic is the oldest form of amusement. The ancient Egyptians performed magic. In India, magic has held sway for thousands of years. It was performed and is performed today as a religious rite. The ancient Chinese were adept in the art of mystification. That this old art is as popular today as at any time in recorded history is attested by the fact that Hermann amassed a fortune at its practice. Kellar, who followed him, retired, a comparatively young man, a millionaire.

Blackstone, the latest of the great magicians, has made two complete tours of the world with his company. Since Blackstone's return from his latest visit to the Far East, he has been appearing in the principal cities of the west to capacity houses.

Magic is very much alive and will continue to live for the reason that the public like to be mystified and baffled. Notwithstanding the fact that magic had its inception in the Orient, the Anglo-Saxon is the best magician.

Africa's Coal Cheapest.

Paying coal bills in Africa is easier than in this country, for it has the cheapest coal in the world, and the seasons for stoking furnaces are much shorter. Accessibility of the mines and the large number of native workers make the cost of mining small, and the popularity of the inexpensive fuel has grown until production now is three times that of twenty-five years ago.

Much Sugar Found in Corn.

In a bushel of corn there are approximately thirty-four pounds of starch, and depending upon what the market demands the amount of sugar extracted from this starch varies from a few pounds to all of the thirty-four. In actual commercial practice only eight or ten pounds of sugar are taken out of the average bushel of corn today, but the entire thirty-four pounds of starch could be converted into sugar if necessary.

A proven treatment for COUGHS

WHEN you take PERTUSSIN to relieve your cough, you are taking one of the most widely used and effective cough remedies, known to every practising physician and pharmacist.

It is a most satisfactory treatment for all harmful coughs, because (1) it quickly relieves the cough spasms, (2) it soothes the inflamed throat and bronchial tissues, (3) it is absolutely harmless and, (4) most important of all, it helps Nature to hasten recovery by clearing the air passages of germ-laden phlegm.

Sold by all druggists in large and small bottles.

CHAPLIN LOVE BREAK HINTED

Charles and Former Lita Grey Have Separated.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 — Charles Chaplin, film comedian, and his wife, the former Lita Grey, have separated.

As the aftermath of a disagreement at the Chaplin home Monday night, when Chaplin entertained a number of guests, Mrs. Chaplin took her two children and went to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Curry.

Neither Chaplin nor his wife would discuss just what occurred on the night Mrs. Chaplin decided to take their two children, Charles Spencer, Jr., and Sidney Earle, to the home of her grandparents.

Mrs. Chaplin today did not deny that she had left her husband's home.

Chaplin also admitted that his wife had left their home.

"Mrs. Chaplin has taken the children with her," he said. "I have asked that she and they return."

Rumors of a separation between the film comedian and his wife have been current in Hollywood circles for many weeks, but both had denied that such an action was contemplated.

Mrs. Chaplin recently returned from a trip to Honolulu. Before going she said the trip had no significance, that she still loved her husband and that no separation was thought of.

The Chaplins were married on Nov. 25, 1924, in Mexico.

The former Lita Grey was Chaplin's second wife. He had previously been married to Mildred Harris, also a motion picture actress. They were divorced.

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

A wireless outfit that may be changed from telegraphic to telephony is to be installed at Christchurch, N. Z.

DR. PRITCHETT of the Carnegie Foundation, reports to Dr. Butler of Columbia, that Zionism in Palestine cannot be a success. Industry cannot be made profitable, and bringing in many Jews annoys the Arabs, so says Dr. Pritchett.

TOO bad to annoy Arabs, but Dr. Pritchett must know that Jews owned Palestine long ago, and are taking back their own.

Money, intelligence, energy and will power work wonders. The Jews possess all four and will use them.

Arabs outnumber Jews 10 to 1 in Palestine. Jews outweigh the Arabs 1,000 to 1 when it comes to thinking, and thinking is what counts, not numbers.

THE worst situation in China since the Boxer rebellion causes landing of British and French fighters backed by United States marines. Four American destroyers are sent to Hankow.

It is said our government "will send no more naval units to China." A good idea. It isn't our country or our fight. Why should we mix in it?

BUT a worse tragedy is represented by the man of genius. His brain contains intellectual gold nuggets of gigantic size. But, like the turkey with the lumps of gold in its inside, the genius cannot tell where he got it.

DEFENSE OPENS FIGHT TO TEAR DOWN OIL LAND FRAUD COUNT

Senator Walsh of Montana is Last Government Witness.

HE READS LETTER

W. J. Lambert, Chief of Fall's Counsel, Begins Argument.

By GEORGE E. DURNO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2--The government rested its case today against Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate, on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of naval oil reserves.

Explanation of $100,000 Loan.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, chief government counsel, brought the government's case to a close soon after the trial opened this morning, and the defense then began its effort to tear down the federal indictment of the two "old prospectors."

The last government witness was Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, who took the stand to present a letter he had received from Fall during the senate investigation three years ago, in which the cabinet official declared E. B. McLean, wealthy publisher had loaned him the $100,000 under scrutiny, although the checks to that amount were never cashed. Fall wrote further he was too ill to answer a subpoena to appear before the senate investigators.

"I can assure you that the loan was not from Mr. Sinclair (H. F. Sinclair, the oil operator) or any one connected with the Teapot Dome or any other lease," Fall had written.

With this parting shot into the vitals of the defense, Roberts and Pomerene, rested and Wilton J. Lambert, chief of Fall's counsel, launched into his opening argument to the jury.

Cites Absence From Washington.

Lambert was entitled to open at this late date because the defendants have separate counsel. Frank Hogan, first Doheny attorney, had addressed the jury at the outset of the trial when Roberts did likewise for the government.

Lambert concentrated his early fire on establishing with the jury that Fall was out of Washington while the oil leases and contracts in question were being negotiated. He cited that the former secretary was away July 1, 1921, to October 17, 1921; from Oct. 25 to 28, 1921; from December 1, 1921, to January 27, 1922; from April 13 to May 16, 1922, and from Oct. 8 to Nov. 27, 1922.

The Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage bids were opened April 15, 1922, and the contract, which stipulated that the Doheny interests were to get leases in the naval reserve at a later date, was awarded on April 25, 1922.

Refers to Denby's Letter.

Referring to the return to the capital of Fall from the trip cited--November 27, 1922—Lambert said:

"He returned just two days before the famous letter of Nov. 29 from the pen of the secretary of the navy (Edwin Denby) which changed the whole aspect of the situation.

"We will introduce this letter for your inspection.

"So, too, we will show you the concurrence of the president of the United States, Warren G. Harding.

"You have heard these government officials who have testified. Other government officials will appear and offer you evidence just as straight forward and just as conclusive."

Attorney Fred H. Larmer, Akron, will be the speaker at the annual memorial exercises to be held by members of East Liverpool lodge, No. 258, B. P. O. Elks, in the Ceramic theatre at 2:45 o'clock, Sunday afternoon. Lahrmer is a member of the Akron lodge.

Music for the exercises will be rendered by the Imperial mixed quartet, of Pittsburgh, which includes Miss Helen Baschhoph, soprano; Mrs. Marie Lonz St. Clair, contralto; Arthur Ray Davis, tenor, Isaac M. Myers, baritone, and Charles A. Pearson, accompanist. Six numbers will be given by the quartet.

Instrumental music will be rendered by the Ceramic theatre orchestra.

Lodge men, who will occupy seats in the auditorium, will march to the stage for a floral tribute in honor of the departed at the close of the memorial address.

The public is invited to attend.

Man Seeks $50 a Minute for Hour He Spent in Jail

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 2.—Alleged damages equal to $50 a minute for the 60 minutes he was imprisoned in the Yorkville jail, are sought by Andy Makara, Jr., in a suit for $3,000 filed here today.

Claiming false arrest on a charge of operating a disorderly house, Makara named as defendants Mayor Benjamin Oliver and Marshal John Ferguson.

After his hour's imprisonment, Makara was released.

DEMPSEY DENIES "POISON" STORY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—"If Captain Mabbutt was poisoned it was not at my table for he had no meals with me while I was training at Atlantic City."

HEALTH SEAL BOOTH LEADERS NAMED ON EVE OF CAMPAIGN

Christmas Drive Will be Opened Here Tomorrow.

Seek Funds to Wage Fight Against White Plague.

Christmas seal campaign in East Liverpool will be formally launched tomorrow when booths will be opened in downtown buildings and business houses.

The City Club federation committee, headed by Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman, Mrs. John S. Goodwin, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Larkins, auditor, will seek $2,250 to combat the spread of the white plague. The campaign will close on Christmas day.

Slogan in the drive this year is "For Health and Healthful Living."

The committee today called attention to the educational campaign against tuberculosis which is waged simultaneously with the seal sales. Hundreds of folders and other literature, carrying out the idea of healthful living, will be distributed. This educational work is especially for school children.

To each purchaser of stamps in sums of $1 or more will be presented a button. Bonds in denomination of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100 also will be offered during the campaign.

Eighty per cent of funds collected will be retained for use in the East Liverpool district, the remaining 20 per cent will go to the national organization.

Here is a list of the chairmen for the various booths which will be opened Friday:

DENIES RECTOR'S WIFE HAD ANY KNOWLEDGE OF ILLICIT LOVE

Directing Attention to Widower, Attorney Says: "He is Husband Whose Wife Told Him That She Cared More for Finger of Mr. Hall Than She Did for His Whole Body."

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—In impassioned addresses to the jury in the Hall-Mills murder trial, the two "big guns" of the defense, Robert H. McCarter, the senior counsel, and Senator Clarence E. Case, summed up the case of the defense today. Both bitterly assailed the tactics of the prosecution and asserted the absolute innocence of the defendants, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her brothers, Henry and William Stevens.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—Robert H. McCarter, senior counsel for the defense, launched into a bitter attack on Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, when he resumed his summation at the Halls-Mills trial today.

McCarter finished summing up at 10:50 a. m., having talked 40 minutes this morning. His speech to the jury had required two hours and fifty-five minutes.

"I hope, gentlemen of the jury," the distinguished looking dean of the New Jersey bar, said, "that you were not fooled by the theatrical display when this pig woman was brought into the courtroom to testify, placed on a bed and a doctor put on one side and a nurse on the other, to take her temperature and all that kind of nonsense.

"This theatrical display was done to make you believe she was on the point of death. I classify such a display as humbug."

No Levity by Defendants.

McCarter explained that he was not going to speak at any great length about Mrs. Gibson, that his associate, Senator Clarence E. Case, would deal with her thoroughly later. But nevertheless, he, McCarter, had a few things he wanted to say about Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Hall listened to McCarter's booming voice with an air of gravity. She did not smile when others in the courtroom were moved to laughter by any incident taking place in the courtroom. There was no levity shown by Willie or Henry either.

McCarter challenged Simpson to show in the testimony given that Mrs. Hall had any knowledge of the illicit relations between Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills, as the state charged in the opening address.

Mrs. Hall Innocent, He Says.

McCarter demanded to know why James Mills, husband of the slain choir singer, was not charged with the murder.

"No one knew the movements of James Mills on the night of the crime," roared McCarter.

"For more than a month the state has been trying to fasten this crime on Mrs. Hall and her brothers. They have accused Mrs. Hall who did not know of the relations between her husband and Mrs. Mills, without having given any consideration to James Mills, the man who knew of the relations of his wife with Rev. Hall."

McCarter told the intently listening jury that "Mrs. Hall is an innocent of knowledge of this affair as any one of you or I am."

In directing the jury's attention to Mills, McCarter said, "He is the husband whose wife told him she cared

MISSING GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 2—A body, partially identified as that of Clara Olson, missing sweetheart of Erdman Olson, Gale college student, for whom a murder warrant has been issued, was found in a cornfield four miles north of Mount Sterling, Wis., today.

Members of the posse combing the country around the home of the missing girl said they thought it was Clara Olson although, because of decomposition, final indentification was held up pending the arrival of relatives.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL COACH GEORGE KIDDER ATTACKS NEWSPAPERS AND CITY'S SERVICE CLUBS IN SPEECH AT KIWANIS NOON LUNCHEON

Service clubs, the press and the public in general were scored for their alleged lack of interest in high school athletics by George Kidder, athletic coach, at today's noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in Larkins' annex.

Kidder charged that the East Liverpool newspaper had devoted as much space to a report of the Chester-New Cumberland Thanksgiving Day game at New Cumberland as had been given the East Liverpool-Wellsville game in East Liverpool. He compared publicity matter given local high school athletics with that extended by the Steubenville papers to the high school team of that city.

"East Liverpool isn't a good football town and a town that isn't for football, isn't a town at all," said Kidder. "The high school team never has been supported here by the papers or the general public and it's a mighty tough job for a high school coach to carry on his work with that kind of support.

"You merchants, who are advertisers, should have some influence with the mouthpiece of the community to bring about the cooperation which the athletic department of your high school justly deserves.

"I realize that I may be heaping hot coals upon my head for some of the things that I have said here today, but I haven't had time to be diplomatic about it. I am voicing my true sentiments with regard to the support which you men and the press have been tendering the high school football team."

Kidder, in his talk, declared that the East Liverpool High school had won six of its nine games this season, which he said he regarded to be "a fairly good record" in the face of things which "had to be contended with." In its nine contests the local gridders made a total of 2,503 yards on opposing teams, the coach declared.

Other guests at the meeting were Prof. William Cox, high school coach, and Captain Dick Larkins of the football team. Neither Cox nor Larkins spoke.

Clarence Cline presided. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the chorus singing. The principal speaker was Rev. John L. Mauer, pastor of the St. Ann's Catholic church, East End.

"Men are not thinking in this day and age," said the priest. "Ask yourself at night 'How much thinking have I done today?" and if you answer yourself conscientiously you will say 'very little.'

"A man will not love his family, his fellow man nor his country unless he is a thinking man. A man doesn't have to be a philosopher to be a thinking man. No matter what you think about just think. Man is afraid to fight his own battles if he does not think."

"Give me men that appreciate each other and I will give you men that will move the world. Men of this kind represent power."

W. A. Weaver, chairman of the nominating committee, read a list of candidates who have been named for the election which will take place at next week's meeting.

The candidates are:

President—Dr. W. A. Hobbs and C. W. Hendershot.

Second vice-president — John Newell.

Treasurer—C. C. Ashbaugh.

Trustee—Clarence Cline.

Board of Directors (six to elect)—J. W. Finley, F. P. Williams, Harry Hoffman, Charles T. Larkins, Harry Keyes, Frank Swaney, R. C. Benedum, Cyril Taylor, Claude Nease, F. R. O Hanlon, Thompson Andrews and R. G. Thompson.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by C. G. Anderson and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

DRY OFFICIALS TO HOLD PLACES

Official announcement was made yesterday that Henry N. Bradley, federal prohibition director for the northern West Virginia district under the R. A. Fulwiler regime, will be retained by John D. Pennington, the new administrator for West Virginia, since this state has been attached to the western Pennsylvania region for prohibition enforcement.

W. W. Graham, director for the southern district of West Virginia, is also to be retained, with headquarters in Charleston.

No changes in the personnel of either district will be made for the present, it was made known.

Federal Agents George B. Heide, J. J. Doerr and Hobart G. Smith went to Pittsburgh yesterday, in answer to a summons from their new chief, and spent the day in conference with him.

ADVICE GIVEN TO DAIRYMEN

"The future of the dairy business in West Virginia depends on the care given to the calves that will soon become a part of the herds, declares H. A. Rust of dairy husbandry department of the West Virginia college of agriculture.

M. Rust particularly emphasizes sanitation and care at time of birth and proper feeding during the first five or six months. The wideawake dairyman knows when his cows are due to be freshen and provides quiet, clean and warm quarters for calving. Mr. Rust advises that shortly after the cow calves, the naval cord should be clipped about three inches from the body and the remaining portion dipped in iodine. The calf should be left with the cow for the first few days as the colostrum milk given at this time has a very beneficial effect upon the digestive tract of the calf. The calf should be kept in warm, clean dry stall as cold or damp quarters are likely to induce scours or pneumonia.

ELECTORS TO PASS ON BOND ISSUE

Electors of the Chester Independent school district will vote on a proposed $60,000 bond issue for improvements to buildings at a special election to be held on Tuesday, December 14.

Decision to submit the question to a vote of the people was reached at a recent meeting of the board of education.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO HOLD MEETING

Members of the Parent Teachers' association will meet next Monday evening in the Central school building. The meeting was originally scheduled for last Monday night but was postponed owing to the banquet for the high school football team.

MINING CONGRESS DELEGATES NAMED

Governor Howard M. Gore yesterday appointed ten delegates to the meeting of the American Mining congress which is to be held at Washington, December 7 to 10. He designated the ten secretaries of the ten mining operators' associations of the state to represent West Virginia at the meeting. The call for the meeting urges a unified system of taxation laws and a uniform mining law for all the states. In addition the cost of production of coal is to be one of the foremost matters to come before the congress.

Those appointed as delegates from West Virginia are D. C. Kennedy, of Charleston; J. W. Colley, of Logan; Stanley Higgins of Mt. Hope; George S. Brackett of Fairmont; J. C. McKinley of Wheeling; W. E. E. Kopler of Bluefield; C. C. Morfitt of Welch; W. H. Cunningham of Huntington; George Brausewine of Williamston, and C. H. Mead of Beckley.

CATTLE BREEDERS TO HOLD SESSION

At the annual meeting of the West Virginia Dairymen's association, a large group of Holstein breeders met and tentatively formed the West Virginia Holstein Breeders association. These men then called a meeting at the Stafford hotel, Parkersburg on December 4 to adopt consititution and by-laws, elect directors from each section of the state, and map out a program for the next year's work.

This meeting is an important one for all Holstein breeders. The newly formed association will form a stable organization since it will receive from the National association half of all the money paid for transferring Holstein cattle in West Virginia.

Yale Seeks $3,500,000 To Endow New Library; Ready in Sept. 1928

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale University is seeking $3,500,000 to endow what is to be the largest and most complete university library in the world. Yale University has plenty of money to build the structure, work on which is now under way here, and there is a fund on hand to maintain the library physically. The $3,500,000 now being gathered is to endow the purchase of books and to maintain a trained staff.

Yale's library, costing a sum not named to a certainty, is to be ready in September, 1928, if builders' plans do not go awry. The structure will house 1,600,000 volumes at the outset, besides 10,000 periodicals coming in from every quarter of the civilized globe.

Two thousand persons will be able to seat themselves to use Yale's library books in comfort when the new place is done, and the various reading rooms will open on a street level. But the books themselves will repose chiefly in a towering structure 192 feet high and 82 feet square, an affair to be named the Book Tower.

To Improve Church Music.

A movement has been started to raise the standard of music in the Church of England to a higher degree of purity and simplicity. Speaking on the subject recently, Bishop West-Watson said: "Some of our hymns are weak and enervating, and 'Jesus Lover of My Soul,' which was popular with the English troops, could be taken as an example. It was found that the theme was almost too personal to be sung about in public." The bishop added that the hymn sung to another tune had a different force and meaning, and that some other hymns had weak words and worthy tunes.

Vienna Muffles Musicians.

Music is all right in its place, but that place is behind closed windows, declares the Friends of Music, a musical organization of Vienna. Nearly everyone in Vienna performs on a musical instrument and during warm weather the din of aspiring stars makes the place terrible for those who work or need peace and quiet, the Friends of Music told the police department in persuading the custodians of the law to make an order compelling people to close windows while playing or be subject to payment of a fine.

Prizes Offered Boys and Girls By American Crayon Company for Best Coloring of This Indian

Boys and Girls!

Here's a chance for you to win a fine prize and at the same time have a lot of fun doing it.

All you have to do is to cut out the Indian head shown here, paste it on a piece of cardboard and then color it with paints or crayons. Then send or take it to the American theatre.

Or you may take a piece of tracing paper and trace the head shown here and then color or paint the tracing.

This is an artist's idea of Chief Rain-in-the-Face, who had a lot to do with the Custer massacre which occurred 50 years ago. This massacre is the big climax in "The Flaming Frontier," the big Universal Picture Company's special production which opens an engagement at the American Theatre Monday.

First prize for the best colored Indian Head consists of a handsome painting and coloring outfit provided by the American Crayon company of Sandusky, Ohio. There are 50 paints and 50 crayons in this box in addition to water pans, brushes and one of the famous American packets for coloring. These sets make fine Christmas presents. Second prize is the same as No. 1, only a little smaller. The ten next best colorings will each receive a ticket to see "The Flaming Frontier." All drawings must be in by Monday noon.

Debts And Armament

Armament continues to be a heavy burden on the nations. It is much heavier than the indebtedness to the United States which several nations consider so grievous.

Thus Great Britain's annual appropriation for her army and navy, an American statesman points out, is more than three times her annual payment to the United States. France's appropriations for armament are more than five times as large as the payments arranged in the American debt settlement now pending, and Czecho-Slovakia's are 17 times as large.

Poland could pay her debt to the United States with her military expenditures for two and one-half years. Roumania could pay hers in 16 months.

Americans do not want the other nations to disregard their own safety or to save money on arms for the express purpose of paying it to us. But most Americans are convinced that European governments are still spending a good deal more money on armament than is necessary or wise, and would be glad to see futher reductions all around, in the interest of both economy and peace.

Inland Water Traffic

The railroad traffic in this country is so tremendous that in comparison the water traffic seems dwarfed, and is often ignored. Figures just made public by the shipping board show this traffic to be really of amazing volume, particularly on the Great Lakes.

Altogether 210,300,000 cargo tons of freight passed through the Great Lakes ports in 1925, and it is expected that this total will be surpassed in the present year.

Duluth, with a record of 45,600,000 tons for the season of 1925, ranks second to to New York among American ports. Fifteen other lake ports each handled more than 5,000,000 tons of freight.

Our salt water seaports are inclined to belittle the fresh water traffic, though it is far greater than seacoast traffic. Last year the cargoes passing through the lake ports included 82 per cent of all the coast traffic in the United States.

These facts will doubtless have considerable effect in persuading congress, this winter, to take seriously the growing demand for further expansion of internal waterways. The Great Lakes traffic might be far greater, especially if ocean shipping were given easy access to the Lakes.. The Mississippi system ought to have nearly as much traffic as the Great Lakes now have, and several of our other navigable rivers in the east, west and south ought to have as much traffic as the Mississippi now has.

Genteel Rooting

"Blood must cease to flow," remarks the Collegian of Butler College, Indianapolis. Not necessarily on the gridiron, but in the cheering section. The "rooting," this publication thinks, is too coarse and sanguinary. There must be organized cheering. But the college editor wants to know:

"Is 'Jerk a leg off, jerk an arm off, rah, rah, rah,' an appropriate yell for a school that is composed supposedly of highly intellectual eds and co-eds? Hardly. It sounds more like a yell that barbarians, uncivilized humans living in the wilderness, wuold give.

"Let us hope that in the future the cheering section of Butler will root for the team with as much vim and vigor as in the past, but with some thought as to their utterances."

Yes, let us hope so. Or let us try to. But it puts a severe strain on one's optimism. Will Butler or any other college cheer with as much "vim and vigor" if it uses genteel and ladylike war cries?

When football grows genteel and ladylike, there won't be any more football. Or at least, there won't be any more hundred-thousand football crowds. If football fans can't revert to barbarism for a little while, what's the use of paying good money to see a game?

Remedy For Lynching

Nine members of a lynching mob in Douglas, Ga., had the surprise of their lives when Judge Harry D. Reed gave eight of them prison terms and the ninth, who was mob leader, a life term in the penitentiary. They expected to go free after a perfunctory trial. The judge made this admirable statement in explanation of his course:

"Lynching is a menace to the rights and liberties of the American individual, and should be regarded so by every intelligent community. It is as much out of place in our modern civilization as would be the burning of witches.

"When a community makes public the fact that it will bend every effort to apprehend lynchers without loss of time, and mete out punishment to them, there will be few cases of lynching in that community."

Certainly that is the way to stop lynching—aided, of course, by prompt and adequate punishment of such crimes as have invited lynching in the past.

That is also the way to stop banditry. Likewise bootlegging.

You can hardly blame the Detroit authorities for ordering the police to "shoot to kill" when you see what happens at murder trials.

My Favorite Stories

THE REAL FUNCTION OF A GRAND JUROR.

What goes on behind the doors of a grand jury room is supposed to be secret but once in a while a story leaks out from its sacred precincts. A court official over in New Jersey told me this one:

One Mike Cassidy ran a saloon and, on the side dabbled in politics in the principal town of the county. On a certain night the police swooped down upon Cassidy's establishment. In an upstairs rooms the raiders found two crap games and a stud poker game in full swing. The proprietor and his patrons were hustled down stairs, jammed into patrol wagons and taken to the station house. In accordance with the custom in New Jersey and other states as well, the gangsters gave fictitious names and addresses, paid their fines and departed.

But Cassidy was held for the grand jury. The county prosecutor presented his witnesses and his physical evidence before the body and withdrew, confident that an indictment would be returned. A few minutes later, very much to his disgust, he was informed by the sergeant-at-arms that the jurors had dismissed the case. On the following day the prosecutor met a member of the jury on the street.

"John," he said, "I'm surprised and disgusted that you fellows failed to find a true bill against Mike Cassidy yesterday. I'm told in confidence, also, that you cast the deciding vote in favor of dropping the charge, and for the life of me I can't understand it. I happen to know that you're at outs, personally and politically, with that scalawag. I should have thought that of all men you would have been the most anxious to see him get what was properly coming to him."

"Well," said Johnny, "it's true he did double-cross me when I run for sheriff, and he did trim me out of some money he borrowed from me, and he's a no-acount bum; but it seems like to me you've got the wrong idea about this here grand jury business.

"The way I look at it, a man ain't on the grand jury to get even with his enemies—he's only there to protect his friends."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Fiction has made the New York detective a derbied gent with mountainous toed shoes and round hair cut. Playwrights have tossed him a penchant for incessant blundering with the crook giving him the merry ha-ha at the final curtain.

There are several types of private and hotel detectives who fit this picture. But the keen-witted men from Central Office are vastly different. There is no standard type. Some are young men given to delirium ties and rakish hats.

Others are sedately dressed and middle aged and still others are white haired, firm jawed who would look at home in a bank president's chair. When they talk with criminals they use underworld jargon but in average conversation their language is as precise as the average man's.

Any number are interested in music, painting and the arts and one is a bibleophile of no mean standing. The nature of the work necessarily gives them an aloofness from their fellows. Their job depends largely on being unknown to the public.

It is not romance that they often mingle in the most aristocratic gatherings with not even the slightest suspicion they are not guests. A number of them have followed trails around the world successfully posing as leisurely men of wealth.

The underworld's snarling hatred for a "dick" proves their competence. The public little realizes that if the detectives were grafters they could reap enormous fortunes. Any robber would split his loot without murmur to have the trail left cold.

Scotland Yard is noted for relentless pursuit. Central Office is as doggedly determined. There are detectives today working on unsolved crimes five, ten and even fifteen years old. It is an inflexible rule at Central Office that no crime is unsolved.

After the same fashion perhaps no city is such a target for abuse as New York. It is a city everybody knocks to a certain extent — even natives. There is no explaining it yet I have noticed that few who live here any length of time are happy elsewhere.

There are a million reasons for loving New York. Par example! A confused old lady was trying to cross a roped street during a fire. A self appointed guardian yelled, "Are you blind or just crazy!" and a bystander promptly stepped up and soaked him on the jaw.

To say nothing of this sign in a Seventh avenue drug store: "It is a pleasure to sell stamps to strangers as well as our patrons."

Then there are the countless women who place food on doorsteps nightly for stray and hungry cats and street workers who empty their pails and scatter crumbs for the birds.

A few reasons for not liking New York: Officious theatre box office men, ill bred pedestrians, torn up streets, early morning steel riveters and impudent taxi drivers.

Added starter: A clerk who sells you No. 11 hose when you want No. 10 and lets you find it out when you get home.

A haberdasher on Broadway shows a window display of what he calls "spatterdashes." They are what we know as spats, but I learn he is correct.

To Help Boy Footballers.

An appeal to all football clubs of England to throw open their grounds to school boys when the field are not otherwise in use has been issued by the National Playing Fields Association. The plan provides that the boys be under the supervision of a teacher who will see that no damage be done to the grounds. A number of clubs have already taken up the idea.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Qualifications of Air Pilots.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—Does it spoil your whole day to have your wife give you a cup of cold coffee at breakfast? If so, you are temperamentally unfit to be an airplane pilot, according to those charged with the selection of pilots for the Army and Navy. A successful pilot must not allow such small things to worry him—he must be able to forget them.

In the early part of the World war it was found that 90 per cent of the crashes were due to defects in the pilots themselves, three per cent to the enemy, and seven to faulty material in the planes. More rigid physical examinations were instituted and an improvement was shown in the percentage of crashes due to the first named cause.

Every candidate for the aviation service must now pass not only the physical examination, but also what is termed a neuropsychiatric examination. In other words, he is thoroughly psychoanalyzed. He is asked to give something of his family history, in order that the examining physician may in this fashion ascertain tactfully whether there has been any insanity in the family or other taint which might be emphasized by the unusual conditions with which a flyer is faced while in the air. There have been cases where acute mania and even epilepsy have first become manifest in the air. Perhaps the man had never before suspected that he had such a tendency.

The candidate's personal habits and history are inquired into, and he is asked as to use of alcohol or drugs. It is important to know whether he is subject to fainting spells, headaches, or dizziness. His dreams are psychoanalyzed and his phobias inquired into. Plainly a person who is afraid of high places would not be the proper one to pilot an airplane.

One of the most important qualifications of a potential flyer is a cheerful temperament. He must be free from worries and a man who has a family or a wife who emphatically objects to his flying will not be accepted. He must be stable and self-reliant. There must be no mental lag. A fraction of a second's hesitation between the mind's impression and the muscular coordination may result in a crash. He must be able to do the necessary thing almost automatically—there is rarely time in an emergency to think out the proper course.

Must Be An Enthusiast.

Above all the candidate must be enthusiastic about flying. The man, who when asked about his worries, replies "I am just worried that I won't pass this examination," will be accepted, if everything else is satisfactory. But the man who has financial difficulties, domestic worries, or other unsolved conflicts will be doomed to disappointment.

It is emphasized, however, that while pilots must be carefree and enthusiastic, they must not be reckless. A man who does not care what happens is not an asset to the service. As one officer put it. "If he does not care anything for his life, we do care something for some $20,000 worth of plane."

The most important physical requirement is perfect eyesight. No pilot is permitted to use corrective lenses in his goggles. It has been explained that often pilots come down from a flight with oil splashed over their goggles and before they make a landing it is necessary to take them off. If he needed his glasses in order to see to make a landing a pilot would be very likely to meet with trouble. Men who have pased both the physical and psychological examinations satisfactorily up to this point, have been turned down because of a slight defect of the eyes.

The general physical examination is very rigid and the desirable pilot is the one who is physically fit plus. The Schneider index is the method by which a candidate's circulatory efficiency is determined. It is dependent upon six factors—the reclining pulse rate, the standing pulse rate, the difference between the standing pulse rate and the rate following a standard exercise, the time for the pulse to return to the standing rate after the standard exercise, and the difference between the reclining and standing systolic pressures. An arbitrary value of minus three to plus three has been given to each varying factor with a maximum plus total of eighteen. A score of eghteen is perfect, fourteen to eighteen excellent and seven is unsatisfactory.

Examined Annually at Least.

Examinations are made of pilots at least once a year and as much oftener as is deemed necessary under individual circumstances. A very careful check is kept by flight surgeons to see that pilots are in excellent flying condition. Often they notice symptoms that are not apparent to the man himself. Above all a pilot must not be permitted to become stale and when evidence of this is indicated he is sent out to play golf, take a trip—anything to make him forget completely about flying for the time being. Ususally, it is said, it takes only a few days to restore him to normal. Aviation medicine is becoming an important phase of the medical profession and one which is being constantly enlarged.

While the Army and Navy have identical examinations for their pilots and are cooperating in every way, there has not been any way of checking the civilian flyer. In many cases a man who has been turned down by one branch of the service will go into civilian flying even

Mrs. J. B. McDonald Is Hostess at Luncheon-Bridge

Mrs. John B. McDonald of Thompson avenue was hostess to a group of friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon-bridge party yesterday afternoon. The home was elaborately decorated with red rosebuds and white pompoms, which were also used on the small tables. Places were arranged for 14 persons.

Following the three-course luncheon, bridge was the diversion. Trophies were awarded Mesdames Harry S. Russell, George Boice and Richard G. Thompson.

The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Marian McDonald; niece, Mrs. Malcolm Thompson, and Miss Ruth Manor.

The out-of-town guests were Mesdames Albert G. Mason and H. L. Deemer of Lisbon, and Amelia Patton of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. McDonald will entertain with the second of a series of parties tomorrow afternoon.

KEEP COUGHS OUT OF "DANGER ZONE"

Coughing irritates the throat and makes you cough more. The more you cough, the harder it is to stop. And a cough threatens serious trouble if you let inflammation get into your bronchial tubes. It may spread into the "danger zone"—for these tubes lead directly into your lungs.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops coughs quickly — almost instantly in spasmodic attacks. And it does far more; it brings lasting relief as its soothing, healing powers are absorbed deep down into the bronchial tubes, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

With the first swallow of Cherry Pectoral you feel its comforting warmth as it loosens up the tightness of congestion. It stimulates expectoration—Natures helpful plan for getting rid of phlegm and germs. Absorbed into the membranes themselves, this concentrated, hospital-proved medicine not only stops your cough but corrects the cause. And that is why relief is immediate and lasting.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—60c; twice as much, $1.00. 4a2c

Stops Coughing—Very Quickly Effective.

Here is the basic reason why, without opiates or chloroform, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs so quickly and heals the distressing cause. Because it combines the curative virtues of pure Pine Tar and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying demulcent effect of clear fresh Honey—a valuable combination. Coughs and throat irritations, bronchial and "flu" coughs, croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs are quickly controlled by Foley's Honey and Tar. The name tells the story. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

Central American Band Comes To Ceramic For Three Days

The original Central Marimba band, of Guatemala, makers of Victor records, will appear at the Ceramic theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday in conjunction with Paramount picture, "The Eagle of the Sea," starring Florence Vidor and Ricardo Cortez.

Coming to East Liverpool after successful engagements at the famous Biltmore and Astor hotels, New York City, this organization of natives from Central America, has a musical way that should appeal to theatregoers.

This band will offer a program ranging from jazz to classical selections.

Swashbuckling pirates aboard Spanish galleons flying the skull and crossbones, quaint New Orleans in 1820, for seventeen years under the Stars and Stripes but still a bit of the Old World; love in moonlit gardens, encounters between men-o'-war and merchant ships in the dead of night, roar of cannon mingled with a pounding of the sea—that, in brief, is a glimpse of "The Eagle of the Sea."

This photoplay, representing one of the greatest undertakings in recent years, is the first production to be made for Famous Players-Lasky Corporation by Frank Lloyd, the man who won everlasting fame with "The Sea Hawk." Aside from Florence Vidor and Ricardo Cortez, featured players; the cast is composed of such prominent artists as Andre Beranger, San De Grasse, Mitchell Lewis and scores of others.

"The Eagle of the Sea" is the romantic story of Jean Lefitte, last of the buccaneers, who with a price on his head, comes to New Orleans as Captain Sazarac. Just a few of the exciting scenes which will be shown the the capture of "The Seraphine" by Cortez' pirate crew, the abduction of Miss Vidor from an American merchantman, a mutiny of the corsairs when Cortez refuses them permission to loot their prize, and the battle between buccaneers and Spaniards which results in the blowing up and sinking of a galleon.

RHEUMATISM!
What is it—anyway?
THAT awful agony of swollen joints and inflamed muscles—that miserable pain and torturous suffering, we call rheumatism—what is it?
Here's what it is: It is the result of waste products and impurities in the blood! Impurities that get the upper hand because the system is starving for want of healthy, rich, red blood!
But you just cleanse your blood and build up the red-blood-cells and watch the rheumatism vanish! Why, S. S. S. will aid Nature put so many millions of red-blood-cells in your system that the impurities that cause your rheumatism are driven out—they can't stand pure, healthy blood.
S. S. S. conquers rheumatism! The rich, red, fighting blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build brings ease and comfort to every sore, swollen tissue in your body.
And this great S. S. S. goes right on helping Nature build more and more red cells until your whole body is tingling with life and vibrating with vim, vigor and vitality. You feel like yourself again.

Neglect of Salvation Most Prevalent Sin, Says Evangelist

Rev. O. A. Newlin, Winona Lake, Ind., Delivers Another Forcible Sermon in United Presbyterian Church.

Neglect of salvation was asserted to be the most prevalent sin in East Liverpool and the entire world by Rev. O. A. Newlin, Winona Lake, Ind., evangelist at the First United Presbyterian church last evening. Another good sized audience was in attendance.

"Young People's Night," it was announced, will be celebrated on Friday evening when all members of the Sunday school, in charge of their teachers, will attend in a body. Plans are being made to carry out special services for each meeting next week. The Personal Workers of the church held a special session at the close of the sermon.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Newlin for this evening will be: "The Unforgivable Sin."

With Mrs. Kenneth Shenkle acting as accompanist, Prof. John C. Ussher directed the preliminary music. A quartet composed of Ussher, Lee Adams, Emmett and Carl Gaston also sang.

Commenting during the Scripture lesson reading from Hebrews, Rev. Newlin said that man's relationship with God was encompassed in three words: generation which meant the latter's operation independent of the former; degredation which indicated the former's operation independent of the former and regenerate when God and man, in partnership, worked together.

He noted also the close relationship of the first question asked in the Old Testament, that of God inquiring: "Adam, where art thou?" and the initial one in the New Testament: "Where is he born king of the Jews?" The second query of the Bible, addressed to Cain: "Where is thy brother?" showed, he said, a separation for "sin," he averred, "is ever separation from God. Adam's sin was against God; Cain's against man. They manifested moral obligation to God and man."

That the Bible is the most up-to-date book in the world was affirmed by Rev. Mr. Newlin at the outset of his discourse. "I always marvel at the freshness of its contents. To me it seems to have but been written yesterday." Quoting the words from Hebrews: "We ought to give the most earnest heed to that which we have heard lest we let them slip," he asked. "Do not these sound as if just written?"

He declared the hearing of so many things these days caused little to be permanently retained. "Thus we cultivate the habit of forgetting," he suggested. "When but a single sermon was heard in months during circuit rider days the thoughts therein were gone over so often as to make a remaining impression."

His text was the interrogation: "How shall he escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" He affirmed that many thought in towns of degrees of sin.

Ghost Failed to Appear.

Will an Italian ghost appear before an Englishman, or are Sir Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge all wrong? These are questions put before Crompton Wood, a member of the British Parliament, who has been recuperating on the island of Ischia, Italy. He and his wife occupied a castle that was feared by the natives as being haunted. None of their servants would remain in the castle and the aged couple were left there alone. An all-night vigil failed to reveal any spirits of the departed, however.

RED NAVY NOW STRONGER THAN ALL NEIGHBORS

Soviet Admiral Says Russian Fleet Excels.

MORALE IS O. K.

Black Sea Nations Cannot Match Moscow Forces.

MOSCOW—The Red Navy is stronger than the fleets of all its marine neighbors combined, declared Admiral Muklevitch, commander in chief of the Soviet sea forces in a speech to the Communist Youth International on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the Youth International's patronage over the Red Fleet.

The Admiral's statement is the first in years to give any estimate of the comparative strength of the Red Navy. In all discussions of disarmament, the Soviet government has declared that it considered its minimum armament for defense should equal the combined forces of its neighbors. Muklevitch's declaration reveals the fact that the Soviet navy has already passed this minimum.

Baltic Fleet Mighty.

"Our Baltic fleet is mightier than all the fleets of the Baltic countries taken together, including Germany," said Mulkevitch. "And this notwithstanding the fact that Germany has recently built several new ships, and that the Baltic states proper are feverishly busy with naval construction.

"We can say the same of our Black Sea Fleet. It is stronger than the fleets of all the Black Sea countries combined."

Muklevitch praised the "high technical efficiency" of the Red Navy, saying that the Soviet program of restoring the ships inherited from the Czar had been successfully completed.

Morale Satisfactory.

He declared the morale of the crews and officers was highly satisfactory, ascribing this in large part to the fact that fifty percent of the personnel belongs either to the Communist Youth International.

There are many former Czarist officers in the Navy. They number 18 percent of the whole, said Muklevitch.

"But we must safeguard these ex-Czarist officers," declared the Admiral. "They are valuable specialists. They are loyal to us, are honestly serving the Soviet power, and if necessary they would die for it."

though it is known that he is in some way unqualified to be a pilot. Under the new division of aviation of the department of commerce, however, a method of controlling civilian pilots is being worked out. Under this plan it will be necessary for these pilots to obtain licenses, and in order to do this they must take an examination which, if not identical, will be similar to that given service pilots.

A flight surgeon must know the pilots intimately and observe them daily in order to be able to detect the first signs of deterioration. A Navy surgeon recently said: "The greatest psychological factor in getting close to a pilot is flying with him or his squadron, experiencing his emotions and strains, as well as sharing in his enthusiasm. An unusual comradeship exists between personnel undergoing the same hazards and on short or extended flights the flight surgeon renders a subsconscious sense of security and is present to detect the first signs of the physical or psychological abnormal."

Civilian physicians have been urged to take up the study of aviation medicine, since special training is necessary in order to be qualified to select, classify, and care for flyers. The number of commercial airlines is being constantly increased, and the safety of both passengers and freight carried by commercial planes depends largely upon the fitness of the pilots. The government is doing all in its power to make aviation safer, but the civilian can aid by doing his bit.

HAD CATARRH OF STOMACH; HELPED BY INDIAN TONIC

Cleveland Woman Tells of Her Husband's Quick Relief.

Redwood, the great Indian herb specialist, says it is becoming better known every day that roots, barks and plants are the best medicines to treat stomach, kidney and liver ills.

Redwood

Joseph Brathowitz and his wife, 3937 W. 22nd St., Cleveland, Ohio, are among the many who thoroughly believe in Redwood's theory. Mrs. Brathowitz said recently. "My husband had catarrh of the stomach. It was hard for him to keep any food whatever on his stomach. He had backaches and headaches and was very nervous. His health was miserable.

"He tried Redwood's Tepee Tonic and felt better after he had taken one bottle. He now sleeps good and has a fine appetite. All of the soreness has left his stomach. He has gained in weight and has a good color."

If you don't feel good try Redwood's Tepee Tonic. It has helped others and it will also help you. Sold and recommended by Carnahan's Drug Store in East Liverpool and by other well stocked drug stores everywhere.

For any make of car anywhere safe, low-cost protection against freezing

A DOLLAR'S worth of Pyro today may prevent twenty dollars' worth of repair bills tomorrow.

For it will freeze hard tonight. You must have an anti-freeze in your radiator.

Pyro is so much better than any other anti-freeze that 40% of all the cars in the United States used it last winter. It's the one anti-freeze that can be put in every make of car with safety. No clogging of the circulating system—no rotting of hose connections—no leakage through the gaskets—no corrosion of metal parts.

You can't buy equal safety cheaper—you can't buy greater safety at any price. The Pyro Proportion Chart shows how much Pyro is needed to give you complete protection at any temperature. Ask the garage man for your copy.

Stop at any garage or filling station tonight. Ask for Pyro and look for the blue-labeled Pyro drum. Have the garage man fill your radiator with the right mixture.

Take home a gallon can of Pyro, too. Then just add Pyro and water from time to time to take care of evaporation. It's no more trouble than putting in water alone.

Pyro Denatured Alcohol is sold in bulk from drums bearing the blue Pyro label. Also in convenient gallon cans. Keep a can of Pyro in your garage

A Pyro-Meter tells you in an instant whether you have enough Pyro in your radiator. If your garage cannot supply one send us $1.00 and we will mail it promptly. U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., 110 E. 42nd Street, New York

DAYS OF WOOD AS PHILIPPINES GOVERNOR NUMBERED

THOMPSON HOME AFTER SURVEY, MAY BE NAMED

Wadsworth and Stimson of New York Also Considered.

ALL WAR VETS

Ohioan's Report Said to Urge Appointment of Civilian.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
(Copyright, 1926, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The turbulent days of Leonard Wood as governor general of the Philippines are numbered.

His retirement has been definitely decided upon by the Coolidge administration, it was learned today, and consideration is now being given to the selection of a successor.

Three names are being considered: Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, recently defeated for re-election.

Col. Carmi Thompson of Ohio, who has just completed a survey of the islands for President Coolidge.

Col. Henry L. Stimson of New York, secretary of war in the Taft administration.

Other names have been suggested, but it is this trio that are receiving major consideration. All are veterans of the Spanish-American war. All have a more or less intimate knowledge of Philippine affairs, and all are "available" in that they are generally acceptable to party leaders and are now politically at liberty.

Thompson's Recommendations.

Col. Thompson's report on his three months' investigation of affairs in the islands will be laid on President Coolidge's desk shortly, if it is not already in his hands. It is understood to make three prime recommendations:

1.—Appointment of a civil rather than a military governor.

2.—Removal of the islands from control of the war department to a civil department, such as the department o the interior.

3.—Revision of some of the native laws, particularly one which limits any corporation from holding more than 2,500 acres of land.

The first two are designed to remove some of the friction between the Filipino leaders and the American administration of the islands, due to the severity of some of Gen. Wood's policies and actions.

The recommendation concerning the land laws is intended to open the way for American capital to go into the islands and start development, particularly of rubber, on a large scale. So long as a corporation is limited to 2,500 acres of land nothing can be attempted on a scale big enough to attract American capital.

Praises Administration.

Col. Thompson's report, it is understood, will praise Gen. Wood's administration, and probably in making his recommendations to congress for a change in Philippine policy President Coolidge will pass along this praise. There is no desire on the part of the administration to humiliate Wood nor to criticise his turbulent career a military over-lord of the islands. Nevertheless, it is an open secret in Washington that much of the trouble in the islands is privately attributed to what for want of a better word is called "Wood's military "brusqueness." He has been in almost constant conflict with the native leaders and politicians. It is also well known that a change in the governor-generalship of the islands was imminent just before the death of President Harding.

It is not that officials in Washington sympathize particularly with the native politicians who have been warring with Wood, for they do not. It is rather that they feel "an unfortunate situation" prevails in America's farthermost possession and that it should be corrected.

Neither Senator Wadsworth nor Col. Thompson are said to be anxious for the post.

Wadsworth "Ideal" Candidate.

Senator Wadsworth is regarded as an "ideal" candidate for the job. He has been chairman of the military affairs committee of the senate for six years, and as such has come to have a fairly intimate knowledge of Filipino affairs. In addition thereto, he is independently wealthy, has a flair for public service, and is personally so popular that even his Democratic colleagues in the senate expressed private regrets over his recent defeat. In the opinion of those who are urging his appointment, this quality of graciousness and popularity alone should make him ideally available, for it will take a governor-general with some such qualities, they contend, to get along with the native leaders and remove some of the irritations of the Wood regime.

Wadsworth, however, wants to run for the senate again in 1928, and that isn't far off.

Col. Thompson is also regarded as an acceptable candidate by all factions. He probably has a better first hand knowledge of the affairs of the island than any other available man, due to his extensive tour of investigation just completed. His friends say, however, that he is not anxious for it, for he has large business interests in Cleveland that would make it awkward for him to leave.

Col. Stimson is said to be an avowed candidate. Since his retirement from the Taft administration he has run for the governorship of New York once and was defeated. He is said to be desirious of getting back into public service.

cannot point to the celestial mine whence genius comes.

THE world has seen many amazing things, from the Colossus of Rhodes to the Falls of Niagara. The most amazing is the touching faith of womankind.

Mrs. Hall, widow of the murdered clergyman and accused of his murder, knows that his body was found with that of Mrs. Mills, a choir singer. She has listened in court to letters in which the reverend clergyman, writing to the choir singer, spoke of himself as "babykins."

Yet Mrs. Hall testifies that she is not sure that her husband was unfaithful.

TUNNEY, heavyweight champion, giving a harmless boxing exhibition in a New York theater, is arrested. In the same city men knock each other senseless, one or two have been killed by blows in the prize ring, and the "legal fights" are arranged so that plenty of blood may be spilled to delight the crowd.

Nothing puzzling about Tunney's arrest. In this stage exhibition there is no graft for anybody.

THE head of King George comes off Irish Free State coins. On one side of the new coins there surely will be an Irish harp, for the other an Irish product—a salmon, a hare, a skillet—are suggested.

Why not put the head of some Irish fighting patriot, perhaps Robert Emmet, hanged as a felon 123 years ago?

Six Others Narrowly Escape Death in Toledo Blaze.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 2.—Three firemen were injured and six other persons narrowly escaped death in a fire here today, which was attributed by police and the state fire marshal's office to the firebug who has spread a trail of flames and terror here for several weeks.

The fire wrecked the home of Carl Zeigler, his daughter, Mildred 20, a university student, discovered the blaze. Zeigler was rescued after he had become overcome by smoke and is in a serious condition. Firemen also carried out George Cole and Mr. and Mrs. George Fremouth, all unconscious from breathing smoke.

The state fire marshal's office, alarmed at the havoc spread by the firebug today ordered out a force of men to aid Assistant Police Chief Jennings and a squad of 16 policemen who have been detailed to catch the firebug.

more for a finger of Mr. Hall than she did for his whole body."

Refers to Sale of Letters.

"Mrs. Mills," he continued, "was a wife, gentlemen, who slept in the attic of her home and who avoided all association with her husband. Jim Mills read the love letters to his wife from Mr. Hall, having found them in her scarf. He is a husband who says:

"I made a hell of a house for her, when they quarrelled about Mr. Hall.

"Shortly after the murder, Jim Mills finds the love letters to his wife and the diary and sells them for $500. He profited by his wife's dishonor.. He sold them for 500 filthy dollars to a newspaper and proclaims to the world that his wife in an adultress"

McCarter said that Simpson "in ghoulish glee' had cast a slur on the birth of one of the defendants.

"If that charge was made below the Mason and Dixon line he would have been knocked down," said McCarter. "If the administration of justice has sunk to this level, I thank God that I am old-fashioned."

Case Calls Prosecution "Nasty."

McCarter turned to the jurors with these concluding remarks:

"Shall these people of high standing, who have been brought to trial, be convicted on the evidence of this riff-raff of criminality?"

"It lies with you, gentlemen, to free this family from the stigma of heartless persecution which was done simply as a means to further political aspirations."

Senator Clarence E. Case, tall and spare, with a clear, resonant voice, began his summation at 10:55.

He characterized the prosecution in this case as "nasty, unfair, unjust and vindicate. He said he "despised" the methods used by Simpson.

Cites State's Essentials.

Case's voice thundered as he declared that the persons who found the bodies — Raymond Schneider and Pearl Bahmer—were not brought into court by the state to testify.

"As I see it, there are two essentials to the state's case," he declared. "The first is this so-called card, said to have been found at Dr. Hall's feet.

"The other is the evidence offered by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the pig woman.

"How did that card get there? I'll tell you. I believe that Raymond Schneider rifled that body, and he took the watch and the fob and the money, except the loose change.

"Assuming that he had nothing to do with the murders, he went through Dr. Hall's pockets, and he rifled the card-case and threw it on the ground. The contents of that card-case were spilled on the ground. And Detective Totten's identification of that card is the only one we have. And Mr. Totten identifies it by the fly-specks on it."

Cards with fly-specks were scattered all over the ground near the body, said Case. He impugned the authenticity of the state's cad exhibit "S-17."

"Why didn't they bring Schneider and Miss Bahmer here so we could cross-examine them?" he asked.

Reads Mrs. Hall's Letter.

Case said the state refused to present a map of the scene of the crime as it was four years ago. If they had, he added, the defense would have made Mrs. Gibson show the various places "she claimed she passed," and "prove the falsity of her various stories."

"Why did they try the murderer of Eleanor Mills separate from that of Edward Hall?" he asked. "The facts are identical. It is intimidation they are trying to indicate to these defendants that they might be tried again if acquitted this time."

Case took up Mrs. Hall's letters to Henry Stevens. He read one of them, and urged the jury to read them.

"In these letters," Case told the jurors, "you will see the outpouring at a woman's heart. Don't think that because this woman is reserved, because she doesn't wear skirts up to her knees, because she acts like a lady and doesn't wear her heart on her sleeve, that she is cold, hard. She is a lady, she acts the way you would like to see our women act. She is a lady."

IN MEMORIAM.

In fond remembrance of a beautiful Christian character, Mrs. Alice M. Pittenger, who departed this life Dec. 2, 1925. Her devotion to her Lord and His church, to her husband and children is the inheritance that the passing of time only makes more precious and sacred.

RUM RUNNER, WITH KIDNAPED AGENTS, FLEES

Arsene J. Believed Nearing Havana or Nassau.

ESCAPES IN GALE

Fear Captives Have Been Foully Dealt With.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—The French rum runner, Arsene J., with two kidnaped prohibition officials aboard, was believed nearing Havana or Nassau today.

No trace of the schooner which put to sea after overpowering Assistant Prohibition Administrator J. B. Matthews and a machinist's mate, has been found since she escaped in a gale Monday, Commander J. L. Brookway of the coast guard cutter 302 reported by radio today.

Commander Brookway informed O. D. Jackson, chief dry administrator for his district, that in the 40 hours since her escape the Arsene J., has had ample time to reach either Havana or Nassau. A report that the cutter 302 had overtaken the schooner only to lose it again when a tow line broke was found to be untrue.

Meanwhile fear was expressed here that Matthews and the machinist's mate met with violence at the hands of the nine or ten men that comprise the Arsene's crew.

Receiver is Named For Coal Company in Oil Dealer's Suit

Alexander Fraser has been appointed by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones as receiver for the Martin-Kaul Coal company of East Liverpool, upon application of Frank J. Jones of the Ohio Valley Oil company, who seeks to collect $116.65 which he claims to be due for oil and gasoline. Bond has been fixed at $1,000.

The petition recited that the company is not doing sufficient business to meet its obligations and that a foreclosure of its leases in Yellow Creek township is threatened because of the company's inability to meet royalty payments.

The petition was filed by Attorney Ben L. Bennett, counsel for Jones.

Insurgents Plan To Force Extra Meet of Congress

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Republican insurgents will force an extra session to consider farm relief before allowing appropriation bills to be acted upon, Senator Brookhart, (R) Iowa, indicated today.

"We hope to have an extra session declared and I wish to have it considered before appropriation bills," said Brookhart, who, with other insurgents, now holds the balance of power in the senate.

Spare Tire Stolen From Sedan Parked On Fourth Street

Miss Wilma Zang, 1102 St. Clair avenue, reported to the police today that some one stole a spare tire and tube from her Chevrolet sedan, while it was parked on Fourth street last evening.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Moderate advances in the specialty stocks and a few of the industrials and oils featured the early trading in the stock market today. Atlantic Refining jumped an additional 3 points to 112½.

The call loan rate of 5 percent was a fractional improvement over yesterday's opening rate.

Allied Chemical advanced briskly in heavy trading to 144. Industrial Alcohol, General Asphalt, Corn Products and Westinghouse were firm. The move in oil stocks gained momentum in the second hour, when buying demand appeared for Producers and Refiners, Skelly, Pure Oil, Simms and Phillips.

Motor stocks were slightly reactionary, and industrials inactive in this period, while only a small number of the "dividend rails" appeared on the tape.

Commodity prices were firm, with the exception of cotton which declined to new seasonal low price levels.

ONTARIO ROLLS UP MAJORITY FOR RUM SALE

Premier Intimates Flow Will Begin Before Christmas.

BITTER BATTLE

Sections Near United States Border are Especially "Wet."

OTTAWA, Canada, Dec. 2.—The province of Ontario, with more than a thousand miles of its boundary line touching the United States, today is "wet" under government control of the sale of liquor by an overwhelmingly large majority, as the result of yesterday's general elections.

Premier Howard Ferguson, leader of the victorious Conservative party, intimated that before Christmas the flow of "wet goods" would be started legally throughout the province.

The result of the election after one of the most terrific political battles ever waged in the staid old province, is as follows:

Conservative, 74.
Liberal, 14.
Progressives, 11.
Liberal Progressive, 5.
Independent Liberal, 4.
Labor, 1.
Prohibition, 1.
Two still in doubt.
Total, 112.

Ferguson Government Wins.

One of the surprises of the campaign was the failure of the rural riding of the province to go "dry" and the success at the polls of the Ferguson government was complete from one end of the province to the other. In all areas in the vicinity to the United States the "wet" vote was heaviest. Windsor, across from Detroit, rolled up a big moist majority, as did the Niagara area in the vicinity of New York state and Buffalo.

As the result of the outcome of the Ontario vote but three Canadian provinces now remain "dry." They are New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and already it is announced that this trio are ready to go to the people in the immediate future on a government control of the liquor question election.

It is estimated by Ontario political chieftains that thirsty residents of the United States will in 1927 spend in the neighborhood of $4,000,000 in the province of Ontario.

Toronto elected 15 "wet" members, the Canadian capital three and so the voting went across the entire province.

Every Ferguson government cabinet member with but one exception was retained.

Thieves Loot Home Of Bishop Hartley; Flee With Jewels

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—With fingerprints serving as a clue, city and private detectives today are searching for the thieves who stole jewels worth thousands of dollars, from the residence of Bishop James J. Hartley here.

The robbers, believed to be professionals, took a gold cross, given the bishop by Pope Pius X; two gold rings with amethyst stones, a gold watch, a woman's white gold ring, set with diamonds, a gold cloth with a cluster of diamonds in the center, and an ancient gold dollar, octagonal in shape. In the pectoral cross were 12 diamonds, set in the center; a ruby at each of the four arms, and sacred relics of the saints.

All being gifts, Bishop Hartley was unable to set definite figures in valuing the stolen property.

$1,000 in Jewelry Stolen From Room In Detroit Hotel

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—The theft of jewelry valued at $1,000 from a room in a downtown hotel was reported to the police today by Mrs. George A. Ford, of the Inverness club, of Grand Rapids, registered at the hotel yesterday. A bag containing the jewelry disappeared while the woman went out of the room.

"CASCARETS" FOR BOWELS, STOMACH, HEADACHE, COLDS

Clean your liver and constipated bowels to-night and feel fine

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

HOSPITALS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Plans for the formation of a West Virginia hospital association will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of hospitals from all over the state to be held at the Kanawha hotel Monday, December 6.

A call has been sent to all hospitals and sanitariums in West Virginia asking them to co-operate and and to send delegates to the meeting.

There are about 100 hospitals in the state, having a total of 3,500 beds and it is thought that greater progress will be made if these institutions work in unity instead of individuality as at present.

EDUCATORS HOLD MEET IN CAPITAL

Training for teachers and high school curriculum, were the subjects discussed at the conference held at the state department education yesterday between Dr. Frank P. Backman, of the general education board, Rockefeller foundation, New York, and George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, Dr. J. N. Diehl, of the university and other officials of the department.

A number of problems connected with West Virginia high schools were brought up by Robert Clark, of the state education department, who outlined a plan for making the curriculum more mandatory rather than elective.

LAY CORNERSTONE ON DECEMBER 11

Cornerstone of the new Wells school building being erected on the site of the old Kenilworth gorgrounds will be placed in position on Saturday afternoon, December 11, it was announced today.

The ceremonies will be in charge of the West Virginia Grand lodge of Masons and members of the Chester Masonic lodge.

Bringing up Children

"MY sisters, my sister-in-law and myself all have families, and for years we have all given our children Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. We have recommended it hundreds of times and think it just wonderful, not only to bring up children but for ourselves. At the slightest sign of stomach trouble, colds, constipation and when out of sorts, a dose or two is all they need. Truly, it is a family medicine and the stitch in time that saves nine." (Name and address sent on request.)

Constipation, Colds, Coughs, Fevers and Other Perils of Childhood

One dose and mother's anxiety is lifted. The sickest stomach craves the taste of Syrup Pepsin. From infancy to old age the result is certain. Droopy, listless, feverish children respond as if to magic. Headache, stomachache, biliousness, coated tongue, constipation—these are the daily perils for which a host of mothers say Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the safeguard. Sold and recommended by all druggists.

747 BILLS OF SALE RECORDED

During November 747 bills of sale and sworn statements of ownership were filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. The fees collected for filing these instruments totaled $186.75.

There were 93 new court actions placed on the appearance docket during November, the highest for any month during the current year. More than one-third of these cases were actions in divorce.

Sixteen cases were placed on Wednesday; the first day of the new month. Of these, 12 petitions were for the sale of property to cover delinquent taxes.

Injunction Granted.

A temporary injunction has been granted by the court on the supplimental petition filed by Emmett E. Longbottom in his action for divorce from his wife Bertha L. Longbottom. No bond was required. The last entry made in this case was of July 24th last, when temporary alimony was granted the defendant. The action has been pending since May 25th, last.

To File Answer.

Leave to the defendants to answer at once has been given by the court in the case of William J. Wiggers as administrator in his action against John Penkava and others. This is an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, and was filed on the record March 2nd, 1925.

Alimony Order.

Victor Lowsha of West Point, who filed an action for divorce against his wife in common pleas court late last week, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 as temporary alimony, and also $5 per week during the pendency of the lawsuit.

Case Dismissed.

Because the costs in the case have not been secured, the petition in the suit of Della Greno and Joseph Greno against Ray Moore and Jane A. Moore has been dismissed. The court has rendered a judgment against the plaintiffs for the costs of the suit.

Divorce Action Filed.

Through her counsel, Brookes and Thompson of East Liverpool, Thelma A. McCullough has filed an action for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Charles A. McCullough, whose whereabouts at this time are unknown to the plantiff.

The couple were married July 26, 1920. Gross neglect of duty for over a period of three years is charged in the petition.

Suit Instituted.

In a petition filed in common pleas court by Maney & Cayre, Inc., of Geneva, N. Y., the clam is set up that there is due it from W. J. West and A. G. West, doing business as West Brothers of Damascus. The exhibit attached to the petition shows the clam of $284.13 is due for nursery stock shipped the defendants by the plaintiff.

Judgment Renederad.

A jury was waived and a trial was had before Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court No. 1 in the case of the Security Finance company, of Iowa City, Iowa, against F. E. Sitler of Columbiana. Judgment for the plaintiff for $496.27 was handed down, and also for the costs in the action.

SKINNYMEN
THIS BEATS RECORD

He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks—Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed.

Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees with them that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—it upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. Mathews Medicine Store and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawney places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes: "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 60 tablets for 60 cents. Insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

JUDGE IS CHOSEN FOR WELLSVILLE MURDER TRIAL

Thomas D. Price is Assigned to Lisbon Court.

JURORS DRAWN

Seventy-five Witnesses for Inquiry Into Kenney Slaying.

Judge Thomas D. Price, of New Lexington, Perry county, will hear the trial of Nick Scaccuto, Wellsville, indicted by the last grand jury on a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of Patrolman James Kenney.

Judge Price has been assigned by Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the state supreme court, to assist Judge W. F. Lones during the week beginning Dec. 20.

The assignment was made at the request of Judge Lones, and the visiting jurist will be assigned to court room No. 2.

The 75 prospective jurors drawn in the Scaccuto case are being served with summonses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and E. J. Fitzgerald.

While no intimation has been made as to the number of witnesses that will be summoned in the case, the opinion is expressed that not less than 75 will be called by both the state and the defense.

"LOSING GAME" REVIVAL TOPIC

"Father and Son" Night at Evangelical Services.

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night spoke to a large audience at the "Mother and Daughter" night observance. His theme was, "What It Means to Know That You Are a Christian."

"Father and Son" night will be observed at services tonight. "The Losing Game" will be Rev. Frye's subject.

For his sermon last night, the evangelist chose his theme from St. John, "And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God and Jesus Christ, whom Thou has sent."

He said:

"Many people quote this text by saying this is life eternal that ye may know Him aright. The word aright is not found in scripture.

"To study the life and character of Christ is most facinating, Jesus Christ is above all men for He was divine He was holy."

The great central theme is not water baptism, nor communion, nor church membership, but Christ, Himself.

"The question is, do you know Christ, in the power of His resurrection- 'He that saith I know him, and keepeth not his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him.'

Do you know him? When you don't keep the Sabbath day holy, when you neglect the church, the mother that gave you your spiritual birth"

"When women are on the outs and have an unforgiving spirit the revival cannot be a success, such as it might have been. And if you don't get rid of that unforgiving spirit you will never be forgiven.

"You will never be used of God to save couls if you won't speak to your neighbors. If you don't love you don't know God. Read I John 4-8. 'He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love.'

"Oh, how many revivals are barred and held up because somebody harbors and nurses a grudge with a hateful spirit which says 'I'll get even with you, I'll pay you back in your own coin; and yet profess religion.'"

HALF-MILL CUT IN TAX RATES IN EFFECT HERE

Decrease in City Requirements is Responsible.

NEW RATE 28.20

School District Needs Boosted This Year.

Wellsville taxpayers will be given the benefit of a half-mill cut in 1926 payments under the 1925 rate, according to figures announced by Miss Jo Pike, county treasurer.

The 1926 table shows a corporation tax of 28.20 mills, or $28.20, on each thousand dollars valuation. The former rate was $28.70.

The decrease of the half-mill was due chiefly to the fact that the city was able to effect a cut of approximately three and one-half mills for 1926, inasmuch as fewer bonds will be coming due and sinking fund requirements, consequently, are less.

Had all other taxing processes held to last year's taxes, city taxpayers would have received the benefit of a three end one-half mill cut, but school requirements necessitated a jump of 2.40 mills over last year's figures, and this together with a boost in the county rate brought the saving down to a half-mill.

Schools were voted an additional mill this year, along with a continuation of the three-mill levy that had been in effect, and, in addition, must pay off bonds that were issued under provisions of an act of legislature which permitted the board to raise funds for the payment of current expenses.

Yellow Creek township taxes show an increase, the figures being 21.80 for 1926 and 20.30 for the previous year.

Other tax rates on territory in the vicinity were announced as follows.

Madison township—New rate, 15.30; old rate, 13.80.

Madison school district No. 1—New rate, 17.80; old rate, 15.50.

Madison school district No. 2—New rate, 19.80; old rate, 16.50.

Monroeville school district—New rate, 21.20; old rate, 19.10.

Salineville school district—New rate, 24.00; old rate, 19.50.

Salineville corporation—New rate, 24.70; old rate, 23.20.

Summitville school district—New rate, 22.30; old rate, 17.40

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

No Engine Fumes in Buick closed cars

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

Is Cow or Motorcycle Guilty.

Is a mtorcyclist or a cow at fault when the two meet, is a question before the magistrate of Te Aroba, N. Z. Robert Troughton, a farmer, sued William Jackson for $500 damages alleged to have been caused when he collided with Jackson's cow. Jackson counter-claimed $260 for his pedigreed heifer killed by the motocyclist. Troughton says Jackson is guilty of negligence in allowing the cow to roam the road, while Jackson claims that Troughton drove the machine carelessly and if he had kept a proper lookout he would have seen the cow. So the magistrate is scratching his head in preplexity.

NORTH DAKOTA JOB THREATENS G. O. P. PEACE

May Result in Democrats Organizing Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—With Republican control of the seventieth congress trembling in the balance, a political faux pas by President Coolidge today threatened to disrupt the carefully nurtured peace negotiations between administration leaders and the insurgent bloc in the senate.

Just as peace apparently had about been restored among the Republicans in congress, it was learned, the president named Colonel C. F. Mudgett, a political foe of both Senator Lynn J. Frazier and Senator Gerald P. Nye, to the office of United States marshal in North Dakota. The appointment was made at the solicitation, it was said, of former Governor L. B. Hanna, who opposed Nye in the recent primary and who has fought Frazier for years.

The president's action, it was learned, brought to a temporary halt the trend of peace in Republican ranks on Capital Hill. Unless the break can be repaired, the Republicans will face the possibility not only of losing their paper control of the seventieth congress but perhaps of watching the Democrats organize the new senate with the resultant possession of all committee chairmanships.

Both Frazier and Nye have voiced strenuous opposition to Mudgett's appointment. Their friends have urged them to oppose confirmation of the appointment. If either should carry his fight to the extent of refusing to help the Republican organize the new senate, the Democrats would win control.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

Through an exchange of telegrams with the stage manager, Julian learned that the troupe would arrive at San Diego on the Sunday afternoon. Twice, after a lonely luncheon, he drove out along the Imperial Valley highway in hopes of meeting the trucks, even waited an hour on the Grossmont heights above El Cajon, which elevation commands a wide reach of country. Finally he parked the olive roadster by the Plaza opposite the U. S. Grant hotel and sat there watching the brightly dressed street crowds. Sailors and marines walked with girls, two and two, or sat on the benches under the semi-tropical foliage. Touring cars rolled in to the hotel entrance with the crowds from the races at Tia Juana, just over the Mexican border. There were handsome women and girls, and men with soft hats and with full faces that appeared to be fitted around big cigars. Some of the men and a few of the girls were drunk and had to be quieted as they were led within.

Though the sun had not set, the white arch of a picture theater across the street blazed out in half circles of electric light. Julian began to wish that the dusk would come. He felt unhappily conspicuous in the new car and wearing the gray knickerbocker suit. They'd wonder. In a measure he'd have to explain. He had failed, too, at Hollywood, in striking that blow for Hester. They hadn't so much as let him begin striking. And he'd have to confess that to Sadie. Yes, he botched that, as, it appeared he botched everything. Everything real, that was. Everything that had to do directly with men and women and the human struggle. "I'm just a ghost," he muttered aloud. "Just an ineffectual ghost. You could stick a finger right through me. I wouldn't be there." Then he glanced about to see if any of these hundreds of foreign beings had heard. They seemed foreign beings to him, if congenial to one another. All save him had a sense of belonging . . . to the place, to the nation, to one another. But none had heard, "They wouldn't care if they had," he said, aloud again. "Nobody'd care."

A shiny new touring car came slowly around the corner of the big hotel. He glanced at it and away. But then he looked again. A glimpse of some familiar object had caught the attention of a vagrant inner eye. These objects were red bandannas worn usually about the heads of the actors as well as the actresses of the troupe to protect the hair from dust and wind. Lester was driving. Beside him sat in full dignity Mr. J. Murry Watt. And some of the girls were there. He heard a shout, and shrank back in his seat as the irrepressible Sadie ran excitedly through the traffic. She never wore anything on her short hair, but let it blow. She flung her arms about him and gave him an unabashed kiss, then drew off and looked at him, at his natty suit and cap, his neatly trimmed hair, and at the olive roadster. "Why, Julian!" she cried breathlessly, "how wonderful! How on earth—"

Grace Appleby had crossed by this time. She, too, kissed him, but more casually. They took all that sort of thing, these exciting people, as a matter of course. It was curious.

Lester was wringing his hand. Mr. Watt waited for a pause in the traffic and then strode across.

"My dear young friend," he began, in his stateliest voice, "my partner, indeed. It is a pleasure too long deferred . . ."

All were talking. Apparently he was their hero, their savior. It was difficult to understand. And very confusing. They didn't care who heard them, even when a few pedestrians gathered on the sidewalk. They loved being conspicuous. It was their life. He hated it.

"Did you see our new car?" cried Grace, pointing across the street. Sadie broke in with, "But first look at this gorgeous roadster! Julian, its wonderful."

A red box of a truck rumbled around the corner. He saw the familiar red and yellow lettering. The light truck followed. They pulled up at the curb by the hotel. With a whoop of deight, more young men and women dashed over at the risk of their necks, most of the men in khaki shirts and rough knickers and those bandannas, the girls in gay smocks and dust coats of blue and orange. The noise was now a clamor. Were they wholly mad? Did they propose to hoist him to their shoulders? It was awful. His mournful eyes were looking this way and that for Hester. She wasn't yet in sight. His nerves were on edge. When she did appear he'd only lose his head, too. He knew that.

He saw a pair of long legs flinging down from the tailboard of the light truck, then an extremely good looking young man who laughed easily and surely as he reached up and lifted Hester down. She was dusting off her tan coat. The youth said something, and both looked over. He saw the color leave her face. For a moment she stood motionless, holding to the truck with one small hand, perhaps steadying herself. The youth moved around to the front of the truck. Finally Hester inclined her head, and faintly smiled. She didn't move to cross the street, but seemed hesitant. She turned, slowly, toward the entrance of the hotel.

"Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He did forget himself. With a mumbled apology he leaped down from the car and ran over there, fumbling in his coat pocket. The others merely smiled a little and moved back across the street. As he ran dimly heard an automobile horn and the shriek of brakes quickly applied, but didn't swerve from his course. His heart was full.

Hester saw him coming, hesitated again, then walked directly on into the hotel. He stopped, amazed, at the curb, tightly gripping a small parcel. She disappeared.

The others were laughing and chatting again, but he hardly heard them. He wandered back across the street and stood, bewildered, by the roadster. A sailor and a girl were walking slowly by, a tall sailor in flaring blue trousers with a white cotton hat on the back of his head. The girl was pretty and clung to his arm. The first dusk of evening was settling here under the trees that lined the sidewalk.

Julian tore the wrappings from the little box and stared at it.

"Here," he addressed the sailor, but had to clear his throat before he could go on, "here, give her this!"

The pretty girl shrank away. The sailor bristled.

"Give her this," said Julian again, out of a white face. "I don't want it. Take it!"

But the sailor hurried his girl away. Julian felt a hand on his arm.

"For Heaven's sake!" It was Sadie's voice. "Have you gone off your nut, Julian?"

He fixed his intense eyes on her. She hadn't before seen him look like this, and was stirred. "I don't know but what I have," he said slowly. "Here, Sadie, you take it!"

"But, Julian, what . . ."

"Open it!"

"Oh, Julian, dear, a bracelet? Why it's beautiful! But you . . ."

"Keep it!"

"Dear, I can't do that! Why—"

"If you don't, I'll take it down and throw it in the harbor!"

Sadie put it on, and giggled happily. "How perfectly wonderful, dear! It's platinum. And diamonds! But you really . . ."

"I don't see that it matters what it is." He was staring across at the huge impersonal front of the hotel.

She looked over there, too, then up at him. He was trembling.

"Are you coming over?" she asked timidly. It wasn't a question.

"I don't know what I'm going to do."

"You are crazy about her, aren't you, dear?"

"Yes, I'm crazy about her. I'm just damn fool enough to be."

They stood again in silence. Sadie was twisting the bracelet round and round on her wrist, looking down at it, thrilling over it. She hadn't dared dream of owning diamonds. Real diamonds. They suggested other things . . . furs, and exquisite gowns. Her imagination blazed. Then she looked up at him again. His expression hadn't changed. A worried look stole into her eyes. They sought the bracelet again, then the trim little car—all of that she caught at a glance, the spread eagle on the motometer, the plate glass and balloon tires, the costly upholstery—and finally they rested on his handsome new suit.

"The crowd will want you in there, dear," she suggested.

Kearns Sending Former Welterweight After Middle Crown

Walker To Make Bid For Old-Time Fame

Ex-welter Champ, Who Early Last Summer Blew His Crown to Latzo, Will Take Shot at Tiger Flowers Tomorrow Night.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—In mid-victorian fiction, it was the last chip, flung desperately in the pot, that changed everything, including some of the proprietor's very best bank notes; made a new man of the boy friend and lifted the mortgage on the old blacksmith shop. But we deal not with the late eighties but with modern Chicago where men are marksmen.

And so it may be that the latest bid of Jack Kearns and Mickey Walker for the fame they once knew is fated to be their last.

There is an old gambling axiom that you never win when you need it.

Walker, said to have thrown off some of his premature age, will meet Tiger Flowers, the colored gentleman from Georgia, at the Chicago Coliseum tomorrow night in a bout for the middleweight championship, and, off hand, the writer would venture that Kearns needs this one more than the average man needs a windpipe. A manager without anything in particular to manage is not far from obscurity.

There is a lesson in human fallibility somewhere in this proposition. Two years ago, Kearns had everything, including the world's heavyweight champion and one of the most popular boxers the welterweight championship has known. A turn of the wheel and all was gone.

Dempsey married, Walker, standing with his hat in his hand took the middleweight title from Harry Greb, took a beating and then survived the Dave Shade issue only because the judges pulled one out of the hat. Early last summer, he blew the welterweight title to Pete Latzo and, in trying to come back, was stopped by Joe Dundee.

Kearns, now, only had a shouting privilege with Dempsey and an ex-champion who couldn't win. It was a question which was of less value to him.

However, Walker was young and his dissipations were not serious, except for a piping rock exterior that included a comedian's vest. There still was a chance for the young man to see the error of his ways and perhaps Kearns has made the most of it.

Anyhow, the writer will say that for him; few managers, past or present, could have jockeyed an ex-champion into a title match in another class within six months of his official decapitation, as Kearns has done with Walker. Say what you will, Jack Kearns can talk his way in anywhere and out again if he doesn't like it.

Just how much he may have done in reclaiming some of Walker's lost ability will be answered tomorrow night. Mickey got the match by smacking Shuffle Callahan down, which is being done by our best people, and men whose judgment is above reproach have informed me that he stands an excellent chance of winning from Flowers. That may or may not be.

Flowers is neither the best nor the worst champion who ever held the middleweight title. He is hard to beat and probably is in better condition than he was last year. If Walker is right, it will be a great fight. If he isn't it will be nothing of the kind.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

The golf swing isn't nearly so difficult as many golfers seek to make it. For instance, you might adopt and follow a practice long followed by many good players, of raising the left hand travel up to a level with the right ear. This is especially good with the irons and it will quickly move you into a full upright swing. That is, start the club straight back from the ball a few inches and then, standing squarely on your feet and with no body turning whatever, let the left arm reach out until it reaches straight out from your body. At that point break the club upward with the wrists and at the same time lift it upward with your arms. Keep your head anchored. This, you will find, will leave your arms and shoulders wonderfully free for action at the top of the back swing, while about the hips and legs there will be a feeling of tightness.

'IT'S ALL BUNK,' ASSERTS TRANT

Dempsey's Body-guard Scoffs at Poison Rumor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Mike Trant, Chicago detective sergeant, but more famous as the personal bodyguard of Jack Dempsey, today poo-pooed the story that Dempsey had been poisoned prior to entering the ring for his title bout with Gene Tunney.

"It's pure bunk," said Mike, indignantly. "Wasn't I there just for the purpose of protecting the champ, and who will say that I fell down on the job?"

Trant admitted that although Dempsey was not his old self when he entered the ring, he was sure he had not been poisoned or otherwise the victim of foul play.

FORBES IS STAR IN HOCKEY CLASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Jakie Forbes was being hailed today as the hero of last night's hard fought hockey battle between the Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Americans. The diminutive New York star was mainly responsible for his team holding to a 2 to 2 tie after two extra ten minute periods. In all he handled about fifty-eight chances.

RODEBAUGH WINS FROM HERBERT

Rodebaugh pulled out with a victory in a close match last night with Herbert in the American Billiard parlor tournament. Rodebaugh copped a 100 to 93 decision, but it was close all the way.

Johannes and Eisman will clash tonight with Johannes taking on Smith in Friday's tilt.

WINNIPEG BEATS ST. PAUL ICERS

WINNIPEG, Mann., Dec. 2.—Winnipeg hockey fans were happy today over the showing made by local skaters in beating the tough St. Paul team of the American Hockey League two straight games. The Maroons annexed their second victory last night by the score of 4 to 1.

REDS MAY BUY COLUMBUS TEAM

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Baseball fans here today were optimistic in the expectation that within the next ten days, owners of the Cincinnati Reds will purchase the Columbus team of the American association.

Decision to mail their final purchase price offer to Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago, owner of the local club, accompanied by a certified check, was made by Garry Herrmann, Cincinnati, and other owners of the Cincinnati team, during a conference with Joe F. Carr, president of the Columbus Senators here late Wednesday.

Wilson, it was reported, fixed $125,000 as the sale price for the Columbus franchise.

Sherry Cops Mat Match.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 2.—Jack Sherry, Alaskan-Indian wrestler, won from George Walker, Canadian, in a two-fall match Wednesday night. Ray Carpenter defeated Charley Lehman in 22 minutes; Casey Berger won from Young Holcomb, Chillicothe, in 12 minutes, 40 seconds; Paul Turner threw Clarence Grace in two minutes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASH TONIGHT

St. Stephens and Christian cage teams of the "Y" Sunday school league will battle tonight on the St. Stephen's court.

The game will get under way at 8 o'clock. Joe Canne will be the referee.

County High Teams Furnish Customary Assembly of Stars

Salem, County Championship Outfit, Draws Five Berths on First Squad; East Liverpool Four and Wellsville Two.

MARKED by an abundance of strong, versatile linemen from tackle to tackle, plenty of brilliant, flashy halfbacks, but a startling scarcity of outstanding ends and capable fullbacks, Columbiana county scholastic football teams, however, can offer their customary quota of stars as the open season on all-star teams gets under way.

No all-star team is anything more than a product of personal opinion and inasmuch as the pickers usually see none of the teams, outside of their own provinces, more than once, it is entirely possible to overlook in the rush some player who is an outstanding performer in every other game but that one, perhaps.

Salem won the Columbiana county championship by rolling up decisive scores over all other county opponents and for this reason perhaps, should be given the edge in glory.

On the above All-County selections five Salem men qualify on the first team; four East Liverpool players are given berths; and two from Wellsville complete the squad. These three teams were outstanding this fall.

There is rarely a season in which there is an abundance of outstanding material in every department and the 1926 campaign was no exception. Noticeable first of all was the scarcity of real ends.

East Liverpool could have contributed at least two had not circumstances conspired to prevent. Dick McKee began the year as an end, but his forward passing was needed in the backfield and after several games at the flank post, he was shifted to halfback. McConville could not have been kept off an end post had he been able to play out the season. Injuries kept him idle, however, for three or four games.

Coach George Kidder, of the local eleven, agrees that the two Salem wingmen are possibly the best in the business this fall. Rush and Campbell consequently are delegated to the respective end jobs and local grid followers who saw the game at Salem will concede that this pair were big factors in the damage done by the Quakers.

Their forte is collecting passes. The aerial attack of the Salem eleven overshadowed any other means of attack at their command. The Quakers won every game. By this line of reasoning it is evident that there must have been some one on the job to get those passes. Campbell and Rush are the lads who got them, or most of them, anyway. Salem was a stronger offensive team than it was defensively.

Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, are nominated as second-team choices. Lynch was a disturbing factor in the appearance of the Browns here early in the season. English contributed a number of good performances.

The tackles are Older, of Salem, and Hepp, of Wellsville. It would be difficult to oust them. Both are veterans and both, it chances, were the captains of their respective teams. They played an all-around brand of football, both on offense and defense.

Thorne, of Wellsville, and Todd, of East Liverpool, are given the guard berths. Here is another pair of "naturals," at least to the south county viewpoint and, by the way, northern county experts are missing half the season when they fail to see East Liverpool and Wellsville in action in a Thanksgiving battle. Thorne was an imposing figure in the Wellsville line here Turkey day. Todd was probably the Blue's outstanding lineman, with one exception.

The exception is Dick Larkins and with this name the printed word is likely to attempt to run riot in an orgy of enthusiasm of a degree that can't be placed in black and white. One of the greatest leaders the Blue has ever had—without doubt the greatest center in Columbiana county and possibly in eastern Ohio—one of the coolest field pilots on scholastic grids—a keen diagnostician of opposing plays, brainy, and—a real sportsman—all of that and more is Dick Larkins. Too much can't be said for this youth who last week closed his scholastic football career.

Sidinger, of Salem, is probably the best of a small lot of good quarterbacks. He qualifies as a good general, probably the best all around kicker in the county, and is something of an adept at line plunging.

To Pusey, of East Liverpool, and Harsh, of Salem, are assigned the halfback positions. The former is probably one of the lightest ball toters in the conference but is one of the slickest customers in football togs that fans have watched for some time. Despite his lack of weight, he punched the line and ran the ends with the rest of them. But he achieved his greatest triumphs probably on the receiving end of the forward pass. Harsh was the outstanding member of the Salem back quartet and was qualified along lines similar to those in which Pusey excelled.

Bromby, of East Liverpool, is the fullback. He was probably the lightest fullback in the county but it had no effect on his driving power. Bromby plowed holes through such forward walls as Akron East, Toronto, East Palestine, Wellsville and other teams this season in slashing style. He won the East Palestine game almost single handed. He could punt and he could hurl the forward pass. His versatility, consequently, places him in the front rank.

The second team is one that probably could give the first place stars something of a battle, at that, with Lynch, East Palestine, and English, East Liverpool, on the ends; Schmid, Salem, and Switzer, Columbiana, at the tackles; Lemly, East Palestine, and Irwin, East Liverpool, at the guards; and Matthews, Salem, at center; Provost, Wellsville, at quarter; McKee, East Liverpool, and Dolan, East Palestine, at halves; and Irons, of Wellsville, at full.

The second team backfield probably lacks the fire and snap that would characterize a quartet such as Sidinger, Pusey, Harsh and Bromby, but could not be outdone in consistency.

Pumpkin, Seven Cigars, Keg of Nails Used In Vote Hunt

Independent Democratic Candidate for Senate From Illinois Narrowly Escapes Making Congressional History.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—If James H. Kirby, independent Democratic candidate for the senate from Illinois this year, had been elected he probably would have made congressional history in Washington.

Kirby filed with the senate today one of the most unusual accounts of campaign expenditures and activities that has ever been spread on the records.

He frankly listed his occupation as "politicics—state, national and international," and gave his campaign expenses $472.39 1-2.

Included among the numerous items of campaign expenses were:

One can of pumpkin—25 cents.
Seven "two-fer" cigars—32 1-2 cents.
Two kegs of nails—$181.62.
Wear and tear on automobile—$200.
Hotel expenses "including all tips"—$50.
Barber bills, April 13 to Nov. 2—$310.

Kirby explained that when at home he always "shaved himself and cut my own hair."

There was no explanation of the pumpkin and nails.

SPEAK FRENCH IN "LA BOHEME"

Lillian Gish Plays Role of "Mimi" at American.

Obtaining "atmosphere" in motion pictures sometimes takes a queer form.

In "La Boheme," the much-heralded new starring vehicle of Lilian Gish, now playing at the American theatre, actors and directors spoke nothing but French during the filming of the story—thus keeping in the absolute spirit of the colorful story of the Paris art colony.

Miss Gish plays the tragic role of "Mimi," waif of the Quartier Latin, whose story is known to millions through the famous opera. The play is based on the Henri Murger novel, of which the opera was an episode.

John Gilbert is seen as the romantic poet Rodolphe, Mimi's lover, while Renee Andoree portrays the vivacious "Musetta," who, in the opera, sings the "Musetta Waltz." Others in the cast include Roy D'Arcy, the "crown prince" of "The Merry Widow;" Edward Everett Horton, Karl Dane, Gino Corrado, George Hassell, Frank Currier, Eugene Pouyet, Rosita Marstini and David Mir.

King Vidor, director of "The Big Parade," directed the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin; bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

British Empire Antique Dealers Being Forced Out of Business

LONDON.—Fear that the antique dealers of England will be forced out of business in the next twenty-five years because all the antiques will be in the homes of American millionaires is expressed by Thomas Rohan, one of England's best known art and antique dealers, in his third book on antikues, entitled "Old Beautiful."

"No English dealer can compete with the dollar," writes Rohan in describing how Americans cable to dealers to get a certain article "price no object."

"In twenty-five years' time there will be but few dealers in antiques left in England," he says. "Even today the establishments which thrived upon reproductions during the past fifteen years are closing their doors because it is becoming common knowledge that works of the craftsmen of the eighteenth century are exceedingly scarce in England."

Penetrates to the Sore Spot

Relief in a Jiffy

A LAME back, a strained muscle or aching joints will stop paining and become natural if you will apply a little of that old-fashioned liniment known as Mexican Mustang. Because of its magical penetrating action—it goes through the outer layers of the skin without burning or a trace of blister, right to the sore spot. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Keep it in your home ready for use. You will not be disappointed with Mexican Mustang Liniment.

CERAMIC BOOKS SHOW OF MAGIC

Blackstone and His Company Here on Dec. 9-10-11.

East Liverpool is to have three days of magic. Blackstone, the world-traveled magician and his big company of wonder-workers will come to the Ceramic theatre, starting Thursday, December 9, with an extra matinee Saturday.

Magic is the oldest form of amusement. The ancient Egyptians performed magic. In India, magic has held sway for thousands of years. It was performed and is performed today as a religious rite. The ancient Chinese were adept in the art of mystification. That this old art is as popular today as at any time in recorded history is attested by the fact that Hermann amassed a fortune at its practice. Kellar, who followed him, retired, a comparatively young man, a millionaire.

Blackstone, the latest of the great magicians, has made two complete tours of the world with his company. Since Blackstone's return from his latest visit to the Far East, he has been appearing in the principal cities of the west to capacity houses.

Magic is very much alive and will continue to live for the reason that the public like to be mystified and baffled. Notwithstanding the fact that magic had its inception in the Orient, the Anglo-Saxon is the best magician.

Africa's Coal Cheapest.

Paying coal bills in Africa is easier than in this country, for it has the cheapest coal in the world, and the seasons for stoking furnaces are much shorter. Accessibility of the mines and the large number of native workers make the cost of mining small, and the popularity of the inexpensive fuel has grown until production now is three times that of twenty-five years ago.

Much Sugar Found in Corn.

In a bushel of corn there are approximately thirty-four pounds of starch, and depending upon what the market demands the amount of sugar extracted from this starch varies from a few pounds to all of the thirty-four. In actual commercial practice only eight or ten pounds of sugar are taken out of the average bushel of corn today, but the entire thirty-four pounds of starch could be converted into sugar if necessary.

A proven treatment for COUGHS

WHEN you take PERTUSSIN to relieve your cough, you are taking one of the most widely used and effective cough remedies, known to every practising physician and pharmacist.

It is a most satisfactory treatment for all harmful coughs, because (1) it quickly relieves the cough spasms, (2) it soothes the inflamed throat and bronchial tissues, (3) it is absolutely harmless and, (4) most important of all, it helps Nature to hasten recovery by clearing the air passages of germ-laden phlegm.

Sold by all druggists in large and small bottles.

CHAPLIN LOVE BREAK HINTED

Charles and Former Lita Grey Have Separated.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 — Charles Chaplin, film comedian, and his wife, the former Lita Grey, have separated.

As the aftermath of a disagreement at the Chaplin home Monday night, when Chaplin entertained a number of guests, Mrs. Chaplin took her two children and went to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Curry.

Neither Chaplin nor his wife would discuss just what occurred on the night Mrs. Chaplin decided to take their two children, Charles Spencer, Jr., and Sidney Earle, to the home of her grandparents.

Mrs. Chaplin today did not deny that she had left her husband's home. Chaplin also admitted that his wife had left their home.

"Mrs. Chaplin has taken the children with her," he said. "I have asked that she and they return."

Rumors of a separation between the film comedian and his wife have been current in Hollywood circles for many weeks, but both had denied that such an action was contemplated.

Mrs. Chaplin recently returned from a trip to Honolulu. Before going she said the trip had no significance, that she still loved her husband and that no separation was thought of.

The Chaplins were married on Nov. 25, 1924, in Mexico.

The former Lita Grey was Chaplin's second wife. He had previously been married to Mildred Harris, also a motion picture actress. They were divorced.

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.
